LEAGUE ENVOYS HEAR VIVID TALE OF WAR HORROR

China Tells Her Side of Dispute.

TOKIO, March 16 (Wednesday).—(AP)—The government announced today that it had approved "in principle" a tentative agreement for a Sino-Japanese armistice reached on Monday at a Shanghai conference between the Chinese and the Japanese with neutral mediators present.

SHANGHAI, March 15.—After talking about the Sino-Japanese war for six months and theorizing over methods of settlement, the league of nations finally came into direct contact with the actual situation today when the Lytton investigating commission sent here by the league council began listening to China's side of the story.

MAYOR WU TEH-CHEN.

The commission, which spent ten days in Japan listening to her side of the argument, arrived here yesterday with 220 pieces of baggage, which some Chinese officials looked on as an indication that the members had been recipients of Japan's world famous hospitality, which includes the presentation of souvenirs. Among the members of the commission is Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, representing the United States.

China Demands Showdown.

Mayor Wu Teh-chen of the Chinese municipality of greater Shanghai, without mincing words, went to the heart of the situation today and asked the commission whether the league is now prepared to translate its numerous resolutions into some form of action.

"We refuse to believe that brute force can triumph over justice," Mayor Wu declared. "The Japanese occupation of Manchuria and the invasion of Shanghai are a challenge to the sanctity of treaties. China is prepared to cooperate to the utmost limit with the powers in upholding justice and maintaining peace.

"Instead of having the pleasure of showing you over the prosperous and growing new suburbs of Shanghai, I am compelled reluctantly to conduct you on a tour of inspection through miles and miles of devastated areas, where you can see for yourselves how thoroughly the Japanese war machine has accomplished its mission of wanton destruction.

Women and Children Slain.

"Japan has not declared war on China, but you will see a sight which will remind you of the scenes following the world war.

"The Japanese swords, rifles, and bombs have spared neither women nor children, strong nor infirm. By bombing unfortified areas, populous cities and even attacking the camps of flood refugees and noncombatants, Japan violated all the sacred principles which civilization has built and has torn to pieces the treaties to which she solemnly affixed her signature.

"While we are talking here Japanese troops still are occupying districts far beyond the 12½ mile limit they set for the Chinese to withdraw to. The Japanese, despite the fact that the Chinese troops were ordered to cease hostilities, are daily landing reinforcements and extending their military operations."

Launch New Peace Move.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, March 15.—As a result of negotiations engineered by the United States and Great Britain, China and Japan are ready to enter into negotiations within the next two or three days for the withdrawal of the Japanese troops in the Shanghai area.

It is learned that a meeting was held in the presence of Sir Miles Lamhson, British minister, between Quo Tai-chi, Chinese vice minister of foreign affairs; Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese minister, and other delegates, and it was agreed that the Japanese troops should be gradually withdrawn and the Chinese troops should abstain from entering the evacuated territory.

Under this agreement China abandons the point that Manchuria must be considered simultaneously with the Shanghai problem, and Japan abandons the point that the status of Shanghai must be fixed prior to her withdrawal.

One Chicagoan to Pay U.S. Tax of $1,227,212

The deadline for the filing of income tax returns arrived at midnight last night, with the usual last minute rush at the Federal building. It was estimated that 15,000 persons filed yesterday, in addition to many more thousands who placed their returns in the mails before midnight to escape penalties.

For the first time since the income tax law went into effect, in 1917, no figures were made public at the Chicago office of the bureau of internal revenue on total collections to date and the number of returns filed. In contrast with the policy of his predecessors in the office, Collector Gregory T. Van Meter went home early in the evening. His assistants declared they were given strict orders not to release any figures, although a report was being prepared for telegraphic transmission to Washington.

Predict Record Low Total.

Since no tabulations were available attachés of the collector's office were unable to estimate how the first quarter collections would compare with those of previous years, but some clerks who have been in the office since the income tax law was passed predicted a record low year.

The taxpayers' rush to file was about as heavy during the last two days as in past years, but this was believed due to the fact that fewer checks were mailed in on account of bank closings.

Also, a far greater number of nontaxable returns were filed this year, according to deputy collectors.

Chicagoan to Pay $1,227,212.

One Chicagoan, however, apparently has not felt the depression. He filed a return on which he will pay a total tax of $1,227,212. This was said to be one of the highest individual income taxes ever paid in Chicago, and it indicates a gross income of more than $5,000,000. The highest corporation income tax this year was $2,255,348, of which only the first quarterly installment was paid for the purpose of saving interest.

Last year $30,504,859 was collected up to the closing time for filing returns and 149,200 returns were filed up to the deadline. In 1930 the collections at midnight on March 15 were $37,213,973, and the returns 153,700. In 1929 the collections were $42,674,040 and the returns 152,200.

Treasury Sees 800 Millions.

Dispatches from Washington said that treasury officials, on the basis of early returns, predicted that the 1931 income tax collections would not exceed $800,000,000. Not more than 2,000,000 returns were expected, as compared with 2,500,000 for 1931.

Taken by fiscal years, receipts for the year beginning last July 1 were not expected to exceed one billion dollars, a decrease of approximately 800 millions from the total for the previous fiscal year.

Indications were that the 1932 fiscal year income tax collections would be the lowest of record, according to the Washington dispatches. The total dropped to 1 billion 600 million in 1923, and the peak was 2 billion 410 million in 1930.

ROB ALDERMAN; CAPTURED WITH HELP OF RADIO

Ald. William A. Rowan of the 10th ward early this morning saw how the police radio flash system works. He and a friend, Arthur W. Woodman, of the Universal Atlas Cement Co., 208 South La Salle street, were held up by two robbers, one white and one colored, in front of the Rowan home at 10741 Avenue B.

From Rowan the bandits took $20, his aldermanic star and his overcoat. Woodman gave up a $500 ring and his overcoat. The robbers fled in a red sedan.

Rowan notified the East Side police and a radio alarm went out. A half hour later the robbers were arrested in the red car at 67th and State streets by Lieut. William Gaynor and his squad from the Englewood station. The overcoats, the aldermanic star, the ring and the money were recovered. The prisoners are Walter Dahl, 43 years old, 5758 Grace street, and Singleton Nolle, colored, 20 years old, 4705 South Dearborn street. Rowan identified them.

Registration Adds 231,704 to Poll Books

Registration day placed 231,704 names on the poll books yesterday and swelled the unrevised enrollment to 1,643,839, the largest in Chicago's history. The books are subject to revision Saturday, and the election authorities estimate that between 150,000 and 200,000 names will be struck off.

1931	126,065	1,465,392	1,412,135

Ward.		Ward.
1	19,834	26	24,701
2	63,612	27	32,516
3	33,726	28	31,179
4	35,702	29	34,046
5	52,196	30	38,365
6	44,745	31	27,765

19	32,971	44	32,723
20	29,141	45	32,967
21	23,821	46	33,515
22	24,027	47	40,433
23	22,105	48	38,142
24	30,150	49	44,747
25	17,634	50	34,930

Yesterday's crop of new entries on the poll books was just about as large as the spring registration two years ago in 1930, and it was 80,000 less than in the last presidential year of 1928.

Due to the new wards, comparative figures of the new enrollment are impracticable, as boundaries were changed and precinct books were shifted from old wards to new ones where necessary.

Some 6,000 Democratic workers spent the day combing the wards for voters of Democratic tendencies who have moved since last registration day, while the Republican workers put on no organized drive. Late last night Democratic managers held that their party had the advantage in the new enrollment.

CONVICT BARES PLOT TO KIDNAP LINDBERGH BABY

Quiz 2 About Plans Laid in Prison.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—A jail-born plot to kidnap the 20 months old son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh in which the name of Betty Gow, the Lindbergh nursemaid, was mentioned, occupied the attention of detectives here and in Jersey City tonight.

High police officials said the part dealing with Miss Gow had been "definitely disproved," but the authorities continued their efforts to link the plot with the actual abduction of the baby two weeks ago tonight.

Meanwhile, Mrs. C. Leandro Lightfoot of Highland Park, N. J., told investigators she believed the wood in the ladder used by the kidnapers and the chisel found on the ground outside the nursery of the Hopewell, N. J., home had come from her residence.

Servants Disappear.

The chisel and the wood, Mrs. Lightfoot said, had been used for packing a set of bedroom furniture. They were missing from her home a few hours after the kidnaping. At the same time, the woman reported, two foreign born servants whose behavior had aroused her suspicions, suddenly left her employ and disappeared. Mrs. Lightfoot's home is about 28 miles from the scene of the kidnaping.

The action of the servants and the loss of the chisel and wood were reported to the police, Mrs. Lightfoot said, but they showed little interest.

Most of today's activity centered about an investigation on the present whereabouts of known and suspected kidnapers and spread from Chicago to Florida.

Plot to Aid Capone Seen.

Meanwhile, from Philadelphia came a theory credited to a "city official" that the baby had been kidnaped by Al Capone henchmen for use as a lever in prying their leader out of jail.

The plot, according to his story, was first directed at the two grandchildren of President Hoover, but later was changed because it was thought the 20 month old Lindbergh child would be just as effective a hostage and his abduction would not be as difficult as that of the President's grandchildren.

This information is common knowledge in the underworld, this official stated, and it is also known to the Pinkerton detectives, who have been hired by Col. Lindbergh, and Morris Rosner, Lindbergh's contact man.

Eight persons were declared to have done the actual kidnaping. From an obscure shack in the Sourland mountains they watched the Lindbergh family for weeks. One of the group met Henry [Red] Johnson and got information from him, though Johnson was unaware of their purpose.

Trailed Colonel to Estate.

The story is that a car trailed Col. Lindbergh to his estate on the night of the kidnaping. The informant declared the baby has never been more than 15 miles from his home.

The story of the jail born plot against the Lindberghs was told by Charles Oliver, alias Fitzgerald, an inmate of the Welfare Island prison. Oliver was questioned secretly a week ago in the Tombs prison by Rosner.

This afternoon, on the strength of Oliver's story, William Gleason of Cliffside, N. J., described as a Chicago hoodlum, was taken into custody

Murray Trails in Race for Presidency

BULLETIN.

Fargo, N. D., March 16 (Wednesday.)—(AP)—Returns from 160 precincts out of 2,235 give for Democratic presidential preference Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, 3,989; Gov. W. H. Murray of Oklahoma, 2,280. Returns from 107 precincts for Republican presidential preference give Gen. Jacob S. Coxey of Ohio 1,006; former Senator Joseph I. France of Maryland, 1,634; President Hoover, 18.

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

Fargo, N. D., March 15.—(AP)—A heavy Democratic vote in this normally Republican state characterized today's North Dakota presidential primary election, but results were shrouded in uncertainty with only meager returns available several hours after the closing of the polls. In early returns Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, led Gov. W. H. Murray of Oklahoma in the Democratic race by 1,400 votes.

A heavy invasion of the Democratic primary by the Republicans, who saw a better fight in the Democratic primary contest than they could muster in their own party, was apparent. From all parts of the state came word that a record vote for a presidential primary had been cast and that there was a big demand for Democratic ballots.

Many Local Elections, Too.

The proposed constitutional amendment to move the capital from Bismarck to Jamestown appeared defeated by a wide margin, with returns available from 141 precincts.

Just when results will become definitely known remained uncertain. Four years ago it required two full days to gather returns. Today there were votes to be tabulated for 68 candidates in addition to five state issues. In many communities local elections also were held.

Democratic Vote Gains.

In Fargo out of 8,105 votes cast 2,150 were Democratic, about 25 per cent. Four years ago only about 13 per cent of all votes in Fargo were Democratic.

Anamoose, in McHenry county, is an illustration of the demand for Democratic ballots. It cast 110 ballots of that party, while it cast only ten such ballots four years ago.

Mississippi Elects Congressman.

Natchez, Miss., March 15.—(AP)—L. Russell Ellzey, Democrat, superintendent of Copiah Lincoln Junior college at Wesson, Miss., today won the seat in the house of representatives made vacant by the death of Representative Percy E. Quin. He polled about 2,000 votes over his nearest opponent, Chancellor R. W. Cutrer of Magnolia, in a special election in the Seventh congressional district. Returns from the ten counties with 33 scattered precincts of the 161 missing gave Ellzey 7,077 votes and Cutrer 4,675 votes.

HOAN IS WINNER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., March 16 [Wednesday].—[Special.]—Mayor Daniel W. Hoan, Socialist, and Ald. Joseph P. Carney, Nonpartisan, will be the candidates for mayor of Milwaukee at the election April 5.

Complete returns from yesterday's primary election early today showed that they had eliminated the three other candidates for the nominations by a wide margin.

WET LEADERS MOBILIZE TO SWEEP NATION

Anti-Dry Majority in House Predicted.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—Encouraged by the expected strength the anti-prohibition movement developed in the house yesterday when 187 members voted for consideration of a state liquor control amendment of the 18th amendment, wet leaders were busy today on plans for carrying the November election for prohibition repeal.

A wet majority of the next house is virtually assured, according to the wet leaders, whose object is to achieve not only a majority but the two-thirds vote essential to submission of a constitutional amendment repealing or modifying the 18th amendment.

Based on Dry's Figures.

The prediction of a wet majority in the next house is based upon figures furnished by Representative Ralph F. Lozier [Dem., Mo.], chairman of the census committee, who is a dry. Mr. Lozier said that under the reapportionment of congress the cities will gain between 30 and 40 members, provided that states in whose representation changes concur are redistricted.

Inasmuch as urban districts are invariably wet, the anti-prohibition leaders are counting these 30 to 40 votes as a prospective wet gain in the next house. A change of only 21 votes on the roll call yesterday would have given the wets a majority. That the tide of public sentiment is running strongly against prohibition is asserted by the wets and as strenuously denied by the drys. The extent of the reaction against Volsteadism revealed by such tests as the Literary Digest poll moves many wet leaders to prophesy a wet landslide in the November election.

Both the wets and the drys are organizing for a terrific battle at the polls. The Anti-Saloon league has undertaken a replenishment of its war chest, admitting in its appeal for funds that the preservation of the 18th amendment is at stake. The Crusaders, militant wet organization, has perfected plans to organize a battalion of workers in every congressional district in which there is any chance at all of electing a wet representative and of making a fight for the nomination and election of wet candidates.

Fight for Wet Planks.

The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment is also planning to make a fight for the nomination and election of wet candidates for the house and the senate, but is specializing more particularly at present on the promotion of the adoption of wet planks by the Republican and Democratic national conventions.

Both of these wet organizations are complaining that their efforts are being hampered by lack of funds. Organization for political action requires a lot of money and the wets have not been blessed so far with even a small part of the 50 millions the drys expended to put over prohibition.

While these larger plans pertaining to the November election were being forwarded, the wet leaders in the house were preparing to force the fighting on additional measures aimed at the Volstead regime.

Britten Fights Jones Law

It was learned that Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] intends to introduce tomorrow a bill for repeal of the Jones "five and ten" law, which was passed in 1929. This act stiffened the penalties for violation of the Volstead law, increasing them to five years in prison and $10,000 fine, or both. Mr. Britten confirmed the report of his intentions.

"Congress ought to undo as speedily as possible the harm it has done," said Mr. Britten. "The horrible effect of the Jones five and ten law runs parallel with 'the life for a pint' and similar inhuman laws that have been enacted in Indiana, Michigan and one or two other states. Inhuman is a mild adjective to apply to these laws which never should have been placed on the statute books of any government, state or national.

"They remind one of the feudal times, when those who sought to exercise the right to worship their God in their own way were subjected to the most excruciating forms of punishment, including death. Laws of this kind, of which the Jones five and ten act is a modern example, are enacted only during periods of uncontrolled bigotry and intolerance.

"I shall introduce a repealer of the Jones five and ten act and press for its passage in every parliamentary way, and if need be submit a petition for discharge of the committee in order to bring the measure before the house."

Next Test on Tax Bill.

The next showdown of wet and dry strength will occur during the consideration of the pending tax bill. The wets will press for the adoption of the Cullen amendment providing for the legalization of 2.75 per cent beer and the imposition thereon of a tax of $5 a barrel, which it is estimated would yield 350 millions or more than half of the estimated yield of the manufacturers' sales tax. It will be offered as a means of reducing the sales tax to which there is so much opposition.

The wets are withholding action on the O'Connor-Hull beer bill pending action on the Cullen amendment. The O'Connor-Hull bill proposes amendment of the Volstead act to legalize 2.75 per cent beer, providing that the beverage shall be sold only in bottles, shall not be consumed on the premises and shall be taxed at the rate of 3 cents a pint. Representative William E. Hull [Rep. Ill.], estimates that this tax would produce a revenue of 500 millions.

Mr. Hull said today that if the Cullen amendment should fail of adoption a petition will be submitted for signature on April 7 requesting discharge of the judiciary committee from consideration of the O'Connor-Hull bill.

Senate Test Soon.

There are a number of anti-prohibition measures pending in the senate but they are all bottled up in committees. Senator George W. Norris [radical Rep., Neb.], chairman of the judiciary committee, though himself a dry said he would not oppose a test vote on the senate floor and predicted there would be one before the end of the session. Senator Millard Tydings [Dem., Md.], contemplates offering a beer amendment to the tax bill when it reaches the floor of the senate.

The roll call yesterday, which showed nearly half the Republicans and more Republicans than Democrats supporting the anti-prohibition resolution, gave great impetus today to the demand for a wet plank in the Republican national platform. More than one dry Republican leader confessed privately today that the party will be compelled to adopt some kind of a plank squinting in the direction of resubmission of the 18th amendment.

A majority of the President's cabinet is now said to be in favor of a resubmission plank, and various administration leaders have been trying their hands in devising a declaration that will be wet enough to satisfy the wets without alienating the drys.

One proposal is that platform declare for resubmission when a majority of the states shall petition congress for such action. Another suggestion is that the party declare for resubmission on terms to be laid down by congress. Neither is acceptable to the drys.

Hoover on "Hot Seat."

There are conflicting reports of President Hoover's reaction to the house vote yesterday. One caller at the White House reported the President deeply impressed by the showing made by the wets. A close associate of the President, however, averred that Mr. Hoover has not changed his view that the country is still preponderantly dry. This authority vouchsafed his own opinion that it would be politically fatal for the President to recede from his dry stand in the slightest and thereby sacrifice the support of the drys.

Many Republican leaders, however, are confident thatthe President will interpose no bar to the adoption by the convention of a plank that is "wet within reason." A repeal plank is not regarded as "within reason." The expectation is that the resolutions committee will reject a repeal plank and that the fight will be transferred to the floor of the convention with some wet leader such as Representative James M. Beck of Pennsylvania leading the wets and Senator William E. Borah of Idaho championing the dry cause.

New York Jubilant.

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—New York wet leaders were jubilant today over the anti-prohibition strength shown in yesterday's vote in the lower house of congress. Preparations were under way on all sides to "go after" congressmen blocking the way to a popular referendum. "Let the people say," was the demand from every quarter.

One of the most active working organizations is the Crusaders, a fighting unit, which is already operating on a nation-wide scale. According to George E. Dickie, the eastern manager of the organization, its first concern now will be organization in the districts of congressmen who took the dry side in yesterday's vote, with a view to replacing them.

Mr. Dickie pointed out today that every one of the nine congressmen elected in special elections since the first of last year has been an avowed wet, even including the newcomer from the "bone dry" state of Texas.

"The people are letting the world know where they stand on this important question every chance they get now," Mr. Dickie submitted. "The thing is now to elect a congress that will give them the 'say' on the repeal of the amendment."

Solon Takes Up Gauntlet.

In one big New York upstate district, Mr. Dickie said his organization had served notice on the congressman that if he voted against the resolution the Crusaders would bust him at the next election. He voted dry and the fight is on.

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, head of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform was out of the city tonight but Mrs. Courtlandt Nicoll, vice chairman of the organization, said that its members were delighted with the result of the vote.

"I have analyzed the list of those voting for and against the Beck-Linthicum resolution," she said, "and cannot help but be curious as to how many of the gentlemen who opposed it adhere personally to the prohibition law."

Lawyer Urges Fight.

"It is highly gratifying to think a test merely of the strength of the wets and drys should have resulted in a difference of forty votes. This indicates that when a vote is taken on the merits of the question of giving the people a right to express themselves even more votes will be mustered."

Frederic J. Coudert, Jr., who headed the voluntary lawyers' committee to defend those arrested under the Jones 5 and 10 law, declared that the "first thing to do is to continue the effort to elect congressmen who will vote properly."

Anti-Drys Hail Strength Shown in Congress Vote

Chicago liberals yesterday hailed the congressional vote on the Beck-Linthicum resolution on Monday as a substantial advance for the anti-prohibition cause. They feel the vote will have a decided effect on the November elections, both in placing more liberal congressmen in the house and in "smoking" out those who passed their votes Monday.

J. R. FORGAN.

That feeling was expressed by Speaker David E. Shanahan of the Illinois house of representatives, veteran legislator.

"It was a most satisfying vote," said the speaker, "one indicating definitely the progress being made for the liberal cause. It will have considerable bearing on the elections, and I predict that many of those who either remained silent or voted against the resolution will be aligned with the liberal votes next time. It will have an outstanding effect."

Cermak Advises Action.

Mayor Cermak feels that the liberals should withhold campaign contributions from professed drys running for office.

"Parties should be forced to adopt wet platforms," he said, "and the nominees bound by these platforms. It is also important to elect liberal governors and liberal candidates for congress and the legislature."

J. Russell Forgan, district commander of The Crusaders, liberal organization, who supervises activities in ten middle western states, was jubilant and optimistic over the chances of enlisting many more converts in November.

"The vote on the resolution was another link in the chain," he said. "There is not a politician from coast to coast who is not asking himself now if the tide has not definitely turned. I am not ready, of course, to prophesy the end of the fight, for it is far from being over, but I am convinced that victory will be ours eventually.

"We must continue plugging along and I believe that in November we will make definite inroads on the 40 votes which must be won over in the house to gain success. It is possible that that number might be chalked up in that election.

"Our fight long ago left the realm of the wet and dry issue; it is now a fight for decent government and I have enough faith in the American electorate to predict what it will do in time.

"The farmers are now realizing how much money they are losing through prohibition. Of all the ways advanced for getting the country out of debt, the easiest, simplest and most effective way to balance the budget would be the return of conditions which would permit revenue of one billion dollars.

"We must keep pounding, and about all a layman can do is to close his purse strings to a party or a candidate who will not come out for the liberal cause."

Plans Extended Trip.

Mr. Forgan intends to make a trip over the ten states in his district shortly to confer with liberal leaders on the elections. His territory includes the states of Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Missouri, North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Kansas, Nebraska, and Wisconsin.

John J. Healy, former state's attorney, believes the change in public sentiment is stronger throughout the country than was indicated by the congressional vote. "Sooner or later this wet and dry question has to be decided," he said. "An amendment to the Volstead act, legalizing light wines and beer would not settle it, but it would be a move toward settlement."

Robert Isham Randolph, former president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and head of the secret six, hailed the vote as showing "where the wind blows." He advocated legalizing 2.75 per cent beer as a helpful move toward reducing federal taxes.

JAP CABINET MAN QUITS; SEQUEL TO ATTACK ON RULER

Manchurian Puppet Seeks Deal with Russia.

TOKIO, March 15. — (AP) — Home Minister Tokugoro Nakahashi, who was severely critized for remaining in office after the attempt on the life of Emperor Hirohito on Jan. 8, resigned from the cabinet today.

His resignation was announced after he had conferred with Premier Inukai. Political observers interpreted it as an attempt to strengthen the cabinet in preparation for the opposition's attacks when parliament convenes in special session on March 18.

Responsible for Mikado.

The Japanese home minister is head of the police. According to custom, Nakahasi should have assumed responsibility for the attempt on the emperor and, accordingly, should have resigned immediately.

On the basis of news from Manchuria, Japanese officials today predicted that soviet Russia soon would recognize officially the new Manchurian state headed by Henry Pu-yi, former boy emperor of China. A Regno (Japanese) News agency dispatch from Changchun, capital of the new state, said Russia "informally indicated" that it would accept Pu-yi's nominees for places on the board of directors of the Chinese Eastern railway, which is jointly owned by Russia and China.

Women Flee Manchuria.

According to this dispatch, Russia would accept these nominees in place of the directors appointed by the Chinese government at Nanking.

Supporters of the Pu-yi régime asserted that such action by Russia would be equivalent to de facto recognition.

Decides to Go on Gold Standard.

MUKDEN, March 15.—The new Manchurian government has decided to adopt the gold standard and the Central bank at Changchun will issue currency notes. Prince Kung, Dictator Pu Yi's uncle, will be the bank's first president.

ICELAND PARLIAMENT GETS BILL TO PERMIT FOUR PER CENT BEER

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, March 15.—(AP)—Four members of the lower house of parliament today introduced a bill which would permit the government to grant concessions for the brewing of beer containing less than four per cent alcohol.

They said such a measure would curb wholesale illicit distilling in Iceland and reduce the increasing intoxication among Iceland's youth.

Iceland enacted a law forbidding the sale of alcoholic liquors in 1915 but since then the blanket prohibition has been modified in some degree. One of these modifications was in 1922, when, in consequence of Spanish import duties on Icelandic fish products, the Icelandic government lifted the ban on importation of wines and spirits up to 21 per cent alcohol.

4 CHINESE ARMY BUILDINGS BLOWN UP; MANY KILLED

CANTON, China, March 15.—(AP)—Many fatalities were believed to have followed an explosion today which blew up four ordnance buildings here. The report of deaths was not immediately verified officially.

The first explosion occurred just before dawn and three others came in rapid succession. Residents rushed into the streets in their night clothes in a wild panic.

The buildings blazed furiously for several hours and other explosions occurred in them. The explosions were attributed to Chinese communists.

MOVE TO DELAY DISARM PARLEY MAKES HEADWAY

U. S. and Japan Object to Long Vacation.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, March 15.—The international disarmament conference, having barely brushed the surface of its task, will take a recess at the close of this week for a fortnight—that being the interval originally set—but a campaign to wrap it up in cotton until even as late as early May is making headway.

The so-called conference "bureau" will have it out tomorrow. The Americans and Japanese, who are a long way from home, are definitely opposed to a long vacation. So are the Russians whose fever to have the world disarm is mounting daily.

See "Confession" in Delay.

One argument against a long adjournment now is that public opinion the world over is bound to sense in it a confession of helplessness. That the conference is getting nowhere at the moment is admitted, but the non-postponers insist that the ground for an eventual agreement "on something or other" is being prepared in backstage discussions.

But many other want the conference put on the shelf for at least a month for more divers reasons. The chief one is that after the French elections and the German "run-off"-contest, the atmosphere will be cleared.

It is evident that neither the French nor the German delegation cares to commit itself on any serious or controversial point at this time. And the French feel it is essential to try to give their public the impression that they are doing great things. Premier Andre Tardieu today announced that the French delegation is "rarin' to go," but that if everybody insisted he would agree to a longer adjournment.

Cut Loose on Treaties.

The Germans and Russians today cut loose on the Washington and London treaties in the naval commission. The German delegate asked for lower specifications of tonnage and gun calibers than contained in the draft convention in order to diminish the aggressiveness of battleships.

The Russian delegate repeated his proposals to abolish warships of more than 10,000 tons and, moreover, that craft over 7,000 tons should be classified as capital ships. It is clear that there will be a long struggle on the part of the big naval powers to try to fit the Washington and London treaty patterns to the little fellows. Spain, though, objected to today's maneuver.

So did Vice Admiral Alfred D. P. R. Pound of England, who yesterday proposed that ships being built for foreign customers could be utilized in time of war. Today he insisted that the Washington and London treaties could not be subjected to piecemeal alteration. As he ate his words he smiled at Senator Claude Swanson of the United States, who nodded his head in solemn agreement.

Premier Tardieu did not have a thing to say at the baptismal session of the political commission which was created at his behest. Delegates sent Poland's proposition of moral disarmament to the committee for study. The Poles are anxious to have everybody agree to adopt legislation to punish the citizenry who agitate war or a violation of existing international law.

Britain Rejects Police Plan.

LONDON, March 15.—(AP)—Sir Philip Sassoon, undersecretary for air, intimated tonight that the British government was unwilling to place its complete faith in any international body, such as the international police force proposed by France at the world disarmament conference.

PAY ROLL JOBS MADE SAFE TILL AFTER PRIMARY

Aldermen Disregard the Mayor's Warning.

City hall employés were assured yesterday by the action of the council finance committee that there will be no wholesale layoffs of workers until the annual apropriation ordinance is passed.

The committee voted to take no action on the amendment to the continuation ordinance sought by Mayor Cermak, giving him blanket power to discharge employés at once. Instead, the aldermen will start work on the 1932 budget as soon as they can get estimates of revenue being prepared by the finance committee staff. These estimates will be available within a week, it was said, but the budget will not be ready until after the primary on April 12.

Too Many Generals, Says Mayor.

The action was taken in the face of a warning from Mayor Cermak that if the council didn't authorize the dismissal of some employés at once, a much larger number will have to go at a later date.

"We have too many generals for the number of workers left," Mayor Cermak said at the finance committee meeting. "We must keep expenditures within our estimated revenue. Our revenue is still a matter of guesswork, but the deficits piled up from 1927 to 1931 must be deducted from the funds available for 1932.

"We have to dismiss some employés now or else dismiss still more later on. Everybody tells me, 'Wait until after the primary.' I am ready to meet the issue now. The primary won't alter the situation.

"Certainly some civil service employés must go. Their positions were created before the depression and must be stricken off now. If you don't want to give me the power to fire them, appoint a committee to work with me and the department heads or start work on the budget."

Assails Tax Strikers.

Associations of taxpayers who are conducting "tax strikes" came under the fire of the mayor and aldermen at the opening of the committee session.

"Out of thirty people on the executive board of an organization which is telling people not to pay their taxes, 50 per cent have paid no personal property tax," Mayor Cermak said. "One of the men in that movement who has said that he won't pay his real estate tax until personal property is assessed has never paid a personal property tax.

"There are con men operating and the time is coming when the grand jury ought to investigate. People ought to know these things. I'm preparing a list of tax dodgers which I will make public soon."

SARGENT ENLISTS WORKERS IN WAR ON HIGH BUDGETS

Fred W. Sargent, head of the newly inaugurated committee on public expenditures, spent most of yesterday lining up active workers in the organization.

The object of the committee is to cut the cost of local government. It was stated that every one approached—aside from those interested in politics—was honestly in favor of the program, but in order to obtain results considerable time must be devoted to the campaign. The search yesterday was for men of ability and standing in the community who can spare the time to make the fight.

It is expected that within a few days an executive committee will be selected, which, in turn, will map out the details of the policy and program to be followed. C

GUN GANG STOPS ELEVATORS IN OFFICE HOLDUP

A band of five shotgun robbers stopped elevator service yesterday in the Engineering building, Wells street and Wacker drive, held up more than a score of men and girl employés on the 23d floor of the building, and took $300 from the office of the Universal Credit company there.

Operators of six elevators serving the floor were ordered out of their cabs as they reached the floor, one by one, and lined up against a wall under the gun of one robber. A second bandit entered the office of the Home Insurance company on the same floor and held fifteen men and women workers there at bay.

The other three entered the credit company office. One of them put a gun to the head of Miss Mary Rooney, switchboard operator.

ALDERMEN VOTE TAG DAY PERMIT; DOUBT LEGALITY

Ald. Joseph Rostenkowski of the 33d ward yesterday introduced a resolution at a meeting of the council finance committee permitting a tag day for the benefit of the Ladies auxiliary of the Sisters of the Resurrection. The resolution was passed. It gives the women the right to sell tags at all Polish churches on Sunday, March 20. The opinion was expressed by some aldermen that the action was illegal, because the matter was not acted upon at a regular session of the council. Since the next meeting of the council is March 23, the approval of the finance committee really amounts to a request of the police to issue a permit for the tag day, it was stated.

Kenneth Meenan and Bride Suspended by Northwestern

Kenneth Meenan, Northwestern university star, and his bride, Mrs. Jean Rogers Meenan, were automatically dropped from the student rolls at the university yesterday. The couple eloped to Waukegan and were married Monday afternoon. It is a university rule that students who are married without consent of their parents and their deans must leave college for one semester. They will be able to return in the fall, however, if they wish.

FORMER ACTRESS SUES TO VOID DIVORCE FOR AN INFIDELITY DECREE

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—A strange tale was told to Justice Valente in the Supreme court here today by Mrs. Consuelo F. Fock, who is suing to void her divorce from Dirk Fock, an orchestra leader, and obtain a second divorce on grounds of infidelity and naming his present wife as co-respondent. Mrs. Fock formerly was a Follies girl and screen actress.

While living in Vienna some years ago, Mrs. Fock said, she suffered from frostbite of the hands, and placing herself under the care of Mrs. Edith Simonds, a recent acquaintance and faith healer, a complete cure was effected.

Mrs. Fock was not getting along well with her husband and having confidence in Mrs. Simonds went to her for advice. She was advised, she says, to isolate herself on a mountain and think it over while her husband went on a hiking tour, and thus give things a chance to work out.

Subsequently, Mrs. Fock says, she discovered that Mrs. Simonds had accompanied Fock on the walking tour with Mrs. Simonds' daughter and a Mr. Vance. As a result of this disclosure she wants the divorce nullified and a second one granted.

ATLANTA MAYOR RETAINS OFFICE IN RECORD VOTE

Atlanta, Ga., March 15.—(AP)—With the largest vote ever polled in a municipal election here, Atlanta citizens today voted 17,178 to 11,743 to keep in office Mayor James L. Key, who called the prohibition law a failure, permitted Sunday charity movies, refused to pay a bonus to low bidders on city construction work and approved salary reductions to balance the city budget.

While in France last year Mayor Key called the prohibition law a failure, asserting that enforcement had fallen down, that the law did not foster temperance and had corrupted officialdom. This started political bombardments and the first of the recall petitions.

Mayor Key was next ousted as teacher of a Bible class in Grace Methodist church here. Many members of this class are now attending a nondenominational class taught by the mayor in a theater, and it is said to be the largest Bible class in the city. His indorsement of Sunday movies for charity brought renewed attempts to have him recalled, and his refusal to approve payment of a bonus to low bidders for city construction work increased the number of his political enemies.

LEGION DRIVES REDS' LAWYERS FROM DANVILLE

Chicago Attorneys Charge They Were Beaten.

Charges that they had been manhandled and driven out of town by irate members of the American Legion post at Danville, Ill., were made last night by two Chicago lawyers upon their return to Chicago. Legion representatives at Danville admitted escorting the two lawyers out of town, but denied that they had been roughly treated.

The lawyers were Albert Goldman, counsel for the Communist Party of America, and Joseph B. Lofton, representative of the local branch of the Civil Liberties union. They had gone to Danville to represent fourteen men arrested several days ago on charges of unlawful assembly when they attempted to stage an unemployment demonstration. Several of those arrested were from Decatur.

Lawyers Surrounded.

During the hearing Goldman made remarks which aroused the local legionnaires. The defendants were given small fines by the court. As the two lawyers left the courthouse a group of about thirty men surrounded them. They were hustled to a hotel, where their papers and records were examined.

The attorneys were then confined for a time in a local assembly hall used by the Legion members and then driven three miles out of town in Lofton's car. The attorneys said they were then pommeled and beaten with sticks, although they admitted their injuries were slight.

"All we did was tell them to drive north and keep going," one of the Legion members said last night. "One of the fellows did make a pass at Goldman, but he wasn't struck."

Deprived of Notes.

D. L. Davis, a reporter on the Decatur, Ill., Herald, charged that he was assaulted while in the Danville courtroom and deprived of his notes and papers. Davis reported to his editor that he had protested to the judge and State's Attorney Elmer Furrow of Vermilion county, but both refused to help him recover his papers.

Attorneys Goldman and Lofton said they would prefer charges against the men who, they say, beat them.

Alleged Dope Peddler and Two Others Seized

August Huth, 33 years old, 649 Groveland Park, an alleged narcotic peddler who has been sought by the federal authorities for several weeks, was arrested last night at 43d street and Ellis avenue by Policeman Thomas O'Donnell of the Hyde Park station. In his possession were an ounce of heroin and an ounce of morphine.

COUNTY LACKS CASH TO PAY WAGES OF ELECTION OFFICIALS

Another snarl was added to the county's tangled financial problem yesterday when Assistant Controller Michael J. O'Connor said there were no funds available to pay the 17,500 judges and clerks of election. The election officials should receive $319,000 for the work of registration, canvassing, and revision. The 7,000 clerks should receive $27 each, while the 10,500 judges should receive $17 each.

Ordinarily the workers would be paid on Saturday at the end of the revision. O'Connor said there was little hope of raising the money.

Hayden N. Bell, county attorney, yesterday presented an opinion to the county board, in which he upheld the board's action in setting salaries for Assessor J. L. Jacobs and Harry S. Cutmore, director of appraisals. Jacobs' salary is $15,000 a year and that of Cutmore $10,000. The legality of the board's action was questioned, because with the abolition of the old assessing system the appropriation for the office was made in a lump sum. Mr. Bell suggested that the salaries be fixed in the new county act, before the legislature, to prevent possible legal attack.

Woman Is Hypnotized for Operation; Feels No Pain

Miss Ruth Morrison, 29 years old, 3525 North Halsted street, went to the county hospital yesterday to have her tonsils removed. The operation was performed by Dr. A. F. Lenzen after Dr. Louis Shapiro, an interne, had hypnotized her. Miss Morrison said that she felt no pain while in the hypnotic trance.

WARRANTS SOLD, NEW TRIER HIGH TO REMAIN OPEN

The New Trier High school will remain open, Matthew Gaffney, principal, announced last night following a meeting of the board of trustees. A campaign to sell tax warrants to parents of students attending the school has netted $118,000 thus far and only $40,000 more will be needed, Gaffney said. Recently school officials had expressed a fear that the school must be closed.

Brundage Opens Fire on "State Oligarchy."

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Considerable fence jumping was reported yesterday in some of the Republican governorship camps. An incipient uprising of precinct captains, the "little fellows" who do the real work in the party organizations, against some of the ward committeemen who have landed themselves on pay rolls through the instrumentality of Gov. L. L. Emmerson, was reported by managers of the campaign of Edward J. Brundage, former attorney general.

Managers of Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom's campaign meanwhile announced that downstate Carlstrom is cutting into the Len Small following. They reported that in Belleville and East St. Louis, centers of a wet area, Carlstrom is pushing over the old Small organization until it sounds like a crash in a crockery store. At Harrisburg, down in Egypt, in Hillsboro and Decatur, the Carlstrom managers report accessions of strength in the last week.

Malone Reports Gains.

At headquarters of William H. Malone, former head of the state tax commission, precinct committeemen from the country towns were reported to be sending in pledge cards, while in some residential wards, precinct captains were cutting loose from their old ward chiefs.

Brundage, in a statement issued from La Salle hotel headquarters, tore into the "statehouse coterie."

"The coterie at Springfield," he said, "has determined who shall be governor. The pay roll guard all over the state is trying to execute the imperial commands. They must deliver your votes at the primaries or they will suffer decapitation. The hard roads are echoing with the sputtering of motorcycles whose riders are loaded with literature of Emmerson's chosen heir apparent.

Treasury Is Rich Prize.

"Look over the names of the state treasurers since 1917 and see how they are identified with the state government. Out of the treasurer's office into some bureau, then back into the treasurer's office. The control of the rich finances of Illinois is the rich prize at stake. It must not be lost or the state dynasty is dethroned.

"I exposed the system in 1920. My suits compelled one of the state treasurers to return $650,000 of your money. This was but 50 per cent of the amount due from him.

"Gov. Emmerson has decreed that Mr. Custer shall succeed him as governor. Mr. Custer as head of the state tax commission under Gov. Emmerson can be directly charged with a complete failure to see that the present burden has not been distributed equally and fairly.

"I was not nominated by the machine. I broke their slate in 1916 and since that time the taxpayers are $20,000,000 better off because I did. Again the system needs a check. The place to end the self-perpetuating oligarchy at Springfield is at the primaries."

Candidate Malone made public a letter from Springfield from C. C. Moore, former fiscal supervisor under Small, saying, "The upheaval of taxpayers against the tax spenders in central Illinois and the crystallizing of sentiment for Malone, is the chief worry among politicians around the statehouse as they listen to such reports brought in by pay roll patriots." The Sangamon County Taxpayers league, said to have 1,500 members, sent in an indorsement of Malone.

CHARGES SALVADOR KILLED 8,000 REDS IN RECENT REBELLION

MEXICO CITY, March 15.—(AP)—An American who has lived in San Salvador three years and who returned here recently said today that Salvadorean army commanders declared 8,000 communists were slain in the revolt there a little more than a month ago. He refused to permit the use of his name, for personal reasons.

"The executions are continuing at the rate of 10 to 25 a week," he said, "but, in spite of them, the danger to the government is grave, for, according to government information, more than 29,000 persons now belong to the Communist league and the recruiting is still going on."

He said the government was forced to dismiss 2,000 of the 4,500 soldiers of its regular army because it feared they were secret members of the Communist league, and officials considered it dangerous to allow them access to rifles and ammunition.

MUSICIANS VOTE TO ERECT NEW LOOP BUILDING

The Chicago Musicians' club, social organization of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, voted almost unanimously yesterday in favor of erecting at once a two and a half story building, costing $100,000, on the site of the union's present building at 175 West Washington street.

The project was urged by James C. Petrillo, president of the union. "There never was a better time to put up a building," he said. "We'll save money by erecting a modern structure and it won't increase dues one cent." Ben Bernie, orchestra leader, also made a plea for the project.

The razing of the present five story structure will mark the passing of one of the oldest buildings in the loop. It was built about 45 years ago, and it formerly housed the old Chicago Chronicle. The musicians have had their headquarters in it for many years.

Only about five members out of 700 at the meeting yesterday were reported to have opposed the building when the viva voce vote was taken. Among the opponents were Banks Cregier, chairman of the building committee, and James A. Barker, a member, who said they doubted whether the times were propitious for such an expenditure.

MARTINEK HEADS STATES' FIGHT ON 'GAS' TAX EVASION

F. V. Martinek, chairman of the Illinois gasoline tax evasion committee, was named chairman of a central committee representing several midwestern and western states yesterday at a meeting in the Hotel Sherman.

Chairmen of state gasoline tax evasion committees from Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Utah, Wisconsin, and Wyoming attended the meeting.

The regional committee will work with state committees and the American Petroleum institute in assisting the discovery and prosecution of gasoline tax evaders and gasoline bootleggers. It will also work for reduction of gasoline taxes, as a means of reducing the motive for tax evasion, and against diversion of gasoline tax collections from highway building and maintenance programs for which they were originally intended.

BANKER KILLED IN AUTO CRASH.

Vandalia, Ill., March 15.—(AP)—Henry Von Behren, 52, cashier of the First National bank at St. Peter, was killed when his automobile was struck by a Pennsylvania passenger train on a crossing near here yesterday.

HORNER PLEDGES STATE-WIDE AID FOR AGRICULTURE

Blames Farm Board for Farmers' Plight.

Jacksonville, Ill., March 15.—[Special.]—Judge Henry Horner, Democratic candidate for governor, invaded the normally Republican territory of Morgan county today and moved an audience that filled the courthouse here to applause in a speech in which he set forth his views on the problems of agriculture in Illinois, and pledged himself to a state-wide program of farm relief as a first step toward the restoration of the economic well being of Illinois.

"In order to revive the industries of our cities," he said, "we must first of all restore the normal buying power of our farmers. While we export some of our manufactured commodities, the great market for the products of our urban factories is in the farmhouses of our state.

Experts Draw $75,000 Year.

"By farm relief I do not mean anything at all like the disastrous federal experiment of the farm board and its associated corporations, through which the money the farmer pays in federal taxes is used to keep down the price of his wheat. Federal experts drawing salaries as high as $75,000 a year of the taxpayers' money have so exerted the farmer that it is conservatively estimated that the price of wheat today is at least 15 cents a bushel below what it would be if the natural law of supply and demand had been allowed to take its course.

"The huge surplus built up by the federal farm board and its market manipulations in order to reduce that surplus are, I believe, the principal reasons why wheat is so low today."

Taking issue with the theory that the individual states can do nothing for the farmer, Judge Horner said: "The first task of the state is drastically to reduce the costs of government, so that the taxes the farmer pays can be sharply reduced. The state should foster cooperative movements and other organizations among the farmers for pooling their resources, but only when and where the farmers themselves desire so to organize."

Igoe Defends Right to Run.

Bloomington, Ill., March 15.—[Special.]—Michael L. Igoe, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, in a speech here tonight, replied to the criticisms directed at him by his opponent, Judge Henry Horner, concerning Igoe's right to seek Democratic votes in the April 12 primary. "There is nothing," Mr. Igoe said, "in either the spirit or the letter of the primary law that empowers a state central committee to scrape up a slate and insist on it being indorsed as a unit by the party in a primary election."

PHYSICIAN IN PEORIA DISAPPEARS; FEARED ABDUCTORS' VICTIM

Peoria, Ill., March 15.—[Special.]—An investigation of the disappearance of Dr. James W. Parker, 65, prominent physician and president of the Illinois Tax Securities corporation, brought forth today the belief that he had been kidnaped for ransom. Dr. Parker was reported missing last night.

Peoria police and members of Dr. Parker's family, who said they believed kidnapers would communicate with the family soon, could present no basis for this belief. Once considered wealthy, Dr. Parker is said to have lost considerable money recently in business ventures.

The doctor's automobile was found near a golf course at the edge of Peoria several hours after a stranger told his wife, Mrs. Donna Parker, in a telephone conversation that Dr. Parker would not be home last night.

Dr. Parker disappeared after he went to his garage to drive to a downtown club. Mrs. Parker said she noticed an unreasonable delay as the car came from the garage and with the headlights off. Tracks showed that the car had been run over the curb in backing from the drive, although Dr. Parker is an expert driver.

County and city police searched the vicinity of the golf course today on the theory that Dr. Parker might have taken his own life after abandoning his car.

JURY COMMENDS KILLER, ASKS WHY HE DELAYED IT

A few minutes after John Pfeiffer, 42 years old, 6948 Wallace street, was acquitted of the murder of Ralph Andrews, 41 years old, before Judge Walter T. Stanton in the Criminal court, the jury called the defendant and asked him why he hadn't done the deed sooner. Pfieffer was acquitted on the first ballot.

Andrews had stolen the affections of Pfeiffer's wife, witnesses testified, and then twitted him about it. Pfeiffer, who is a steward of the milk wagon drivers' union, had been a friend and associate of Andrews until the domestic trouble arose.

"After I got a divorce," Pfeiffer told the jury, "Andrews came around and taunted me about it." Pfeiffer was questioned by his attorneys, Emett Byrne and Harold Levy.

The slaying occurred on Aug. 22, 1931, in front of the home of Pfeiffer's former wife at 7019 Michigan avenue. Pfeiffer had heard that his former wife was ill, and he went there to give her some money. Outside he met Andrews. Andrews began his usual taunting. There was an argument; Pfeiffer drew a gun and shot him.

Ileana Awaiting Stork; Marie Buys Baby Clothes

LONDON, March 15. — (AP) — A Reuter's dispatch from Bucharest today said Queen Marie was buying clothes for a grandchild expected by the former Princess Ileana, her daughter. The princess was married on July 26 last year to the Archduke Antoine of Hapsburg.

BLAMES BANKER GREED FOR U. S. INVESTORS' LOSS

Johnson Insists They Run a Racket on Public.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—The international banks' greed, Uncle Sam's indifference, and the average citizen's desire to make money — these three factors made the financial fiasco in foreign loans, Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.] today told the senate.

But the greatest of these factors, and the worst, he declared, is the greed of the international bankers who "coined the ignorance and confidence of their customers."

Reviewing the senate finance committee's investigation of foreign loans, an investigation which he started and prosecuted, the Californian declared that the testimony at these hearings revealed to the public "how the game was played with a gullible people and the stakes appropriated by the supermen of finance."

A Jovelike Creation.

"If ever there were a racket imposed on the American people," he charged, "that was the racket imposed on American investors, those so little able to stand the expense, by the international bankers with the securities they had.

"The poor investor," he went on with savage satire, "saw only one of God's anointed aiding him in preparing for a precarious future, but the anointed, none too proud to take any sum upon any representation, thought only of the profits accruing; the hats of our people were doffed to this Jovelike creation. Then came the crash and the international banker, stripped of his glamour and his pretense, stood stark and naked before an astonished and horrified people."

The senator was particularly bitter in his attack on the South American loans, which he termed "little short of infamous." The now revealed Colombia deal in 1930, not long after Colombia had restored the Barco oil concession to the Mellon owned Gulf Oil company, came in for his scorn and in that scorn he included the state department and Secretary Stimson, who had refused to testify before Senator Johnson's commitee.

Assails Stimson's Attitude.

Senator Johnson dwelt on the fact that Secretary Stimson, declining to make public telegrams sent by his department during the negotiations, had agreed to let the senators, privately see the correspondence. In such an agreement the Calfornian declined to participate.

For a United States senator to have been a party to such an agreement would, he declared, "be, at least to one senator, a pusillanimous and contemptible course, of which he would not be guilty."

Summing up the entire negotiation, he declared that "thus the Mellon interests received their due; the Colombian government got its money, and the state department kept its secrets."

Americans Learn a Lesson.

From all this foreign loan investigation the American citizens, Senator Johnson declared, had learned a lesson in trusting international bankers.

And from it the American government should learn its lesson—to arouse itself from its lethargy and to become a government responsive to all its people, not just a single and a moneyed class.

SAVIN WILL CUTS TRIO OF CHILDREN OUT OF SHARE IN $1,346,228

White Plains, N. Y., March 15.—(AP)—A final accounting of the estate of Frank W. Savin, broker who died in 1929, today revealed a net value of $1,346,228. Local legend attributed to him a fortune of more than $20,000,000.

With the filing of the accounting by the executors there was also revealed for the first time the terms of a settlement among the heirs made in March, 1930.

Under the agreement the widow, Mrs. Anna Mary Schleis Savin, who was once an immigrant serving girl in the Savin household, will receive half of the residue and the other half will be divided equally among Frank W. Savin Jr., a son; Mrs. Josephine Sargeant a daughter, and Charles Munroe Savin, an adopted son. A bequest of $50,000 to Muriel Elizabeth Savin, an adopted daughter, has been paid.

The will left nothing to the other three children and bequeathed the residue to the widow, who chose to settle rather than face litigation.

FORMER ONTARIO PREMIER NAMED IN GRAFT SCANDAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., March 15. — Canada's high commissioner in England, G. Howard Ferguson, who served Ontario for a decade as prime minister, was named here today as a potential boodler in the $80,000,000 St. Lawrence river Beauharnois canal project, the affairs of which the Canadian senate is investigating.

"Sweezey told me Ferguson [then premier] would not let the Ontario hydro contract with Beauharnois be signed unless he got $200,000," testified Senator Andrew Haydon, Liberal organizer and previously named as recipient for his party of Beauharnois campaign funds.

The Sweezey mentioned is President Robert O. Sweezey of the Beauharnois corporation, whose previously admitted munificence in respect of Canadian political parties amounted to nearly $1,000,000.

CUT ALL FEDERAL EXPENSES 10%, ROBINSON URGES

Not Scientific, but It Is Practical, He Says.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—A horizontal reduction in all federal appropriations may be an unscientific way of helping to balance the budget, but it's a practical way and it's just about time the senate got down to a practical plan, Senator Robinson [Dem., Ark.], minority leader, told his colleagues today.

He was speaking in defense of a general horizontal slash throughout all federal expenditures but was talking particularly on the amendment to the interior department appropriations bill introduced by Senator McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] calling for a flat 10 per cent cut in all items.

Much Talk, No Action.

"Everybody talks economy," Senator Robinson reminded his fellow senators somewhat scornfully, "but nobody is willing to be definite about what items to economize on. And it's about time to be specific. This horizontal reduction plan is really the budget system crystallized and intensified."

The interior department is peculiarly fitted to be a laboratory for such a plan, the Arkansas senator declared, because that department, he feels, contains a number of antiquated bureaus which might well be consolidated or even eliminated. Efficiency experts, he pointed out, had gone so far as to advocate the abolition of the entire department.

Opposes Sales Tax.

Senator McKellar, who is opposed to the proposed sales tax, suggested the amendment as one of three joint ways of balancing the budget without resort to the sales tax.

In addition to the 10 per cent horizontal cut, he suggests a cessation of all war tax refunds and credits, and an increased income tax in the higher brackets.

"The sensible thing to do," he urged, "is to save in appropriations instead of in high taxes on the poor. That's what we've got to come to before we get out of this situation, and the sooner we get to it, the better."

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday concluded hearings on the proposed Peterson avenue feeder bus lines and took the case under advisement.

The case has been pending since December, 1930, when a group of northwest side residents filed a petition before the commission asking that the Chicago Surface lines be compelled to inaugurate the feeder buses. Attorneys for the surface lines sought to have action deferred until the unification of the city's transportation facilities is accomplished.

DR. COMPTON GIVES FINAL TEST TO HIS "COSMIC RAY TRAP"

Dr. Arthur H. Compton, Nobel prize winner and professor of physics at the University of Chicago, took his "cosmic ray trap" into Washington park yesterday for a final test before he starts Friday on a tour of mountain peaks all over the world where the apparatus will be used.

The "trap" has at its center an ionization chamber of steel, containing argon, the inert gas which forms a small part of the atmosphere, under a compression of 30 atmospheres. This chamber is protected by a series of lead and copper spheres, which ward off all rays except the cosmic ray. The latter sets up an electric current in the gas chamber, which is registered by an electrometer.

Cosmic rays are best studied on mountain tops, where their force has not been diminished by the earth's atmosphere.

If it is found that the cosmic rays strike the earth with equal force at all of these points it would give final proof of the theory that the rays are generated in interstellar space.

COLLEGE OFFICIAL COMMITS SUICIDE; AUDIT ACCOUNTS

Clemson College, S. C., March 15.—(AP)—Dr. E. W. Sikes, president of Clemson college, today announced that David H. Henry, connected with the college for more than 30 years, shot himself to death at his home here yesterday.

Mr. Henry's physician, Dr. L. W. Melford issued a statement saying: "Mr. Henry died suddenly at his home at 4:30 p. m. He had not been in good health for some time."

Books Under Scrutiny.

Columbia, S. C., March 15.—(AP)—Senator Robert M. Cooper, a member of the Clemson college board of trustees, said here today that an audit was being conducted of books kept by David H. Henry in connection with collection of the state fertilizer tax.

FIRST EXEMPTION IN SALES TAX BILL O.K. IN COMMITTEE

House Group Seeks Substitute Items.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—The first change in the billion dollar revenue bill was effected today when the house ways and means committee agreed on amendments exempting certain canned goods and newspaper telegrams from the list of articles upon which a 2.25 per cent sales tax is proposed.

Acting Chairman Charles R. Crisp [Dem., Ga.] announced that these amendments had been approved by the committee and stated that a number of others proposing exemptions of cheap clothing, electricity used on irrigation projects, and radio company leased wires were being considered.

Seek Substitute Items.

The exclusion of canned foods and press telegrams from the sales tax is expected to cut approximately $12,000,000 from the 595 million dollars which the committee estimates will be raised through imposition of the levy. The committee will meet tomorrow in an effort to find substitute items.

On the floor of the house, meanwhile, debate on the revenue bill proceeded with Representative Carl Chindblom [Rep., Ill.], a member of the ways and means committee urging its adoption, and Representative John E. Rankin [Dem., Miss.], opposing it.

An appeal for economy in the expenditure of government funds as an aid to the tax bill in balancing the budget was made by Representative Chindblom in which he traced the growth of the deficit and the national debt.

Defines His Objections.

"The administration of the absolutely essential governmental departments is estimated at a total cost of $386,819,400," he stated. "There remains a group of activities of the federal government estimated to cost during the fiscal year 1933 the total sum of $722,160,250 which are not in the ordinary sense governmental, but which represent services and interests which have widespread sympathy throughout the country."

Broadly speaking, Mr. Chindblom said, these activities are public health, education, conservation, aid to agriculture, labor, aviation, industry, and trade, the merchant marine, and public buildings and public parks.

BULLETS STRIKE HITLER'S TRAIN IN MYSTERY ATTACK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WEIMAR, Thuringia, Germany, March 15.—Several shots were fired at the express train carrying Adolf Hitler, the Fascist leader, Joseph Paul Goebbels and Dr. Wilhelm Frick, two of his lieutenants, near Jena today. The trio were traveling from Munich to Weimar. None was injured, but railway authorities withdrew the coach from service for examination. An unknown person fired the shots.

The Fascist leaders were en route to appear before a committee of the Thuringian diet which is investigating the efforts of Dr. Frick, the former Thuringian minister of the interior, to naturalize the Austrian-born rival of President von Hindenburg, by appointing him police commissioner in Hildburghausen.

Dr. Frick assured the committee that he felt it was his duty to remedy the injustice against "the front line soldier, Hitler." Hitler denied he had authorized Frick's measure.

BRITAIN AGAIN SENDS WIFE OF GANDHI TO PRISON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOMBAY, India, March 15.—Mrs. Kasturbai Gandhi, wife of the imprisoned nationalist leader, was arrested again today and was sentenced to six months at hard labor in "C" class—the lowest class in which nationalists are placed when they are imprisoned, and corresponding to the treatment given criminals. The daily food allowance is less than three and a half cents.

Mrs. Gandhi was released from prison only a few days ago for her civil disobedience activities. She was arrested in the Bardoli district where she has been campaigning among the farmers. She had just completed a trip to Yervada prison to visit her husband.

Mrs. Saroniji Naidu, poetess leader of the nationalists, is also expected to be arrested shortly. One hundred and twenty demonstrators were arrested in Bombay today.

NURSING SCHOOL REEFS ITS SAILS TO ECONOMY GALE

But Social Service Dept. Is Retained.

Stringent economies in the operation of the Cook County School of Nursing were voted yesterday by the board of directors of the school at a regular monthly meeting. However, the board decided to retain the social service department at the county hospital which had previously been tentatively abolished.

DR. McLEAN. [Moffett Photo.]

Retention of the service department, which has been acclaimed as of great value to the hospital, was made possible by the last minute action of the county board in adding $10,000 to the appropriation for the school, according to Dr. Franklin C. McLean, spokesman for the board of directors.

Charges Not Mentioned.

In a statement issued after the meeting Dr. McLean made no mention of any action taken regarding charges made recently against Miss Laura R. Logan, dean of nurses, by the medical staff of the county hospital. The physicians charged that Miss Logan refused to cooperate with them and had "destroyed her usefulness" by her autocratic attitude.

Miss Logan has been under fire since the disclosure several months ago that she had purchased high priced furniture for her living quarters with county funds. Such items as $50 love seats and costly draperies roused the indignation of the county commissioners. The board meets tomorrow to consider conditions in general at the school.

The board of directors appointed a committee, according to Dr. McLean, to confer with representatives of the medical staff of the hospital with reference to the "alleged grievances of the staff."

The board of directors also took steps necessary to bring expenditures during 1932 within the $1,010,000 appropriated in the county budget, Dr. McLean stated. Expenditures during 1931 were $1,176,000, he pointed out, and the reduction of $166,000 required drastic economies.

1,300 Employés Required.

"The school of nursing has a total personnel in excess of 1,300," the statement read, "and reductions in personnel are not possible in the face of the rising number of patients without actual neglect of patients in the hospital. The board of directors is forced to furnish the services of 1,300 individuals at a total cost to the county averaging less than $800 per year. Out of a total of 1,300 individuals only seven will receive compensation [including cost of maintenance] at $200 per month or more.

"The budget for 1932 demands dropping 100 more paid workers and will bring the number of student workers to 760. The majority of the remaining workers are unskilled and only approximately 210 graduate nurses will remain on the pay roll.

"In addition to the replacement of paid workers by students, the board has determined upon 'payless pay days' for all workers receiving total compensation at the rate of $100 a month or more."

EX-BANKER FLOWER SEIZED IN OMAHA ON STOLEN BOND CHARGE

Frank Flower, 53 years old, former vice president of the Roosevelt-Bankers State bank which closed in August, 1930, was arrested in Omaha, Neb., yesterday, according to dispatches. Flower was to be taken back to San Francisco on charges that he accepted stolen bonds there.

Flower said he was on his way to Chicago to testify for his brothers, Alexander and Sam Flower, who are to be tried on charges growing out of the closing of the bank. He declared that he is now penniless.

The San Francisco charges grew out of his acceptance of $5,000 in bonds from a race track bookmaker in payment of a bet, he said. He pledged the bonds as security for a loan at a bank and the bank later discovered the bonds were stolen.

MAYOR ADVISES TOWN TO RECALL HIM AND COUNCIL

Wilmington, Ill., Told to Cut Taxes.

Mayor J. C. Thompson of Wilmington, Ill., yesterday addressed an open letter to the residents of his city asking them to recall him and the city council of six aldermen as an economy measure. The recall, with the adoption of a commission form of government, will cut the tax bills by $990, he said.

Wilmington, in southwestern Will county, has a population of approximately 1,800. Thompson has been mayor for fifteen years. His present term would expire May 1, 1933. Three of the aldermen are candidates for reelection in April and the remaining three have a year to serve.

$500 Salary as Mayor.

Mayor Thompson receives a yearly salary of $500, and $300 additional as president of the board of local improvements. The combined yearly salaries of the six aldermen is $400. Mayor Thompson suggests that with the adoption of a commission form of government one commissioner receive $50 a year and four others $40 each, which would make the officials' pay roll $210, against the present $1,200.

"I have been hearing many complaints from the citizens of Wilmington on the amount of city taxes," the mayor wrote. "Nobody has thus far offered any solution. As many of the citizens feel that the salaries of the city officials are too high I would suggest that we adopt a commission form of government and recall the present officials.

25 Signers Needed.

"Will some one please circulate a petition asking the recall of the officials and for a vote on the commission form of government? This would reduce the tax burden and afford an efficient form of government."

Mayor Thompson said the petition would need but 25 signers to have the proposition placed on the ballot. The petition should be filed in the County court, he said, and the vote would bring no additional expense, as the proposition could be presented at the regular election of April 19.

Late last night no one had followed the mayor's suggestion.

Peru Condemns 2 to Die for Assassination Plot

LIMA, Peru, March 15.—(AP)—Two men were sentenced to death, two others to twenty years in prison, and two were acquitted today by a court-martial trying them for participation in the recent unsuccessful attempt to assassinate President Sanchez Cerro.

O. K.'S $48,000 FEE TO LAWYERS FOR RECEIVER

State Auditor Explains Case of Closed Bank.

State Auditor Oscar Nelson yesterday authorized payment of a fee of $48,000 to the law firm of Crowe, Gorman & Savage, attorneys for J. E. Sullivan, receiver for the closed Garfield State bank. He explained that this fee amounts to 2.3 per cent of the $2,044,097 which the receiver collected for the depositors, and compares with usual attorney's fees of 10 to 25 per cent allowed by the courts in general receiverships. Robert E. Crowe, former state's attorney, is a member of the law firm.

ROBERT E. CROWE.

So far, Mr. Nelson stated, the depositors of the Garfield State bank have received $1,088,548, or 25 per cent of their deposits. Loans amounting to $864,735 have been paid off at loop banks, and twice that amount in collateral recovered, the auditor reported. Preferred claims of $60,785 also have been paid.

Ex-Secretary Is Excused.

In the hearing before Judge Michael Feinberg regarding the affairs of the closed Second Northwestern State bank, Miss Harriet Shosky, who was secretary to Frank E. Lackowski, former president of the bank, was excused from testifying yesterday. She is to be recalled, however, at the request of Attorney Edgar J. Cook, who said he had been told money was withdrawn by officers and employés of the bank the night before it was closed. Lackowski committed suicide recently.

Previous statements by Miss Shosky were contradicted yesterday. John Budzban, receiver for the Northwestern Securities company, said she was in error in stating that the securities company was a dumping ground for Smulski banks and had purchased securities in the amount of $225,000 from the Second Northwestern State bank.

Judge Feinberg ordered the receiver for John Bain, Inc. to sign an agreement in which Bain agrees to turn over all his assets to his creditors. It was explained that this would not release Bain from his obligations if he should come into possession of additional money or securities.

Orders Judgment Against Banker.

Municipal Judge Edgar A. Jonas yesterday directed a jury in his court to return a $34,084 judgment against James A. Lowe of Norwood Park, a former director of the Guardian National bank, which recently was succeeded by the Guardian Bank corporation, a holding company organized preparatory to a refinancing of the institution. The suit was brought by the bank corporation to collect on a $37,625 note which Lowe had given in exchange for shares of the bank stock.

$50,000 SOUGHT BY SEXTON FOR GAS RATE FIGHT

Commission Defends Conduct of Case.

Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton yesterday asked the finance committee of the city council for a $50,000 appropriation to employ experts to carry on the fight for a lower gas rate in the case of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, now pending before the Illinois Commerce commission.

At Mr. Sexton's suggestion, the matter was referred to a subcommittee, which will confer with Mayor Cermak before making a recommendation. Earlier in the day the mayor had said informally that he believed the city already had on its staff engineers and auditors of sufficient experience to advise the corporation counsel competently in the case.

It is understood that Mr. Sexton, who has been following the proceedings more closely than the mayor, believes Mr. Cermak's attitude can be changed.

Defends Conduct of Case.

A gas hearing scheduled for yesterday morning before Assistant Commerce Commissioner Robert H. Farrell was deferred one day when the members of the commission called a meeting of all parties concerned to confer "outside the record" on various aspects of the case. In attendance were attorneys for the Insull gas companies, attorneys representing Chicago and other Illinois municipalities, attorneys for intervening petitioners, and newspaper men.

G. Gale Gilbert, chairman of the commission, opened the conference with a defense of the attitude of his colleagues and himself in the case to date. He declared that criticism of delays granted so far was unfounded and inspired probably by political motives. He pointed out that every continuance granted was at the request of one or all parties in the case.

"The commission will base its decision in this case on the evidence placed in the record, not on statements given the press," Mr. Gilbert asserted. "The commission desires to speed this case to an equitable conclusion. This can best be done if the various interested parties will marshal their forces together in gathering evidence."

Tells of Commission's Inquiry.

Commissioner J. Paul Kuhn said the commission was fully cognizant of all complaints concerning the gas rates and revealed that its engineers were already investigating specific complaints to determine whether various charges are justified. In their final action the commissioners, it was indicated, will rely on the recommendations of their own engineers and accountants.

YEAH! IT'S TRUE; DR. GETS WHISKY BRACER IN COURT

Los Angeles, Cal., March 15.—(AP)—By special permission of the court a plaintiff in a marriage annulment action was allowed to brace himself with a drink of whisky on the witness stand before he began his story today.

"I have an unusual request to make," said Attorney S. S. Hahn as his client, Dr. Chester M. Sutton, retired physician, took the stand. "Dr. Sutton has a low blood count and is advised by his doctor to use whisky. Will your honor grant my client permission to take a swig before he starts his testimony?"

Judge Joseph L. Call assented and Dr. Sutton up-ended a flask.

STATE PROMISES BRIDGES WON'T HOLD UP SEAWAY

Clearance of Existing Spans Called Ample.

Opening of the Illinois waterway on Oct. 15, the date set for the completion of the federal government's construction program, will not be delayed by bridges which the state is obliged to erect, Lorenzo D. Cornish, chief engineer of the state's division of waterways, said yesterday.

The program of bridge construction will not be completed by Oct. 15, Mr. Cornish said, but the minimum clearance which will be provided by state bridges existing at that time is 21 feet. There are four railway bridges across the waterway which eventually must be reconstructed, but this will not be done before Oct. 15.

U. S. Bridge Requirements.

Fixed bridges with a clearance of 47 feet or lift bridges is the standard required by the war department, and the secretary of war has called the four railway bridges unreasonable obstructions to navigation. Their reconstruction has not been ordered, but federal engineers say such action will be taken.

One of the railway bridges will provide a clearance of only 18 feet from pool level when the waterway is competed, but this 18 foot minimum, it was said, is sufficient to permit operation of modern river type barges, such as are used in the New York state barge canal.

Six Spans at Joliet.

Of eleven highway bridges which the state must build, six are at Joliet, including the Brandon road bridge. These and three others, the Smith's highway, Marseilles canal and Ottawa bridges, are to be constructed by the division of waterways. The state division of highways must erect the other two, at Morris and Seneca.

All contracts have been let for four of the six bascule type bridges at Joliet, and work on the substructure of the Jackson street bridge has been going on since March 1, according to Mr. Cornish. Substructure work is to begin April 1 on the Cass street bridge and May 1 on the Jefferson street bridge.

Two months is required for the substructures to progress to a point where work can begin on the superstructures, and it requires four and a half months to build the superstructures. On this basis, the Jefferson street bridge will not be completed until Nov. 15.

Draft Plans for Two Bridges.

Work on the Brandon road bridge is under way and it is to be completed by Sept. 1, Mr. Cornish declared, but the contracts have not been let yet for the Ruby and McDonough street bridges. Work has started on the plans and specifications for these bridges, and the contracts will be let by November, the chief engineer predicted.

A temporary bridge at Joliet, to be used while the others are being erected, is complete and ready for traffic. This can and will be torn down in time for the opening of the waterway, Mr. Cornish said. The completion of the bascule, or lift bridges, can proceed after the waterway is opened without interference with navigation, he said.

The five state bridges below Joliet are to be fixed and will provide a clearance of 47 feet, under the government's requirement. Mr. Cornish said it was questionable whether the Smith's highway bridge would be finished by Oct. 15, but that two existing bridges would be removed by that time and work on the new bridge would not obstruct traffic, since it will be high in the air.

Work on the Marseilles canal bridge has been enjoined by the city of Marseilles, but there is no bridge to remove. The new bridge at Ottawa cannot be completed by Oct. 15, but the existing bridge affords a clearance of 28 feet. The highway division is just preparing to let contracts on the Morris and Seneca bridges, but the existing bridges there provide 21 foot clearances.

The Huffman Construction company of Cleveland, yesterday had the low bid, $886,500, for the dredging of the Marseilles pool of the waterway. Awarding of the contract is subject to the approval of the chief of army engineers.

BLAZE DAMAGES WOOD PLANT.

Fire did damage estimated at $2,000 yesterday to the plant of the Sidell Woodworking company, 828 Sibley street. The plant had been shut down for a month.

Army of 10,000 Canvassing City for Idle Money and Jobs

An army of 10,000 volunteer workers making a ward by ward and block by block canvass yesterday began to search Chicago for idle dollars and unfilled jobs in a campaign for the "reëmployment of men and money."

The organization is split into seven major divisions and subdivided along ward lines. Each canvasser is provided with a badge and other credentials. Each householder and employer will be given a form to fill out, listing the things he promises to do to aid the fight toward recovery. The forms are in tripicate, one being kept by the signer, one going to main headquarters and one to the ward or community headquarters.

Within a day a back check will be made starting with the main offices at 10 South La Salle street, and extending to the signer through his community chairman. A record will be kept not only of promises, but of promises fulfilled.

The program consists of three items, one of which, officials believe, can be met by every prospect. Employers of men are asked to hire additional help, permanent if possible, temporary at least. Owners of property are asked to make needed repairs. Employés and renters are asked to make purchases other than their ordinary needs.

The Chicago program is a tie up with the national drive of the American Legion to reëmploy a million men. Locally the drive is sponsored by the Association of Commerce, the American Legion, the Chicago and Illinois Federation of Labor, and other local and district groups.

The full forces of the state department of labor have been enlisted to furnish men for jobs found. Officials stated yesterday that practically every type of work, from dishwasher to skilled artisan, has already been made available.

LOW PRICED but KELVINATOR QUALITY

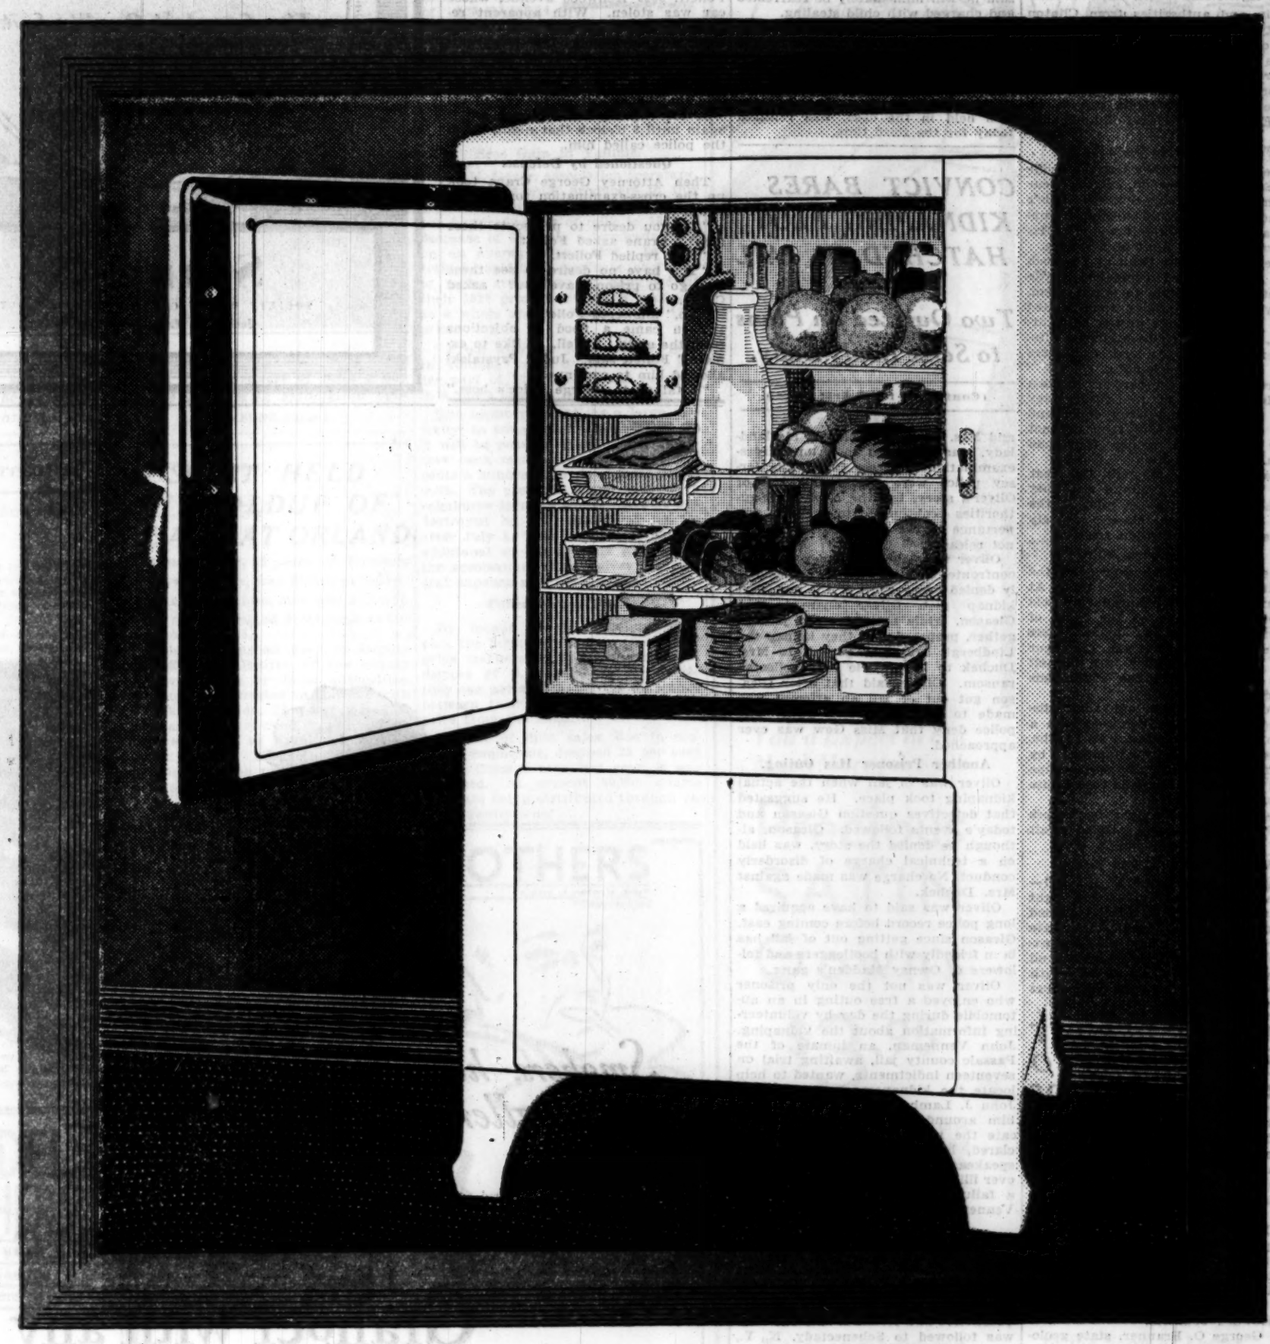
ALL THE WAY THROUGH



MANY people have the impression that Kelvinator builds only the larger, more expensive electric refrigerators. But such is not the case. It is true, of course, that Kelvinator's reputation as "the finest electric refrigerator built" is the result of 18 years of building only quality merchandise. But this well-known Kelvinator quality is not confined to any one model. If it is a Kelvinator, regardless of whether it is the high, low or medium-priced model, it has Kelvinator quality, craftsmanship and value all the way through . . . The new, low-priced "K" Model is a splendid example. In it, you will find a type of electric refrigeration that is so completely satisfactory you will wonder how anyone could ask for more. The illustration above gives you some idea of the exceptional beauty of this model. But more important even than beauty, is the completeness of its features and the fineness of its construction, in every detail . . . Any Kelvinator representative will be glad to show it to you—glad to explain its many features—and to tell you why it will give you many years of economical, trouble-free, satisfactory performance . . . For a small down payment, and on long, easy terms, you can now enjoy Kelvinator Electric Refrigeration at a price you will be glad to pay. See it to-day at the nearest showroom. Kelvinator Sales Corporation, Detroit, Michigan

Grocers, florists, meat merchants, apartment house owners, druggists, factory executives and all other users of commercial electric refrigeration equipment are invited to use the services of the Kelvinator Refrigeration Engineer. Without obligation, he will analyze your refrigeration problems and show you how you can save money by installing the time-tested and proved Kelvinator equipment. Call to-day and ask for the K. R. E.

Summer Cottage Owners: Due to the mild winter there will unquestionably be an ice shortage at the lakes and resorts this summer. A Kelvinator electric refrigerator in your cottage will guarantee safe food preservation and plenty of ice cubes. Seventeen Models from which to choose. Small down payment and long, easy terms. Don't wait until the last minute. Make your arrangements NOW to have a Kelvinator installed in your cottage so you will have refrigeration as soon as you get there.

4 ROB BANK, BIND 38, GET $100,000, FLEE; ALL CAUGHT

Clinton Bandits Confess; Money Recovered.

Clinton, Ia., March 15.—(AP)—Less than eight hours after they had robbed the City National bank here of $100,000, four youthful bandits were caught in a hastily spread police dragnet, the money had been returned to the bank and the robbers had confessed.

The confessions were obtained at Scott county jail, in Davenport, by State Agent Ray Scott, Sheriff Frank Martin and authorities from Clinton county who assisted in the apprehension of the bandits.

The four, who admitted they planned the robbery in Louisville, Ky., are Clifford Edwards, 22, of Clinton, and Leslie Stanley, 28; Eddie Morris, 19, and Earl Jeffries, 19, all of Louisville, Ky.

Force Banker to Open Vault.

The youths said they left Louisville last Saturday afternoon, driving a car which belonged to Ray Stanley, Leslie's brother. They arrived in Clinton Sunday and went to the home of Miss Gertrude Hill, an aunt of Edwards.

They went to the bank at 7 o'clock this morning and compelled Clyde Willetts, the janitor, to admit them, the youths said. They then waited until other employés of the bank arrived, tying each as he arrived. Altogether 38 employés and customers were bound by the bandits.

Forcing one of the bankers to open the inner doors of the vault, they took what currency they could and fled. The youths said they did not know how much money they had taken.

Unable to get through the rear door without the janitor's aid, they cut his bonds. Stanley allowed the blade to slip and cut himself severely in the leg, his confession related.

Toss Money from Auto.

Fleeing through the rear door, the bandits headed toward Davenport. At Camanche they changed to old clothes, then drove to the farm of Eugene Hill, Edwards' uncle, where Stanley was given first aid. The four told Hill that Stanley cut himself while fixing a tire, the confessions stated.

They had thrown out their discarded clothing and the money in a brush pile on the road near Camanche. It was found shortly afterwards by two farmers who saw the green coupe speed past and the bundle tossed into the brush.

The four were brought back here tonight under heavy guard to await legal action.

Blow Open Vault; Get $2,500.

Newton, Kas., March 15.—(AP)—Three robbers who captured a night watchman and a bank official opened the safe of the Sedgwick, Kas., State bank at 4 a. m. today with an explosion which wrecked the vault and aroused the town. They escaped with $2,500, releasing their captives a short distance from Sedgwick.

CINNIBAR DEPOSIT LURES MINERS TO ARKANSAS FIELDS

Little Rock, Ark., March 15.—(AP)—The discovery of cinnibar ore, source of mercury, has sent prospectors and mining men swarming into southwest Arkansas.

The towns of Graysonia and Amity have become scenes of intense activity. Many prospectors are making headquarters at Murfreesboro.

Along Cowhide creek, in Pike county, deposits of the ore have been found in a tract twenty-two miles long. The strip extends into Clark and Howard counties.

Dr. George O. Branner, state geologist, returning from a survey of the area, said several months will be required to determine fully the worth of the deposits. Experimental machinery is being brought in and virtually all available acreage has been sold or leased.

JUDGE WILL DECIDE TODAY ON GUILT OF OHIO BOY KIDNAPER

Warren, O., March 15.—[Special.]—A decision in the trial of Dowell Hargraves, 31, charged with kidnaping James Dejute Jr., 11, son of a well to do Niles contractor, will be given tomorrow by Judge Lynn B. Griffith. Judge Griffith took the case under advisement about noon today.

Hargraves did not take the witness stand and there were no defense witnesses.

Mango argued the state had failed to show any attempt had been made to extort money from the boy's parents. Hargraves was indicted for kidnaping with intent to extort, conviction for which carries life imprisonment unless the court extends mercy, which means 10 to 30 years' imprisonment.

If Hargraves is found not guilty of the charge, Prosecutor G. H. Birrell said he will immediately be rearrested and charged with child stealing.

John Demarco, captured and indicted with Hargraves, goes on trial on the same charge next Monday. Police and federal officers are still seeking alleged "higher ups" and a car used in the kidnaping. Tony Larocco, who was held in the case, was released today for the third time.

CONVICT BARES KIDNAPING PLOT HATCHED IN JAIL

Two Quizzed on Plans to Seize Lindy Baby.

and Mrs. Catherine Duchek, his landlady, was subjected to a long cross-examination in Jersey City. The Jersey police were mildly skeptical of Oliver's story, but the New York authorities continued to attach importance to the clew and Oliver was not released.

Oliver was taken to Jersey City and confronted by Gleason who immediately denied every word of the supposed kidnap plot. Oliver charged that Gleason, while they were in jail together, proposed that they kidnap the Lindbergh baby and give it to Mrs. Duchek to keep while they collected ransom. Oliver said that after Gleason got out of jail an attempt was made to approach Betty Gow. The police deny that Miss Gow was ever approached.

Another Prisoner Has Outing.

Oliver was in jail when the actual kidnaping took place. He suggested that detectives question Gleason and today's events followed. Gleason, although he denied the story, was held on a technical charge of disorderly conduct. No charge was made against Mrs. Duchek.

Oliver was said to have acquired a long police record before coming east. Gleason since getting out of jail has been friendly with bootleggers and followers of Owney Madden's gang.

Oliver was not the only prisoner who enjoyed a free outing in an automobile during the day by volunteering information about the kidnaping. John Venneman, an inmate of the Passaic county jail, awaiting trial on seventeen indictments, wanted to help locate the kidnapers, too, and Capt. John J. Lamb spent the day driving him around the state trying to locate the men who, the prisoner declared, he had heard in a Yonkers speakeasy plotting the kidnaping over illicit beverages. The search was a failure from every viewpoint but Venneman's.

Trace Missing Servants.

Other activities of the official hunt produced no constructive results. Frank Berg, suspect in the fantastic plot to kidnap Max Phillips of Eatontown, N. J., several years ago, was questioned and released. Another clew was followed to Schenectady, N. Y., but brought no results.

Col. Norman Schwartzkopf said late tonight the story told by Mrs. Lightfoot concerning the wood and chisel was being investigated. Col. Schwartzkopf said no trace had been found of the two servants.

WITNESS BALKS AT PROSECUTING PATSY CLEMENTI

Owner of Stolen Car Asks Probation for Hoodlum.

Patsy Clementi, west side hoodlum, who has boasted that he can "fix any rap," heard the principal state's witness in his trial announce yesterday that he did not want to prosecute the gangster or see him go to prison. Clementi and George Price are on trial before Judge John Prystalski in the Criminal court on a charge of larceny of an automobile. The defendants waived a jury.

The complaining witness was Roy C. Follett, 6529 Kenwood avenue, whose car was stolen. With apparent reluctance Follett told of the circumstances surrounding the disappearance of his automobile on Jan. 13. He was questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Martin Weisbrod. Follett said that he had given the car to his wife for the day and did not see it again until 9 o'clock that night, when the police called him.

Questioned by Defense.

"Do you desire to prosecute these men?" Crane asked Follett.

"No," replied Follett.

"You have no desire to see these men go to prison, have you?" asked Crane.

"No," answered Follett.

Then came a flood of objections from the state. "Well, I'd like to explain," Follett said. Judge Prystalski allowed him to continue.

"I talked to George Price's boss," said Follett, not mentioning the employer's name, "and he said he would give Price his job back. Price has a wife and child and I understand his wife is expecting another child. Clementi got married recently. I'd like to see both men put on probation."

Policeman Put on Stand.

The state excused Follett and called Policeman Thomas Torpy of the Maxwell station to the stand. He testified that he halted Clementi, driving Follett's car, and George Price, driving another automobile, near 64th street and Langley avenue on Jan. 13. Clementi admitted the car was stolen, Torpy said, and tried to bribe him not to make the arrest.

Court was adjourned after Torpy's testimony. Mrs. Follett will be called to the stand today to tell her story of the theft of the car.

2 BOYS HELD AS ROBBERS.

Reginald Austwick, 1001 North Parkside avenue, and Joseph Artenzo, 1040 North Central avenue, both 17 years old, were held to the grand jury yesterday on charges of robbery by Municipal Judge J. William Brooks. They were also sentenced to a year in the Bridewell for gun toting.

Follow These Rules:

1. Each day for 48 consecutive days (except Sunday) the Chicago Daily Tribune will print a United States Crossword Puzzle. The name of one of the 48 States in the United States will be in each puzzle. You are invited to solve the puzzle and name the State.

2. The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in Cash Prizes to persons who send in the nearest correctly solved complete sets of puzzles in accordance with these rules. Note: This means that you do not necessarily have to solve each of the 48 puzzles correctly to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest.

3. This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

4. Puzzles are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do NOT send in each puzzle separately. Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set of 48. Then send them to "Crosswords," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Puzzle No. 48 has been printed.

5. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Post Office Department. Make your entry simple and neat. Neatness will count.

6. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the puzzles and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

7. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

HIGH TAXES SEND LOOP LANDMARKS TO THE WRECKERS

Sites "Earn Their Keep" as Parking Places.

BY AL CHASE.

Announcement a few days ago that the Virginia hotel, aristocratic landmark of the mauve decade, was to make way for an open air parking station, calls attention to the fact that high taxes are driving a constantly increasing number of old time structures into the wreckers' hands. And in most cases an open air parking concern promptly takes over the site and makes it a "tax helper" if not a "tax payer" for the owner of the fee.

Exact figures on big open air parking firms are not available. The owners claim that the public believes the parking lots are gold mines and to give out any sort of figures would only start a rush of competition. Approximate figures, however, are available, which show that there is space for about 3,500 cars at one parking in the downtown and close-in neighborhoods.

Several Hundred Wrecked.

Several hundred large and small structures have been torn down in the last five years, with the number and size of the structures demolished constantly increasing. There were no open air parking stations prior to 1927, with the single exception of the southwest corner of Franklin and Madison, where the Shedd estate wrecked the old timer and the site became a parking area a little before that date.

The largest and most expensive structure, and one of the best known architectural examples of the work of H. H. Richardson, to be replaced by a parking station was the Marshall Field & Co. wholesale building on West Adams street. This is now the largest single parking station in the downtown area.

The Kirk soap factory, across from Tribune Tower, is replaced by what is claimed is the second largest parking space. Both of these, as well as a large share of other loop parking space, are operated by R. G. Lydy, said to be the largest houser of automobiles in the world. He is now touring Europe. The Virginia site has been leased by him.

Wacker Drive Popular.

Wacker drive is the outstanding thoroughfare in the open air parking business. A total of almost three entire blocks of old structures on which taxes were higher than incomes have been replaced by parking places.

Perhaps the most interesting transition was the passing of the famous old Dunham mansion, at the northwest corner of Michigan avenue and Harrison, adjoining the Congress hotel. This is one of the loop's tiniest open air garages, but the owners of the land find it is better than paying ever mounting taxes on an old residence.

One of the loop's most historic structures, the old Tremont house, at the southeast corner of Lake and Dearborn, was torn down some time ago and leased by Northwestern university to an open air garage concern. High taxes and obsolescence were the reasons for the demolition.

Express Building Replaced.

Another aged structure to be torn down was the American Express building, on Monroe street, across from the Majestic theater. Taxes were so high that the owners decided a parking station would be more profitable.

P. H. Darling, vice president of R. G. Lydy, said yesterday that so far no parking property has proved a complete payer of taxes. He states, however, it is a help.

HUNT SLAYERS OF BRIDEGROOM IN ROAD TRAGEDY

Authorities of Iroquois county yesterday continued their investigation into the death of Harold N. Stephenson, 24 years old, 3428 West 61st street, a bridegroom of three weeks, who was found shot to death in a ditch near Clifton, 13 miles south of Kankakee on Monday. A coroner's jury found that he had been murdered by unknown persons. The police believe he may have been slain by robbers, although $8 and a watch was found in his clothing. There was evidence that his automobile was forced into the ditch by the killers.

His father, W. K. Stephenson, testified at the inquest that his son had no business near Clifton where he was found.

Milk Producers Meet in City

MILK PRODUCERS HEAR MARKET IS NEAR AN UPTURN

Predictions of a better market for milk within the next six months were made yesterday before nearly 4,000 dairy farmers of the Chicago milk district who held their seventh annual convention at the Auditorium hotel. At the same time it was revealed that the 19,000 dairy farmers producing for the Chicago and suburban milk market sold 1,464,439,532 pounds of milk for a total of $29,413,572.14 through their Pure Milk association during 1931.

W. C. McQUEEN.

President W. C. McQueen, Elgin, in his address talked on the price and market situation and said that a return to prosperity will come "when the farmer is able to buy."

Sees Gain in Volume.

Don N. Geyer, association secretary, reported that milk producers in this area had received an average of $2.009 per hundredweight of milk in 1931, a decrease of 66 cents a hundredweight on an average since 1929. In contrast he said farm products, exclusive of milk, are selling at one-third of their 1929 price, while dairy products as a whole are two-thirds of the 1929 price.

"From now on sales should gain in volume," said Geyer. "The latter part of 1932 should find markets in a more healthy condition."

The members voted, by a large majority, to amend their by-laws so that it will be possible after July 1 to assess each member a maximum of 5 cents a hundred pounds of basic prices milk. The proceeds are to be used to reimburse farmers whose markets are destroyed by the closing of dairies after July 1. This assessment will be additional to the 3 cents a hundred the association now receives for general expense and advertising.

Collect from Fund.

By means of the reimbursement plan the farmers who lose their basic price markets by dairy closings will dispose of their milk at any price they can get and collect the difference between their receipts and the basic price from the fund.

Volume of milk sales, due to economic conditions, dropped 25 per cent in the Chicago area last year, it was disclosed. At present 80,000 quarts daily are being distributed through relief organizations.

SUSPECT HELD IN HOLDUP OF BANK AT ORLAND

Edward Hula, 35 years old, formerly of New Orleans, was identified yesterday as one of three men who attempted to rob the Orland State bank at Orland on Feb. 24.

Hula was turned over to Deputy Sheriff Merle Britten of the county highway police by Joliet authorities. He had been arrested on March 5 with Frank Schwanda, 29 years old, 1215 15th avenue, Maywood, in the McMullen restaurant at Frankfort, east of Joliet. Miss Elizabeth McMullen, daughter of the proprietor, identified Schwanda as the man who killed William Schmook, an employé of her father, in a holdup on Jan. 10.

DIVORCE RAIDEE TELLS OF PARTY WITH RAIDERS

Drinking Described in Reinken Hearing.

The convivial relations established between raiders and raidees in a raid on a Delaware Towers apartment on July 4, 1930, were described in court yesterday by the man named as corespondent in the divorce suit of Dietrich G. Reinken, 70 years old, an interior decorator. The hearing was before Circuit Judge Craig A. Hood.

Charles F. von Zukeschwerdt, of Evanston, official in a baking supplies company, testifying in behalf of Mrs. Louise Marian Ellis Reinken, 37 years old, said he was sleeping with her son, Ralph Sills, 18 years old, in the bedroom of her apartment in the Delaware Towers, 25 East Delaware place, when the raid occurred. Reinken in his bill for divorce charges Mrs. Reinken with adultery and desertion. In her cross-bill she charges desertion and conspiracy to defame her.

Alleges Bribe Suggestion.

Cross-examined by Attorney Wilfred M. Doherty, counsel for Reinken, Von Zukeschwerdt said that when the detectives and policemen entered the apartment early in the morning one of the policemn told him: "Fifty dollars will fix this up." Nevertheless, he said, they all went to the East Chicago avenue police station.

Q.—Wasn't the first thing you said to the officer: 'O, I told my wife I was going on a vacation?' A.—It was not. I didn't say it.

The witness then related that after they arrived at the station, where they were booked, one of the policemen advised him "not to use my right name," so that he used the name "Charlie Jasper." Later, he said, some of the raiders, Mrs. Reinken and he had some drinks "at a club on the middle north side." When the case was called for a court hearing the following Mohday it was not prosecuted, he said.

Doesn't Invite His Wife.

Judge Hood interrupted to ask Von Zukeschwerdt if on the occasion of a dinner party he gave when he occupied a room at Mrs. Reinken's apartment he had invited his own wife to attend, in addition to some of his employés and their wives.

"No, suh," said Von Zukeschwerdt with an Alabama accent. "Mrs. von Zukeschwerdt is a very busy lady with social affairs and she never attended any business parties or had anything to do with my business."

Earlier in the day Mrs. Reinken had told the court that she knew Mrs. von Zukeschwerdt, adding: "We are both members of the Southern Women's alliance and are good friends."

Explains His City Room.

Von Zukesdhwerdt explained, under direct examination by Mrs. Reinken's attorney, former Judge Charles S. Cutting, that he found it convenient to have a room in the city for occasional use in calling on the baking trade, and therefore took the room in Mrs. Reinken's apartment. It was often necessary for him to call on a baker to demonstrate a cake mix, for instance, at 4 a. m. or 1 a. m., or some other early morning hour, he said.

Questioned by Judge Hood, Von Zukeschwerdt said that he knew he was being spied on by detectives early in June, 1930, when he engaged the room in Mrs. Reinken's apartment.

SUPPRESS "TRUE STORY" ISSUE OF U. OF C. MAGAZINE

Outbursts by student editors moved faculty authorities to action yesterday both at the University of Chicago and Northwestern university.

At the University of Chicago the current issue of the Phoenix, humorous publication, was suppressed on the orders of William E. Scott, assistant dean of students in charge of publications.

He took action after a pamphlet was circulated on the campus Monday, advertising the impending "true story number" of the magazine as "bare facts of loose life and low love." Orin Tovrov, editor of the magazine, resigned because of the incident.

At Northwestern university, Prof. Frederick Heidbrink, chairman of the board on student publications, called a meeting today at which Jack Leach, head of the editorial board on the Daily Northwestern, student newspaper, will be questioned.

Leach, who wrote an editorial in last Thursday's issue of the newspaper, interpreted as an attack on the morality of women students, last night announced his resignation from the publication's staff. He admitted that the article was "injudiciously phrased," but asserted no reflection on the moral standards of co-eds was intended.

His explanation was that he had quoted from an article scheduled to appear in the campus literary magazine, "M. S." but only with the object of stirring interest in a correct teaching of sex information. Pending the hearing today the issue of "M. S." is being withheld from circulation.

FRENCH ENVOY TO BE GUEST OF CHICAGO TODAY

Claudel and Hurley to Make Trip by Air.

Paul Claudel, French ambassador to the United States, will arrive in Chicago today for a round of dinners, meetings, interviews, and sightseeing tours. The ambassador, accompanied by Secretary of War Patrick Hurley, will fly here from Washington. The ambassador is a noted author and dramatist.

M. CLAUDEL.

When the wheels of the plane come to a stop this afternoon, M. Claudel will be greeted by Rene Weiller, French consul general, Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the 6th corps area, and a group of French officials in Chicago. He will be taken to the Ambassador East hotel, where he will stay during his visit here.

Dinner at Exposition.

The program of functions will start tomorrow morning when M. Claudel will call on Mayor Cermak. Then will follow a visit with Samuel Insull. In the afternoon Ambassador Claudel and attaches of his embassy will be shown through the Century of Progress buildings. Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Dawes will act as official hosts for the exposition in a dinner for the French diplomats at the Administration building in the evening.

Friday's activities will begin with a visit to Northwestern university and a reception there in the morning. M. Claudel will be conducted through the Art institute in the afternoon. At night the French societies will hold a banquet for the ambassador in the Palmer house. Afterward a reception will be held at which the Frenchmen, Syrians, Franco-Canadians, Czecho-Slovakians and the Polish society will participate.

Will Visit Board of Trade.

M. Claudel will visit the Chicago Board of Trade Saturday morning. A trip to the University of Chicago and a talk with President Robert Maynard Hutchins will follow. The diplomat will be guest of Robert Hall McCormick at the Chicago club for luncheon.

After a dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, M. Claudel will leave Saturday night for Kansas City, where another round of festivities will start on Sunday.

Roszika Dolly Will Marry IrvingNetcher in N.Y.Today

New York, March 15.—(AP)—Roszika Dolly, whose pearls, matrimonial ventures and Monte Carlo winnings, have been the talk of two continents, and Irving Netcher, son of a Chicago department store owner, arrived from Paris on the Olympic tonight to be married tomorrow by Mayor James J. Walker.

Italy's Unemployed Put at 1,147,000, a New High

ROME, March 15.—(AP)—Italy's unemployed at the end of February totaled 1,147,000, a new high and an increase of 96,000 in a month. One-fourth of that number receive government aid.

RETIRE AT 76? NOT ALASKA'S FLYING BISHOP

Peter T. Rowe Too Busy for Vacation.

Seventy-six years old, with nearly forty rugged years behind him on the missionary trails of the arctic, the flying bishop of the Yukon came to Chicago yesterday—but not to stay. His few days here constitute only a pause in the busy life of Peter Trimble Rowe, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Alaska, and once the best musher in Alaska. To thousands he is known as "the bishop of all outdoors."

With all the vehemence of a constitution toughened by exposure to rigorous weather and by canoe and snowshoe travel, the venerable clergyman denied that his visit here is in the nature of a vacation. He "never takes vacations," and he doesn't plan to retire.

Not His Idea At All.

"That was somebody else's idea, not mine," he says and dismisses the topic.

But if "retiring" didn't interest Bishop Rowe, other matters did. Prohibition, he said, is a failure so far as Alaska is concerned. A new gold rush to his territory he thinks will be featured by the use of airplanes. Senatorial investigations he has little use for, especially the one directed against the government railroad in Alaska. And unemployment.

The visitor suggested that a few hundred thousand of Chicago's jobless be sent to his home country, which can accommodate "about five million people," while its present population is approximately 100,000.

In the far north, he pointed out, a huge population can live comfortably on truck farming. Vegetables of all kinds, including potatoes, tomatoes, and the like, even grains and honey, can be produced. Families can live on much less than in the city, he added, and if the transportation costs were not so great, Alaska would offer a great field for pioneering.

No Depression in Alaska.

Asked how the depression had affected that area, the bishop retorted that people there hardly know there is such a thing. A slight decrease has been noted in the market for the country's products, which, however, has not affected the Alaskans much.

Prohibition has done only harm to the Indians in the regions he visits, Bishop Rowe said. They are making moonshine and bootlegging as never before since prohibition became effective.

Bishop Rowe will leave tomorrow night for California for a short stay, and then return to the east again on business. Later he will return to Alaska.

2 NOTED EDUCATORS GIVEN DEGREES AT U. OF C. CONVOCATION

Honorary degrees were conferred yesterday on two eminent educators by the University of Chicago at its 167th convocation. Dr. Samuel Capen, chancellor of the University of Buffalo, was given the degree of doctor of laws, and Dr. Edward L. Thorndike of Columbia university received the degree of doctor of sciences. Both participated in the dedicatory ceremonies of the graduate education building.

At the exercises in the university chapel, at which Dr. Charles H. Judd, head of the department of education, was the main speaker, President Robert Maynard Hutchins presided and conferred degrees and certificates on 275 graduating students. One hundred and twenty-five received the bachelor's degree, 35 the master of arts, one the doctor of divinity, one the bachelor of laws, twelve the doctor of journalism. Two from the division of biological sciences received the doctor of medicine degree, as did 32 from Rush Medical college. Thirty-two were made doctors of philosophy.

Closed committee meetings yesterday preceded the sessions today and tomorrow of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools at the Stevens hotel. Reports of institutions inspected during the year for their athletic and educational standards were heard, and recommendations prepared for today's meetings.

Aimee Mc-Pherson-Hutton Is Placed in a Hospital

Los Angeles, Cal., March 15.—(AP)—Aimee McPherson-Hutton, the evangelist, was taken to a hospital here tonight for a blood transfusion operation tomorrow. She collapsed in the pulpit of Angelus temple last Sunday. Her husband, David Hutton, said tonight that she had grown weaker. Mrs. McPherson-Hutton and her husband, who were married last September, returned March 5 from a trip to the Canal Zone and Cuba.

OWNERS REJECT MINERS' DEMAND FOR HIGHER WAGE

Illinois coal operators yesterday flatly refused the renewed demands of union miners for an increase in the basic wage scale when the joint wage conference reconvened at the Majestic hotel. A subcommittee of nine representatives each from the operators and unions was delegated to handle the negotiations for a contract to replace the present one, expiring March 31.

The general scale conference composed of approximately fifty members, which has held sessions since last Tuesday, was adjourned pending the report of the subcommittee. An additional committee of operators and miners was appointed to make a survey of the Chicago coal yards to obtain an exact tabulation of the interstate competition faced by the Illinois industry.

At the first meeting of the subcommittee, held last night, it was agreed that William B. Wilson, joint arbitrator for Illinois miners and operators, will sit in the conferences without a vote.

GERMANY SAFE AND SANE, VIEW OF EX-DIPLOMAT

International confidence, business and banking will be improved materially as a result of President von Hindenberg's large lead in the recent German election, in the opinion of Richard von Kuhlmann, former foreign minister for Germany, who is in Chicago on a lecture tour. A victory for President von Hindenburg in the runoff election in April, he said, is virtually certain.

Between dispatching telegrams, dictating letters and receiving callers in his suite at the Drake hotel yesterday, Dr. von Kuhlmann, who now heads the Saar Steel works, talked optimistically of the courage and sanity of the German people as demonstrated by their ballots.

"It is not to be wondered at," he said, "that the long series of political humiliations following the Versailles treaty, combined with acute economic suffering, should have made a large number of malcontents. But the result of the election goes a long way to show that the bulk of the people are sound and sober."

JOHN FARMER'S PROHIBITION BILL.

The moment the tickers carried the news of the defeat of the Beck-Linthicum resolution in the house of representatives in Washington the grain market began to break. The victory of the drys, in the words of Mr. Charles Michaels, THE TRIBUNE's veteran observer of the grain markets, "started a selling movement in grain which swept aside all opposition and sent prices plunging downward in a violent manner. . . . There was nothing in the early trading that suggested fireworks before the end of the day, wheat holding within a range of around ½ cent until the tickers announced the result of the first actual test vote on prohibition which has been held in the house."

Prices crumbled. The defeat of the resolution cost the farmers of this country $23,000,000. Wheat dropped 2⅜ to 3¼ cents a bushel. Corn lost from 1¼ to 1½ cents. Rye declined almost as much as wheat. Oats dropped ¾ cent.

Those are figures for the contemplation of any farmers who still think there is no relationship between prohibition and the price of grain. There was little reason to expect a wet victory in the house, but that thin hope was sufficient to add $23,000,000 to the price of what farmers have to sell. As soon as the hope was dissipated the added value disappeared. If prohibition were to be abolished, or even if beer were to be legalized, a new market for wheat, corn, and rye would be created which would add much more than $23,000,000 to the annual income of the American farmer.

The dry vote came for much the most part from rural congressmen. Downstate Illinois produced seven dry votes. Iowa, where the tall corn grows, gave ten dry votes to one wet vote. Indiana voted 8 dry to 3 wet. Among the spring wheat states, North Dakota cast its three votes to the drys, South Dakota was 2 to 1 dry and Minnesota voted 5 to 5. Among the winter wheat states, Kansas gave all its eight votes to the drys, and Oklahoma duplicated Kansas' contribution. Missouri was 11 to 5 dry. Texas was dry, 14 to 3, with Speaker Garner not voting. And so on.

The representatives of the men who grow corn, wheat, and rye think that their constituents prefer a purely fictitious and nonexistent prohibition to a fair return for their toil and cash in the bank. This is an assumption which will be tested at the next congressional elections. A good many of the dry congressmen whose votes robbed the farmers of $23,000,000 in half an hour are going to get their come-uppance unless the American farmer is not the level headed individual he is supposed to be.

WHO SHALL PUNISH CRIME?

Judge Charles C. Nott Jr. of the Court of General Sessions, the Criminal court of New York county, deserves a vote of thanks for his protest against the tendency of the parole board to ignore the deterrent value of sentences. The protest has significance outside of New York since the tendency Judge Nott objects to is general throughout the country among well meaning humanitarians. The New York board, says Judge Nott, "apparently looks at the whole matter from the standpoint of the individual defendant and pays no attention to the fact that sentences are imposed as a deterrent to crimes and in the public interest."

This is the attitude taken by people who plead the youth of murderers. We have recently had a conspicuous instance in the effort to obtain leniency for a boy who killed ruthlessly in a robbery on a street car. It was the basis of the plea in the Gary atrocity and in cases of crimes of violence committed by youth or by females of any age. It represents a false humanitarianism, for the leniency granted removes from others the fear of severe consequences which may restrain their violent impulses, and in being humane to the convicted criminal is inhumane to others tempted to crime and to their victims.

Judge Nott's protest was evoked by proposed legislation authorizing the parole board to go before the sentencing judge and request the reduction of the minimum term of any felony prisoner serving a minimum of more than one year. The bill in this form is said to be a compromise with the measure first proposed by the Lewisohn commission to investigate prison construction and administration, which the Panel, publication of the New York Grand Jurors' association, says "admittedly seeks the passing of laws which would place all felony offenders, including repeaters, sentenced to longer than one year, under the sole jurisdiction of the parole board, to be released secretly whenever the board pleased."

Thus the recent outbreaks in several American prisons are being exploited by sentimentalists, with the sympathetic aid of politicians who see in a loose and irresponsible system of criminal control the means of procuring favors for their henchmen. Such efforts are gravely disparaging the system of parole, which was intended to be a means of giving to criminal discipline a reasonable elasticity to deal with individual cases promising reconstruction. But not satisfied with a carefully restrained experiment, the effort is now to take punishment out of the hands of courts and put it in the hands of parole boards. When the latter are influenced by practical politicians corruption is inevitable. Where they are not, they substitute their judgment for that of judges and juries who have heard the evidence, viewed the witnesses, and under solemn oath have come to deliberate conclusions. That hearings before parole boards are more conducive to just judgment than trials under a court procedure like ours [which most jealously safeguards the rights of persons charged with crime] can only be believed by sentimentalists who are so bent upon mercy for the criminal that they have none for the victims of crime.

Our defense against crime is not so strong that we can afford to weaken it deliberately in the name of a false humanitarianism or half baked theories of science. Judge Nott's protest is not only applicable to the New York parole bill but to a general tendency among Americans to forget the deterrent value of condign punishment, to pity the fate of the criminal and forget the fate of his victims and the fate of future victims whom a soft headed leniency toward criminals condemns in advance to suffer at criminal hands.

KEEPING THE WORLD SANE.

Although the remark may seem paradoxical, the German election was a victory for conservatism. It is further evidence that, confronted by the perils and hardships of world depression, the peoples of the great nations are inclined not to radical adventures. This is worth the consideration of politicians in the United States who are weighing the chances of policy.

Hitlerism drew its voting strength, it is true, from classes normally conservative and, in some respects, even reactionary. But Hitlerism was in no practical sense conservative. It not only proposed many radical measures and policies, but was in its spirit reckless and emotional. The moral and material sufferings of the German people during and since the war inevitably have created profound elements of impatience and revolt, but it is greatly to the credit of German national character that in this ordeal a majority of the German voters, a majority undoubtedly representing the most substantial elements of the German people, supported a régime of moderation in internal and foreign policies, while communism made no gains. The British election revealed the same forces of self-preservation, powerfully asserting themselves against revolution. Even the Spanish revolution avoided excesses and remained in the control of responsible leaders.

We in America are passing through a financial and economic ordeal more severe, perhaps, all things considered, than any similar event in our history, and in such circumstances, as in the past, the extremist, the impractical, the emotional and theoretical radical, as well as the charlatan and the unscrupulous political gambler, are all very conspicuous. Nostrums and panaceas, impulsive and ill-conceived proposals, harmful or even destructive in their possibilities, are urged with various support, some with backing powerful enough to be threatening. This ferment is injurious to the processes of recovery, checking constructive action in some degree, but having its worst effect upon the morale of the public and of the leadership both of political action and of finance and business. It is an unescapable evil in such periods, but it should not be permitted to obscure the conservative forces in the national character which will assert themselves to defeat destructive measures and conserve the elements of national recovery.

The essential instinct of the American people is conservative in the best sense of the word, which not only does not refuse but rather invites well considered experiment and fully recognizes that the health of institutions, their preservation, indeed, lies in wise readjustment to changing conditions. In the midst of discontent and tribulation this instinct is not weakened but strengthened and the political action which ignores it and is obedient to shallow and flamboyant demands is going to be rebuked and defeated.

The political and public leadership which respects the underlying forces which have made American progress and prosperity through our whole history, which keeps its footing on the approved principles of economic, social and political welfare as the American nation has applied them in every great emergency, will have the support of the American people.

DRAMATURGIC KNOW-IT-ALLS.

[Brooklyn Eagle.]

American drama has long needed such a stanch defender as Representative Sirovich, who wants the federal government to call to account the know-it-all dramatic critics who are destroying the legitimate drama by their wanton criticism.

In charging that only ten out of ninety theaters are now open in New York because of the destructive criticism of our first night reviewers, Dr. Sirovich shows himself to be rather weak as to facts. The advertising columns show a good many more plays now running on Broadway, but, of course, a great deal depends on what Dr. Sirovich, himself a playwright of parts, would call legitimate drama.

We have always felt that dramatic reviewers should take themselves less seriously. They might, for example, follow the practice common among politicians of avoiding crucial issues. Instead of telling readers what they think of a play they might sidestep altogether, leaving the fate of the play entirely in the hands of theatergoers. But Dr. Sirovich is wrong in his contention that the critics, by their know-it-all reviews, hurt the show business.

Every one of these smart Alecks condemned "Abie's Irish Rose," only to have that masterpiece run for years and make millions for the producers. This is only one of many examples of this kind. Many plays now on Broadway were severely criticized.

But there is nothing new in this. Gerhart Hauptmann, the German dramatist now visiting New York, could tell Dr. Sirovich an interesting story of the hostility displayed toward his work, not only by critics, but by the force of government represented by the house of Hohenzollern. The Hohenzollerns were not very successful in curbing critics, dramatic or other, while the author of "The Weavers" and other great dramas is recognized as one of the greatest of modern dramatic poets.

We realize that congress, in the absence of anything more serious to occupy its time, may quite naturally feel inclined to undertake the rehabilitation of the American drama, which has been going downhill ever since the production some years ago of a play by Representative Sirovich called "Schemers." But we warn congress to stick to the serious drama. There isn't enough humor in either house to deal with ebullitions of the comic spirit.

How to the line, let the quips fall where they may.

THERE IS ALWAYS A BRIGHT SIDE to every picture do you but look for it. And look, Pollyanna, it may be true that when congress voted down malt liquors last Monday wheat declined so much that our sturdy peasantry lost twenty-three million bucks. That is the sad picture to which we called attention. Now for its bright side. Wheat when down, yes. But the weird chemicals and dyes used to make hootch and the funny stuff they put in near beer to make it taste a little better must have all gone up in price. And think of the rise in the price of needles they use in needling beer. And how the synthesis they put in the synthetic gin must have fairly boomed. And how the pepper market must have done a rocket's flight skyward. It's simply astonishing the amount of pepper they put in hootch nowadays.

And the stuff they put in automobiles to keep 'em from freezing stiff, that must have gone up amazingly, because lots of people find it their favorite beverage. And the stored up heat that comes in little tin cans—oh, that must have had a wonderful rise in price. And the grapejuice that comes in neat kegs and roosts comfortably in the family closet for three months while nature takes its course, ah, it must have gone to a new high. And the nice wine bricks—well, we're glad that we bought all our wine bricks when the market was low.

And think of all the labels dated twenty, thirty, or fifty years ago and which have to be stained yellow and neatly covered with cobwebs—they must cost a lot more today than before congress took its vote. Ah, yes, while the price of wheat got an awful kick in the pants, look how the other things used in our newest basic industry must have climbed right up.

And how the bootleggers must have jumped the price of rare old Scotch made yesterday in Chicago in a bathtub. We see from this, Pollyanna, that there is always a bright side to every picture, a silver lining to every cloud.

LET US BE THIEVES TONIGHT.

Let us be thieves, just for tonight,
While we are young, while we are young;
So short the night is till the stars
Grow cold and one by one are flung
Into the cauldron of the dawn;
So short a while till we are gone!

Let us be thieves tonight, and steal
One moment from eternity,
One moment only from the wealth
Of all the hours yet to be:
One pearl snatched from the swirling stream,
One moment . . . ours to live a dream!

To live a dream! . . . Tonight to know
In one sweet draught all ecstasy,
All love, all life, all grandeur, joy:
Tonight at last to be set free,
To walk with you within a land
Of aching beauty, hand in hand.

Not dare? Not dare? When millions are
Who strive all through their lives to keep
One last sweet tryst with lifelong dreams
Before they go to dreamless sleep?
When all our days must after seem
But fragments of a shattered dream?

OVER A THOUSAND RUSSIANS, men, women, and children, are reported having been shot trying to escape across the ice in the Dniester into Rumania. If sovietism is all that its enthusiasts claim for it, why do the happy people who enjoy its blessing try to escape? They used to prove conclusively that slavery in the south was a wonderful boon to the black people, and whenever an Eliza escaped across the ice with the bloodhounds baying at her heels the people in the north would mildly wonder if there were not some features in slavery not altogether attractive. And when we read that people will risk being shot or drowned to scramble across the ice in the river the thought will creep into the mind that perhaps there are some drawbacks to communism. Maybe the champagne supply is running low or there's not enough automobiles on the market to supply the spring demand.

SONGS FOR WANDERERS.

"Listen to me!"
Said the wind from the sea,
"Oh, listen to me only!
The wideness of space
Has tears on its face,
And man is ever lonely . . ."

"Listen to me!"
Said the wind in the tree,
"Oh, listen to me only!
The gray city dust,
Has the flavor of rust,
And men in crowds are lonely!"

"Listen to me!"
Said a small golden bee,
"Oh, listen to me only!
The wanderer must
Taste of rain and of dust,
And be forever . . . lonely . . ."

MENTAL HYGIENE.

DR. H. S. HULBERT, addressing a meeting of superintendents, foremen, and personal officials of industrial concerns employing many thousand men and women, gave his hearers some explanations of the prejudices, behavior attitudes, and opinions of those under their direction. The following quotations are taken from his four lectures:

The penalty of discouragement follows self-disappointment from failure to attain improbably high self-expectations.

Ignorance of hidden mental mechanisms is responsible for the misjudgments of what humans may be expected to do.

A working knowledge is not too difficult to obtain, and is really an interesting study.

Daydreams are very expensive to the personality. Whenever an "if," "when," or "I wish" thought comes into the mind, examine it carefully. If it is fantastic abandon it. If it is practical do something more about it.

There is an emotional budget. If we overspend we become emotionally tired. If we vastly overspend we become emotionally fatigued. If we enormously overspend we become emotionally exhausted.

Worry does no good. The rule is—do something, or else abandon that line of thought.

When you find persons worrying about things that have already happened, beware of their mental stability.

The reason we are not afraid of criminals when they come out of prison is that they have spent so much time plotting revenge that they have exhausted themselves emotionally. They come out listless, inactive, harmless.

When a person has been hurt at work, and feels disgruntled, return him to work as promptly as possible. Pick tasks that he can certainly succeed at. Occupation and success are great personality tonics.

The happy moments of our lives are those in which we are working with our hands, at tasks that we are thinking about and taking pleasure in.

Unhappiness provides fatigue.

An official cannot make his workmen obey rules which he himself disobeys. The workmen put themselves in the superior's place. If he cheats by coming to work late so will they.

If you must base your actions on inferences then cultivate the habit of inferring favorably. If you go out to sell something and infer unfavorably, expect to be turned down—you will be. Good salesmen infer favorably.

Character means decisiveness in the personality. A person of strong character is one who makes decisions for himself.

Do not criticize others. If you must blame, mix some praise with the blame.

Go slow with self-forgiveness. Properly used, it improves personality. But if you err and then forgive yourself with the full intent to err again in the same way, you are indulging in something that ranks with dope in its disintegration of personality.

You must do nothing that will hurt yourself or others, and you should demand the same rule of conduct of others.

HALITOSIS.

E. N. writes: I have had halitosis for a few years, and I can't seem to get rid of it. First I thought the odor was coming from diseased tonsils, and I had them removed, but still it remained. Then I had my teeth looked after, and the dentist said they were sound. I thought food might be fermenting in my stomach, so I took medicine for it, on a physician's prescription, for two weeks. Nevertheless, I still believe the original cause is from my stomach, but then again it is possible that it isn't. What can I do to cure, or at least dismiss this odor temporarily while I am in company?

What makes me believe it is my stomach is that when I drink a few glasses of beer it completely changes the odor to a more disgusting one. If it were from some other cause the beer would not have any effect on the odor.

REPLY.

You are probably right in your guess. In most cases the trouble is in the digestive tract. The papers are full of advertisements of remedies "to dismiss the odor temporarily." Use one of these. If you want to prevent you will probably need to change radically some of your habits. Apparently you must choose between beer and a sweet breath. You may prefer beer. Probably you will need to make material changes in your food.

SCHOOL FRATERNITIES.

Chicago, March 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. A group of boys, about half of whom are high school students, have organized what they choose to call a "fraternity." Having heard rumors to the effect that it is illegal for high school boys to belong to fraternities, I appeal to you as the most likely source of information to set me right on this. 2. Also, the group wishes to obtain a charter. I would appreciate it very much if you would give me the details or the state department from which I could obtain the information. S. B.

1. Section 1 of the act on fraternities, sororities, and secret societies defines a public school fraternity as: "Any organization composed wholly or in part of public school pupils which seeks to perpetuate itself by taking in additional members from the pupils enrolled in such school on the basis of the decision of its membership, rather than upon the free choice of any pupil in the school." Section 2 declares such organizations "inimical to the public good." Section 3 makes it the duty of school directors, board of education, etc., "to suspend or expel any pupil who shall be or remain a member."

2. You can secure printed forms and instructions for organizing a corporation not for profit by writing to the secretary of state.

STATIONARY ENGINEERS.

Chicago, March 10.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you please advise when and where city and state examinations are to be held for stationary engineers? What are the qualifications? C. E. W.

I wish to submit the following extract from the city ordinance: "An applicant for a license as engineer shall be at least 21 years of age, temperate, of good habits; he shall have had at least two years' practical experience as a fireman, engineer or machinist in the operation or construction of steam engines and boilers; all of which shall be vouched for in writing by two citizens of Chicago." The next examinations will be held March 15 and March 29, 1932, 9 a. m., at the offices of the board of examining engineers, 1008 city hall. Applications and any further information desired by applicants can be obtained at the offices of the board. Residence in Chicago is not required. The state of Illinois has not passed a law governing the operation of steam plants, except in the coal mines.

CHINA-JAPAN WAR, 1894

LONDON, Oct. 7.—A Shanghai dispatch says Prince Kong, the emperor's uncle, who was recently called from retirement to take the position of president of the tsung li yamen and of the presidency of the admiralty, and to whom was intrusted the conduct of the war with Japan, remains in Peking, where he is occupied with providing defenses for the capital. He is, however, in touch with Viceroy Li Hung-chang, who is at Tientsin. Li Hung-chang has sent another body of 8,000 well armed men to Peking, but his best regiments remain at Tientsin.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 8.—To check the depredations of Chinese marauders, the Russian government has decided to send to the frontier five battalions of Siberian troops, two sotnias of Cossacks and three batteries of artillery, all under the command of Gen. Neschenk.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 8.—A St. Petersburg dispatch says the Russian government has launched a strong protest against the recent invasion of the Russian frontier by an armed body of Chinese. Russia is said to have declared that this breach of international law demands the payment of a substantial indemnity.

PARIS, Oct. 8.—It was semi-officially stated that the dispatch of French warships to China is by virtue of an international agreement to which Great Britain, Russia, Germany, and France already have adhered.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 8.—United States Minister Denby has warned American residents of Peking that the city is certain to be attacked by the Japanese and has advised that all women and children be sent at once to places of safety. Already many of the wealthier natives are departing and many others preparing to follow their example.

28 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 16, 1904.

LONDON.—A Yinkow dispatch says the Japanese made another attack on Port Arthur on March 13 as a challenge to Admiral Makaroff to come out and fight. During the heavy bombardment the Japanese were in a position where the forts could not train their guns upon them. The total Russian casualties were 300 killed or wounded.

TOKIO.—A rumor has been current here that the entire Russian fleet has escaped from Port Arthur and is now at sea. News of a great naval battle is hourly expected. It is believed that the Russian fleet is endeavoring to reach Vladivostok.

ST. PETERSBURG.—The report from Newchwang that four Russian steamers have been sunk at the entrance to Port Arthur is authoritatively denied here. Gen. Kouropatkin expects to reach Mukden on March 26, and is expected to enter at once upon his duties as commander in chief of the Manchurian army. He had his plan of campaign practically perfected before he left here for the far east.

CHICAGO.—Without waiting for the mayor's signature to make it a law, Chief of Police O'Neill put the new saloon ordinance in force. As a result practically all saloons downtown and in the various levee districts were deserted at 1 o'clock this morning. In most cases the curtains were drawn back and lights disclosed deserted barrooms.

NEW YORK.—John D. Rockefeller has cornered the violet market and H. McK. Twombly has a monopoly on the orchid output. New York florists are buying 30,000 violets a day from Mr. Rockefeller at Dobbs Ferry and for a long time have been depending entirely on the greenhouses of Mr. Twombly at Madison, N. J., for their supply of orchids. Every Sunday Mr. Rockefeller presents each member of his famous Sunday school class with a bouquet of the finest violets.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 16, 1916.

EL PASO, Tex.—Two airplanes flew in advance of Gen. Pershing's expedition into Mexico to capture Francisco Villa, whose bandits raided Columbus, N. M. The troops pitched tents and are in camp tonight, seven and one-half miles from the border. It is believed they are heading towards Guzman, which is the outlet on the Northwestern of Mexico railroad. Villa at last accounts was less than thirty miles from Guzman, near Corralitos. One hundred homes of Americans, including many Mormons, were burned by Villa as he rode through Casas Grandes en route to the Galena district, according to Alexander S. Traut, a Mormon, who arrived at the border. He said the Villa bandits burned every American home they found, after looting many on their way eastward.

SAN DIEGO, Cal.—The torpedo boat destroyer Stewart left here at midnight for Ensenada, Mexico, under orders from Admiral Winslow, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, following instructions received from the navy department. This action coincides with reports brought here by fishermen of a threatened revolt in the garrison there.

WASHINGTON.—The war department is carefully considering a call to the organized militia for patrol duty on the north side of the Mexican border in accordance with the insistence of Maj. Gen. Funston that 50,000 men are needed for this work.

SO THIS IS MISSOURI!

PRESERVING THE DECENCIES.

Chicago, March 11.—There was an article in THE TRIBUNE of March 10 saying that a petition had been put before Mayor Cermak asking him to allow a certain group of one thousand people to erect an inclosure around the Rogers Park beach to use for sun bathing.

This sort of thing is repulsive to decent living, intelligent people. Men and women lower themselves to the brute when they commit such acts as are contrary to common decency. They shed themselves of all dignity and superiority to animals. Surely Chicago will not blacken its name by legalizing this, especially after several fashionable eastern resorts have gone so far as to place definite restrictions on bathing attire.

Another phase of the question is, How can we expect the younger generation to uphold the laws of decency if the older people take such drastic means to do away with them? In the interests of our children alone we must protest against such measures.

MARY LOUISE BURTHILL.

HOW DRY IS ILLINOIS?

Chicago, March 1.—Contrary to the statement in Mr. D. W. Grandon's letter in today's Voice of the People, Mrs. Ruth Hannah McCormick did not run as an "out and out" wet, but declared that she would abide by the referendum on prohibition. Mr. Grandon wants us to believe that tens of thousands of Republicans stayed at home and did not vote because of a wet plank in the Republican platform. Does he remember that the dry Republicans had an opportunity to express their choice in voting for Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, who ran as a dry Republican? Does he also recall how many votes she polled?

I agree that prohibition is not the "cause" of all crime, but we do say that prohibition has created a fertile field for many major crimes and present day corruption and disregard for law and order. We wets are not so foolish as to feel that to repeal the eighteenth amendment will abolish all crime, as the drys led us to believe it would, but we do know that it would be a big factor in restoring this country to prosperity. You cannot abolish an industry from any nation without sooner or later feeling the effects. Prohibit the manufacture of automobiles and see what would happen.

President Hoover was not elected because he was a dry, but rather because people believed that the good times we had under past Republican administrations (for which we are now dearly paying) would continue. I, too, foolishly believed it. Mr. Smith (I am sorry to say) lost many votes for other reasons. Mr. Grandon knows or should know what these reasons were.

I again agree with him when he says that the Republican party should stay dry, for if they change now it will only mean that they know which way the wind blows and are doing so for political reasons. Next November will tell the tale. ARTHUR H. J. DOMKE.

A DANGEROUS STREET.

Chicago, March 11.—Your editorial of March 9 on the automobile death rate on Ashland avenue, Halsted street, and Western avenue was very timely.

I work on Ashland avenue and have to get off and on the street car at 42d and Ashland avenue daily. Getting off isn't so bad, but getting on the car is a real problem. You first take your life in your hands trying to get to the safety island, and after you do reach it it is crowded, machines are whizzing by in front of you and back of you, and when the street car does come the jostling is so great that a number of the people are shoved off the safety island on to the street, and it is a miracle there are not more serious accidents than there are.

Since Ashland avenue was widened motorists use it for a speedway without regard for traffic rules.

My suggestion for reducing accidents on these streets is to compel the motorist to stop behind the street car even though there is a safety island, and also put some motorcycle police on these streets, especially Ashland avenue, to cut down speeding and reckless driving.

W. J.

SUGGESTIONS.

Chicago, March 9.—Conditions on Western avenue, Ashland avenue, and Halsted street, referred to editorially in THE TRIBUNE this morning, would be improved if those thoroughfares in the future be designated as "through streets."

The so-called safety islands have been the cause of many fatal auto accidents during the long period of their evolution to present state of greater perfection. An autoist paralleling a street car, before realizing that he is approaching such an island is likely to find himself crowded in front of it by other autos, into a position from which there is no escape.

I suggest that a study be made also to select from the street car streets those that are the most dangerous, and these should be made into stop streets.

There has been a good deal said in favor of designating as "one way streets" and "thoroughfare" streets the nearest parallel street on each side of the section line streets in Chicago. This undoubtedly would decrease automobile traffic on streets that are incumbered with car lines. Also it would lessen the urge for the widening of our longer streets, with attendant expense for damage to real estate owners, reconstruction, etc.

POLISH FARMERS FACE STARVATION AS PRICES CRASH

Few Jobless, but Peasant Areas Are Suffering.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, March 15.—"Is there a crisis in Poland? The people seem to be well fed and dressed. The restaurants are crowded and it is impossible to get a seat in any night club. Unemployment is small—about 300,000 out of a population of 32,000,000. And the Police government is caring for the unemployed."

Such comments are heard daily from visitors to Poland. Facts seem to contradict each other. Further, Poland is the cheapest country for foodstuffs in Europe today. The foreigner is, therefore, apt to conclude that cries of a crisis are overdone.

But travelers see only the cities. There conditions are far from bad. Warsaw, Cracow, Lwow, and Poznan are not suffering greatly. Lodz and Bialystok are recovering. Warsaw is a paradise in the present world of depression. There is not a single vacant store in the city of 1,200,000.

Price of Liquor High .

Standing room is scarce in the great dance halls such as the Adria or the Bodega, which accommodate 2,000 persons. And the price of liquor is sky high. A combination of 99 per cent municipal water and 1 per cent falsified whisky costs 80 cents. A bottle of "French" champagne costs $12 to $15.

But, in the large agricultural districts the peasants are facing starvation.

It is market day in Lowicz, a village famous for the national dress of its inhabitants and the beauty of its girls. A peasant brings a horse for sale. He is offered 8 zloty (90 cents). The disgusted owner prepares to take his animal back home when somebody offers to buy the mane and tail for hair stuffing. The offer is 12 zloty (about $1.40).

The farmer concludes that if the horse is worth 90 cents, and the mane and tail $1.40, the rest of the beast is worth minus 50 cents. So he shears the mane and tail, sells the hair, and turns the animal loose.

Dumps Load of Potatoes.

Another peasant brings in a load of potatoes. There are no buyers, and he dumps the load upon the market square, asserting that it is a waste of time and money to haul it back home.

Never have farmers in Poland had such hard times. The prevailing prices last month were: A lamb, 30 cents; a large suckling pig, 6 to 7 cents; a large chicken, 7 cents; 2½ pounds of veal, 7 cents; a turkey, 60 cents to $1.10. The farmer is forced to sell at these prices in order to cover taxation and current expenses, although he loses on the deal.

In the richest part of Poland every farm house for a stretch of 50 miles is dark at night. Only three automobiles were passed in a trip through this section. There were very few horsedrawn vehicles, and most of these were owned by farmers returning from market with full loads, unable to sell their produce.

In Przemysl county, the sale of textiles has fallen to practically nothing, and soap, sugar and oil have again become luxuries in the villages.

But taxation is as high as ever. As property owners find themselves unable to meet their taxes, the government sells their holding at auction. Recently a house with land in a good locality went for $75, and a light American car, a new model in good condition, for $5. Peasants facing such a dilemma are turning their best stock loose rather than be forced to sell for 50 cents or $1.

SOCIETY GIRL SNUBS FIANCE; WEDS MAN SHE KNEW ONLY 2 WEEKS

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 15.—[Special.]—Breaking her engagement to a young southerner, whose social rank matched her own, a Sewickley society girl was married Saturday to an acquaintance of two weeks in Tucson, Ariz., it was learned today. The bride is Caroline Jackson Crittenden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Jackson Crittenden and granddaughter of Mrs. James B. Oliver.

She married Paul Showalter of Tucson, whom she met when she went to the desert city to visit her brother.

Word of the broken engagement and marriage was verified by Joseph Kinnear Morford, Miss Crittenden's former fiancé, a law school student at the University of Virginia.

Morford said: "Yes, I know Caroline is married. I received word of it shortly after the marriage. But I never have met Paul Showalter and know nothing about him.

"There really is nothing I can say about it—except that it was a shock. Caroline had gone to Tucson to visit her brother. Any other announcement must come from her parents."

The engagement of Miss Crittenden to Morford, whose home is in Lexington, Ky., was announced during the Christmas holidays. The marriage was to have taken place in June.

Morford and Miss Crittenden met at the Kentucky Derby. At Christmas Morford came to Pittsburgh to be a guest at his fiancée's home.

The two were fêted by Sewickley society with a round of holiday dances, teas, and receptions.

The bride's family is one of Pittsburgh's wealthiest. Linked with the Olivers, the Shields, and the Leets, their history goes back to revolutionary times. The Marchese Alfred Dusmet de Smours, the former Edith Ann Oliver, is an aunt of the bride.

CARDINALS FIGHT PLAN TO ABOLISH SEVEN BISHOPRICS

VATICAN CITY, March 15.—(AP)—Opposition in the College of Cardinals was reported today to be causing Pope Pius XI. to reconsider his plan to abolish the seven suburban bishoprics around Rome which have been held for centuries by cardinal bishops.

The new plan is that the cardinal bishops would retain episcopal titles but the dioceses would be administered by suffragan bishops appointed by the pope. This is the first time in many years that the College of Cardinals has offered objection to a papal plan.

The suburban dioceses bring each of the seven cardinal bishops an annual revenue of $50,000 each.

FARM BOARD QUIZ TO DELAY ACTION ON ABOLISHING IT

Senate Will Await Vote on Investigation.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—Senate action on the bill sponsored by Senator James F. Byrnes [Dem., S. C.], calling for abolition of the federal farm board was suspended today pending completion of an exhaustive investigation of the board.

Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], author of a resolution calling for the investigation, predicted today his measure would be passed within a few days, and his opinion was backed by Senators Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.] and Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.], both of whom agreed an investigation is needed.

Committee Delays Action.

With prospects for the inquiry increasingly bright, the senate agricultural committee announced that it will take no action on the Byrnes bill until the investigation has been completed. Senator Byrnes' measure proposes that the board be abolished, the stabilization powers repealed and the board's activities transferred to the department of agriculture.

At a hearing on the Byrnes bill today, Charles H. Barrett, long prominent in farm activities and former head of the Farmers' National union, told the committee that he was "scared of this whole business." Pressed by Senator Norris to say whether he favored abolition of the board, Barrett, who has advised the administration on farm matters, declared: "I would not say repeal the act. It might succeed if you get the proper personnel."

Hoover Confers on Seed.

"But a moment ago you said men to make it successful are not to be had," Senator Byrnes interposed.

"That's just what I mean," Barrett responded.

Meanwhile, President Hoover was conferring with Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde and several members of the house agricultural committee. None of the congressmen would disclose the nature of the conference. It was thought, however, that the seed loans to farmers through the reconstruction finance corporation had been the basis of discussion.

BALDWIN CERTAIN BRITISH BUDGET WILL BALANCE

ILFORD, Essex, England, March 15.—(AP)—Stanley Baldwin, president of the council in the British cabinet, announced tonight that the current British budget would balance.

In his first public political speech since he joined the National government's cabinet, the Conservative leader said:

"Today we are in a position when we know that the budget will balance. We know that borrowing on current accounts has been stopped, and I hope stopped forever. We are in a position to look with observant sympathy on those great countries which have not yet succeeded in balancing their current budget."

Springfield, Ill., March 15.—[Special.]—Southern Illinois today demonstrated how it has been able to get hard road mileage out of proportion to its contributions to the state highway fund. The demonstration was staged before the Illinois highway commission in support of a petition for more downstate roads.

A thousand farmers, villagers and local politicians appeared before the commission in behalf of two construction projects, one a new route from Danville to Alton and the other a pavement from Pana to Louisiana, Mo. The size of this crowd might be contrasted with the score here yesterday from northern Illinois asking for short cuts between Chicago and Sterling, and between Chicago and Rockford.

Trade Votes for Roads.

The downstate farmers made it plain that they will support those candidates for office who will support their road program. And their representatives in the legislature, heeding this attitude of their constituents, were present to speak for the highway proposals.

West from Pana to the Mississippi river the route of one of the two proposals is 115 miles. This would cost approximately $3,925,000 to build. In the promotion activities it has been called "the Emmerson airline." A wisecracker won applause from the crowd with a comment that after the next election this name might be considered as a memorial to the poet Emmerson.

Would Cost 15 Millions.

The Danville to Alton project is promoted by the Cloverleaf Highway association, with vice presidents in forty-three communities along the route.

The Cloverleaf association wants a new forty foot road from Danville to Alton. It also advocates widening route 1, the Dixie highway, from Chicago to Danville. The cost of the new four lane highway, 181 miles, would approximate $9,000,000. To build a two lane pavement from Danville to Alton, locating the route so as to use twenty miles of existing pavement, would cost about $6,635,000.

Cost of Disposing of Dead Animals Reduced $30,000

The finance committee of the city council yesterday approved a contract under which the Canal Melting company will dispose of dead animals in Chicago for one year for $40,000. The annual cost of the service in past years has been approximately $70,000. A subcommittee also was appointed to work out a settlement of the claim of the North American Car corporation for $211,000 which it asserts the city owes for work performed by it under its dead animal contract during the last four years.

The Woman Hater

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Faire Chapelle is the stepdaughter of Ms Chapelle, who owns Flaxen's casino, a cafe of ill repute, near the waterfront of Port Bai. Faire and Aya, Ma's daughter by her first husband of dubious color, have been trained to assist in Flaxen's. The Chapelles are looked upon as outcasts by respectable island residents, and Faire feels their attitude keenly, because her father was of unimpeachable antecedents. He had brought her as a little girl into these unsavory surroundings and left her there at his death. She has kept aloof from all that Flaxen's represents.

Sir Philip Persian is governor and commander-in-chief of the Tama islands; Bai and St. Rosario. His young secretary and ward, Robert Grand, is involved in an affair with Mira Worcester, a faded beauty. Her husband has become suspicious. Malise Bookes, aid de camp of the governor, to avert a scandal asks Faire, as a favor to the governor, to clear Mira by proving it was she who'd been meeting young Grand secretly, threatening to close Flaxen's and have the Chapelles deported unless she consents. Sir Philip is furious with Bookes when he learns that Faire has been forced to accept Mira's guilt. He sends for Faire to try to make amends. He arranges to have her return to her father's people in England.

INSTALLMENT XV.

FACING A NEW LIFE.

"Thank you! Thank you!" said Faire.

"No, not 'thank you,' dear. Take your letter." Persian came near. She was crying again, not knowing why. He caught her shoulders. "Look at me. Why are you crying? You'll be happy, Faire, shan't you?"

"O, happy! I'm happier than I can bear."

"I shall be on the quay tomorrow. But this is really good-by."

"Good-by."

Persian put up a hand and brushed back a curling lock of hair that fell over her forehead. The hand was heavy and deliberate.

He said again:

"Good-by."

He went, very lean and straight, to the door, opened it for her, and escorted her out. She saw that the car waited.

. . . . . .

That Faire Chapelle was the sole passenger on the smart government steamer, with its white paint, shining brass, striped awnings, did not mean that she was lonely. She was under an enchantment. The hostile, loud, suspicious, and outraged farewells of the surprised Chapelle mother and daughter were scarcely a memory. She left during the midday siesta, with no one in Port Bai aware of the reasons for the morning's activities on board the steamer. Only Aya and Mrs. Chapelle, Mantigua, the ever curious, the policeman on duty, and a drowsy native or two under the palms saw her step on board—only these and the governor. Her last sight of him as the steamer drew out of the bay was as he stood on the harbor side, a lone lean, taut, white figure, deeply brown face and glacial light eyes under the topee.

Now Mira must decide in an instant whether to repel the girl.

His salute was most formal. He was indifferent to unawareness of the figure of Mantigua respectfully doffing his huge hat and bowing, neither had he more than the sketch of a salute to the Chapelle women who changed their frowns and stormy tears for eager smiles at him from the empty veranda of their café.

The governor had considered what the club would say. He knew what would be Port Bai's construction of this girl's departure. "The governor shipped her off straightway. He paid her off; royal state on the steamer; steam up just for Faire from Flaxen's; anything to get her away from little Grand. . . ." People would say these things. He returned grimly to government house and said to Malise Bookes—their sharp comprehension of each other like a sword between them—"Stop the worst of the gossip as opportunities occur."

Bookes asked with sulky deference:

"Shall I let people know—a word or two here and there—who she is? That might help, sir?"

"Good God, no!"

The governor shut himself into his study with the labor estimates from St. Vincent and Grennda, his maps and statistics, but before he looked at them he thought: "Clean away! No scandals coming after her . . . a new life for her, a new life." But he passed his spare brown hands over his face, wearied, and sighed like a man very sore with the rub of old shackles, while the pictured woman watched him.

Sometimes he saw this woman triumphantly colored with the old glamor, confident and passionate though now powerless to stir him, and sometimes—as today—her watching seemed to be wistful and hungry.

Faire Chapelle lay under the awning in a long chair, and remembered his words as he ushered her aboard, looking at her with his glacial eyes so unlike his darkened burning eyes of last night:

"You are queen of this little ship, Faire, queen of your life. Flaxen's for you is a heap of ashes. Forget."

She had never voyaged this way before. Ten years ago her father had brought her from the Argentine to Trinidad, slowly, and precariously living, via the Grenadines, at length on a little tramp steamer to Bai, the most westerly of the small islands lying far off the coast of Venezuela. Before that her memories were as scattered and vague. Now she was out tremendously upon a beautiful journey—the journey home. The shining bright steamer slipped through the burning blue water, northwesterly for Jamaica. They left behind the scatter of small green islands. The peak of St. Rosario receded. The little ship drove into a clear expanse of the Caribbean sea.

The skipper came to her, jolly, but respectful, for he must regard her as a government protégée rather than a deportee since this unprecedented business of taking her to Jamaica. He told her how entrancing a trip he could have taken her along the Spanish Main, and of the fairy charm of the tiny islands off Costa Rica. . . . "You haven't been off Bai, I've heard, miss, since you first came there," he hazarded. But she wanted no travelers' excitements, she assured him. She wanted Kingston, and the liner which should carry her home.

"Forget," Persian had adjured her. She set her mind flying towards the future, and her first clear look at Jamaica as they approached was delight. Small Bai, and small St. Rosario with its toy mountain, with their miniature white sandy beaches, low shores, the littleness of their life, had confined her within close limits. But the dark splendor of Jamaica's mountains, rising higher and higher, the battlements of the old fort, and then the scarred fort of St. Augusta farther on at Mosquito Point, were storied with great fighting days of great men. Her world enlarged as her old childish faith had always privately insisted that it would.

She found the skipper again beside her.

"When you step ashore, miss, you will see your hotel. Gardens running right down to the harbor. I'm to see you in, and speak to the booking clerk there about your steamer reservations for England. And send a cable for the governor about you. There's a big boat due to go day after tomorrow, and she won't be so full that they can't squeeze you in. You're to feel that you're properly looked after, miss, although I can't stay to see you sail. But you're in good care. I'm instructing the people at the hotel. Governor's orders."

So uninitiated, so new, so raw, so wondering as she found herself as the world enlarged about her, she did not then understand this exquisite thoughtful minuteness of Persian's care. His islands had as yet no direct telegraphic communications with others, getting into touch with them was a cumbrous and difficult affair. He had taken, on instant decision, the only way to get her at once out of Port Bai. She had been shipped, helpless, to Bai. Now she was being shipped, almost as helpless, though happy, away from it. The skipper, keeping his thoughts to himself, while recognizing, as one man may, the homage of another—and a governor at that!—to an unaware and lovely bit of girlhood, escorted Faire Chapelle into the Myrtl bank, and an African sailor followed with her absurdly limited baggage.

She did not hear the skipper—a half-white—so inform the booking clerk at the hotel; nor feel, indeed, much curiosity as to her further quick and efficient arrangements. When she bade the skipper farewell, she knew that she was taken to a room the like of which she had never seen before. An exigent worldling of a luxury woman might have made captious comparisons; not so a Faire Chapelle. Neither did she question why she, a shabby visitor in a crumpled suit, should receive such attention, fare so well.

Persian had spoken: Therefore she sailed out of her obscurity and her ignominy straight into all this.

It was luncheon time. She went down from her room to the open air restaurant. No sooner had she sat down than she saw, only a few tables from her Mira Worcester with some friends.

Faire Chapelle was at once inspired with a desire for the kind of revenge dear to the heart of a woman. As soon as she was seated, she had seen Mira look up, tense, relax, glance coldly away. Mira was lovely and animated in her haggard fashion. With her were the cosmopolitan American couple on whose yacht she had come and a rich Kingston merchant who obviously played host.

And Faire Chapelle, as soon as she had given her order, rose, smiling, and made her way without haste to their table.

"Lady Mira!"

Now Mira must look up, and decide in a furious frightened instant on her course of action. At first she decided to repel the girl. But the next second, during which she had seen the girl's eyes, deep and smoky, had seen the carven smile of her mouth, Mira Worcester knew that she could not do this thing. At this exact moment she dared not. Therefore, as indifferently as she could risk it, she spoke:

"Miss Chapelle. How surprising! Good morning."

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight")

Whether or not snake charmers make a practice of pulling the fangs from their charges has always been a matter of conjecture. It certainly would seem a wise thing to do. There is little doubt, however, that one of the most important points of no-trump technique at contract bridge is to pull the fangs from a strong adverse hand. The fang in this case is a card which will put that adverse hand in the lead and allow it to run a setup suit against declarer. Witness yesterday's play-a-problem.

NORTH
♥—K,Q
♦—J,6,5
♣—K,Q,J,10,9

WEST [Dealer]	EAST
♠—A,9,8	♠—K,Q,J,2
♥—A,3,2	♥—6,5,4
♦—A,Q,9,8,7	♦—4,3

SOUTH
♠—10,4,3
♥—J,10,9,8,7
♦—K,10,2

West dealt and bid two diamonds. North passed. East quite properly took out with two spades and South passed. West, although holding adequate support for spades, was unable to resist that 150 aces and, therefore, instead of raising his partner, bid three no-trumps, which ended the bidding.

North opened the ♣ K, East played the 5, South the 3, and declarer the 2. North then led the ♣ Q, which declarer took with the A. By holding out on the first club trick West hoped to pull South's fang; i. e., exhaust South of clubs so that if South got in the lead again he could not lead a club back to his partner's long suit. To the third trick West led the ♠ 9, which dummy took with the J. Dummy then led the ♦ 4 and West finessed the Q, which held. West then returned the ♠ 8 to dummy's ♠ Q. Dummy led back the ♦ 3. On this South played the ♦ K and West promptly ducked by playing the 7. Thus was the second fang pulled. If West had taken South's ♦ K that would have left a good ♦ J in North's hand and woud have allowed North to get in on the third diamond lead and run the good clubs. South returned the ♥ J, which declarer took with the ♥ A. Declarer then led out the ♦ A, clearing that suit, and followed by leading the ♦ 9 and ♦ 8. To the eleventh trick declarer led the ♠ A and surrendered the last two tricks to North's ♥ K and ♣ J, East and West making three odd and their game.

If West is careless about this fang pulling it allows North and South to make some clever defensive plays. If, for instance, the four spade tricks are taken South should discard the ♦ K on the fourth spade, which allows North to come in with the ♦ J, giving East and West only eight tricks in all.

Here is tomorrow's play-a-problem:

NORTH [Dealer]
♥—None
♦—Q,2
♣—K,J,10,9,5

WEST	EAST
♠—8,4	♠—7,5
♥—K,9,5	♥—A,Q,J,10,3,2
♦—A,J,8,6,3	♦—10,5,4

SOUTH
♠—10,9,3
♥—8,7,6,4
♦—K,9,7
♣—8,3,2

Bid and play this hand and then compare the result with that printed tomorrow.

Charlie Chase Signs Again to Make Comedies

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 15.—Charlie Chase, for twelve years comedy standby of the Hal Roach organization and brother of James Parrott, the director who puts Hardy and Laurel through their antics, has been signed again by Roach. Prior to Roach's aerial jaunt over South America the comedy magnate made up his mind to prune Charlie Chase's salary about half or let Chase go. Chase chased himself. When Roach came back he found the box office news without Chase comedies not as pleasing as with Charlie for a headliner and now the Roach organization announces Chase has been reached in the east where he is on a vaudeville tour and has been induced to return and make more funny films starting in May.

Walter Hampden has succeeded Richard Bennett as Cyrano de Bergerac here. Bennett quit his film work to present Cyrano in a somewhat shortened form to Los Angeles stage audiences three weeks ago but as soon as his billing had reached the poster boards it was followed by another billing chronicling the arrival of Hampden with a full company to do the same drama full length.

Result: Bennett closed his run after two weeks and has gone to Mexico but with the chuckle that "I have it on Hampden. He could see my presentation of Cyrano but I can't see his."

Robert Presnell, Chicago film writer under contract to Radio Pictures is doing the continuity on that studio's "The Truth About Hollywood," an original by Adela Rogers St. John. Presnell has thrown away the crutches he wore after a bad automobile accident during Christmas week.

Col. Robert Rossow, executive at Culver Military Academy has arrived to advise on details he deems worthy and unworthy in Universal's story "Brown of Culver," now being completed on the studio stages and in the cutting room here after shooting out door scenes at the Indiana academy.

Olga Printz Lau has come back to notice as one of a handful of professionals working under Gene Lewis, as director, at the Hollywood Spotlight theater of 150 seats. Paul Gerard Smith, a Chicagoan, is author of the current skit.

Universal evinces as much satisfaction with its serial thrillers as Radio with its horse operas, and the coming year will bring five more of the chapter play talkies at Universal City. Noah Beery Jr. is to make his debut as a hero in one of the five.

Malcolm MacGregor, famous as leading man during the silent days in films and a featured actor in talkies until a year ago, dropped in on old friends in Hollywood this week. MacGregor inherited more than $1,000,000, and is making a leisurely trip around the world in a tramp steamer.

DANDRUFF

A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid Arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

"Those LIPS need a MASK . . too!"

"I WAS furious! That man wouldn't have dared say that if he hadn't been masked. But later I saw what he meant. My lips really had a common painted look!"

Men don't always say what they think. But painted lips are one thing they all abhor. Are you sure that you too don't offend? Colors that you admire on others can look cheap and vulgar on you!

Take care. Forget your present lipstick. Tangee your lips. Tangee can't make you look painted. It isn't paint. It changes on your lips to the one color most becoming to you! It brings new beauty to your make-up.

Get Tangee at your favorite druggist or cosmetic counter. It costs no more than ordinary lipsticks. For Miracle Make-Up Set, containing purse-size samples of Tangee Lipstick and Rouge—send 10c to The George W. Luft Company. Dept. T1111, 417 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

"ENDS THAT PAINTED LOOK"

Cheeks Mustn't Look Painted!

• Distress After Eating • Is Almost Always a Sign • Of Sluggish, Unclean Intestines! •

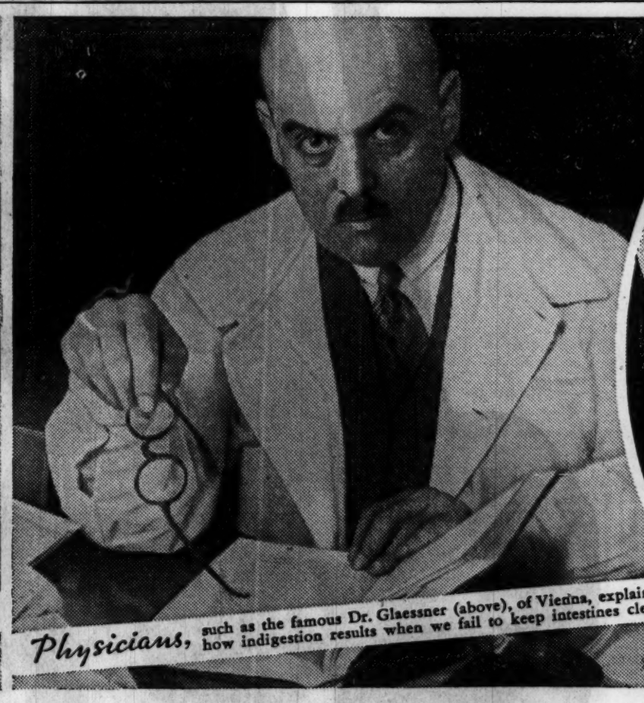
Belching, biliousness and discomfort after meals are usually symptoms of poisons in your system.



Physicians, such as the famous Dr. Glaessner (above), of Vienna, explain how indigestion results when we fail to keep intestines clean.

Copyright, 1932, Standard Brands Incorporated

Here are the facts about INDIGESTION!

THINK of sitting down to a meal without having to worry about indigestion!

Think of eating anything you like—and all you like of it—without paying for it in hours of discomfort and distress.

But first it's important to grasp these few simple facts.

To begin with, the bulk of digestion occurs not in the stomach, but in the intestines! It is here that the nourishment in your food is extracted and absorbed into your blood.

Imagine, then, what happens when you let your intestines grow weak and clogged!

"Sour stomach"—belching—discomfort after meals . . . doctors say these are almost invariably signs of poisons backing up from clogged intestines!

Waste matter accumulates, stagnates. Poisons form . . . filter into your blood. And as the poisons continue to collect in your intestines, they back up into your stomach to contaminate the food awaiting digestion there!

Is it any wonder you lose appetite . . . that your tongue becomes coated, your breath bad?

Fortunately, world-famous doctors have discovered a simple, natural way of correcting this extremely unhealthy condition—entirely without the use of harsh, habit-forming drugs.

"Every day," they advise their patients, "eat three cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast."

Fleischmann's Yeast is a food. It contains elements that actually "tone" and strengthen the sluggish muscles of the intestines, as they moisten and soften the clogging food residues in your body. Thus yeast fosters the regular, daily elimination of poisonous waste.

And as fresh yeast purifies your system, appetite responds. Digestive juices flow normally again. You derive greater nourishment from your food. Biliousness, belching, discomfort after eating are gone!

Just try it! Eat three cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast every day—before meals, or between meals and at bedtime—plain or dissolved in water (a third of a glass).

You can get Fleischmann's Yeast, you know, at grocers, restaurants and soda fountains, and every cake is rich in three vitamins indispensable to perfect health—B, G and D.

*IMPORTANT—Fleischmann's Yeast for health comes only in the foil-wrapped cake with the yellow label. It is yeast in its fresh, effective form—the kind famous doctors recommend. Ask for it by name!

Marguerite Steen Calls Book 'Unicorn.'

"Unicorn," by Marguerite Steen. [Century.]

WITH the title "Unicorn," the author of "They That Go Down in Ships," has written the story of a woman who seems as fabulous and mythological as the legendary beast of the title. Her subtitle, "Being an Archducal Comedy in a Democratic Age," gives the keynote of the novel.

MARGUERITE STEEN.

Margarethe, the only child of the reigning archduchess of Rheingoldstein, is to succeed her mother to the very rickety throne that has been in the family for generations. She is an ugly, gawky, elephantine girl with red hands covered with chilblains. She conceives an adolescent love for the sweetheart of one of the scullery maids. Both her amorous and her political aspirations are nipped in the bud by a revolution that results in the abdication of the royal family. They go to Italy to bask in the sun and to live in the dirty, unattractive villa that one of the kinswomen of the family has been kind enough to give them.

There Margarethe grows into womanhood. The hereditary traits of her family slowly emerge. Pride, stubbornness, indomitable will, arrogance, and selfishness combat the sensuous, easy going Italian atmosphere. Margarethe, with her honey colored hair, her Hapsburg features, and her great bulk is beautiful in her way and excites the attention of the natives with whom she carries on dilatory affairs. Suddenly realizing that her life is stagnating she flees to England with an Englishman whom she meets casually. She falls in love with this man's son, Kenelm, and pursues him. The final section of the novel deals with their life in Paris and finally their return to Rheingoldstein.

Characters Hold Interest.

The reader's interest in the story lies primarily in the characters. There is no marvelous suspense in the plot nor does it lure one on irresistibly, though it does adequately hold the reader's attention. The characterizations of Margarethe, her mother the archduchess, even the glimpse we have of the archduke himself (though he commits suicide before the beginning of the book), and the crazy aunt who pours hot soup down people's backs and pretends she is a dragonfly, are all handled with an enchanting humor. So caricatured, exaggerated, and overemphasized are the personalities and oftentimes the events themselves that the reader feels that the book has the quality of legend.

Kirstein Offers Novel.

Lincoln Kirstein, the 24 year old editor of Hound and Horn, has written his first novel. "Flesh Is Heir" [Brewer, Warren & Putnam] covers eight years in the life of Roger Baum, a sensitive young Jew. Through various emotional and intellectual purgings the reader is led to believe that the young hero attains a sort of inner integrity and synthesis. The character of the boy is presented through the personalities of others and the significant experiences that directly impinge upon his life.

The charge of obscurity can be aimed at the author, the sort of obscurity that seems to have no deeper meaning. Nevertheless though there is this flaw, it must be said that the plan and the thematic development of the book are clear and effective. The writing itself never falls down. M. D.

Long for Curly Eyelashes? You Paste Them On

Woman's Fondest Dream Can Now Come True.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Some time ago there came to me in my official capacity a small box containing two bottles of liquid and a small envelope of loose, short clipped hairs. My response was: "Well, I've run across some comical things in this beauty business—but this one is too much."

The fact that they might be eyelashes in the making eluded me. Rather, the importance of the fact that they might be eyelashes that you could put on in a jiffy was what eluded me. Anyway, to continue the story of the package's arrival, it was pressed into service as an amusement feature for my guests of the moment. Among other bits of magic, a moustache was grown instantly on a manly upper lip.

Well, I was wrong on that guess of mine. All wrong! The false eyelash industry turns out to be one of the busiest little activities of the moment. Beauty parlors, they tell me, are doing a land office business putting eyelashes on, adding to those already there, clipping them a becoming length.

The paralyzing thing to me at first was the time that would be used inserting each tiny hair in place, but obviously I was not reckoning on my sex's vanity. Time and money are no deterrents where there is a beauty object. The professionals, of course, have modified the time element. And a pair of sweeping eyelashes are a pair of sweeping eyelashes and they can do a powerful lot of heart damage, I'm told by the sex that's hit by 'em.

Anyway, from now on you are going to see women's fondest dream fulfilled, and often. You are going to meet a woman at lunch, and run into her later in the day after her eyelash appointment looking the eyelash counterpart of a Garbo or Irene Rich. I recall in Hollywood, some time back, being hypnotized by Miss Rich's fruity growth of lash. Then, I was let in on the secret of their source. At that time the false lashes were strung along on court plaster or adhesive tape and fitted inside the lid.

Harps Club Celebration.

The Harps club's sixth annual St. Patrick's celebration will be held at a dinner dance tomorrow evening in the Balloon room of the Congress hotel. Thomas F. Dooley Jr. of Cicero is chairman and Miss Mary Marcella Cooney of 160 North Long avenue is assisting with arrangements.

Vivid, Merry Red Is Sports Choice of the Parisienne

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Styles, like people, are divided into masses and classes, and this applies to every detail of fashion. Take the case of color this spring. Dark blue is the mass style color, and while smart women like this discreet and demure shade they are casting about for something less ubiquitous. For sports the exclusive exponent of chic has chosen white with red, and the brighter and merrier the red the smarter it is.

There are two reds that are being worn by the elegante for sports. Both are vivid. One is a clear, pure red, unadulterated with other tones, and the other is the brilliant Chinese vermilion that has a lot of orange in it.

It is chic to wear a red coat over white frocks or pajamas for actual sports, but between you and me, skirts are smarter than bifurcated garments this spring.

Some women like to reverse the order of red coat with a white frock. They wear a white corduroy coat over a red dress. Other ladies are wearing their accessories in this gay shade and keeping their suits or ensembles pure white.

A red sports coat that is being worn by some of the smartest Parisiennes is shown today. This coat comes from the ateliers of Bruyere, famous for sports coat styles. It has the bulky topped silhouette that Bruyere features, achieved by widening the armholes and upper sleeves of the coat, and by the wide, jabot like collar. The coat is closed diagonally by a flap with two white buttons.

Hinsdale Welfare Group Will Give Fashion Show

The Junior Infant Welfare auxiliary in Hinsdale will give a benefit fashion show at the Hinsdale club tonight at 7:45 o'clock. Mrs. Harold Ford is general chairman of the affair and the members of her committee are Miss Mildred Bushnell, Mrs. W. M. Davidson, Miss Martha Lockman, Miss Mary Wood, and Miss Edith Cortis. Modeling will be Miss Cora Armstrong, Miss Jane Bayliss, Miss Thora Boisen, Miss Jane Durham, Miss Grace Cousins, Miss Joan Ferre, Miss Peggy Page, Miss Mary Wood, Mrs. George Knapp, Mrs. Donald McLernan, Mrs. Joseph Dugan, and Mrs. Sterling B. Cramer.

MY FIRST HUSBAND
by His First Wife

Says Fanny Butcher in the Chicago Tribune:

"The tale which the first wife tells is what the English call 'fruity'. The former Mrs. ——— tells all, and there is nothing in the world that the public enjoys so much as a good jigger of 'all'. It will take no sleuthing for Chicagoans to recognize the husband, and half of newspaper and 'lit'r'y' Chicago are mentioned."

THE HUSBAND
He felt that his genius permitted him a life with two women—and even demanded that they be friends!

THE WIFE
She gave him love, devotion — all the frail things a woman can give. But her man was of the kind that wanted more . . . needed more . . .

Fashion Shows Confusing, but Give You Ideas

Help You Buy After You Settle Down.

By Rhea Seeger.

DOING all the fashion shows, no matter how exciting and interesting they are, certainly is not conducive to any particular clarity of mind. After you watch a seemingly endless parade of the best looking clothes you have ever seen . . . spending most of the time trying to decide which ones you simply can't live without, a clothes conscious shopper usually retires in a state of mind bordering on complete exhaustion. But being human and feminine and cursed with plenty of curiousity regarding other equally important new spring models that are being introduced all over town . . . you'll join the rest of the crowd and begin a new day right by seeing the rest of the displays.

There is no doubt but what this season's clothes are the most graciously feminine and flattering that this town has seen in many a long month. Women can't help but be fascinating in the new dresses . . . no mater how easy and simple dressing used to be when you bought one straight up and down sort of a sack-like dress after another for sports, afternoon as well as evening. Thank goodness those easy lazy days are gone!

Spring Clothes Individual.

This spring you'll be individual, the clothes you will wear will look like you, and are not modeled so that either you or a maiden aunt could wear them with an equal amount of chic. One thing, these new clothes are going to do, and do quite definitely, and that is, almost demand the return of the clever little dressmaker who knows how best to hide your bad angles and to skillfully play up your good lines.

As has been told before, nothing seems to be able to shake the smartness of beige and navy blue . . . two colors that break evenly in all the latest showings. Perfectly knockout coats are of honey colored beige trimmed with deep lustrous sable or kolinsky. Navy blue costumes favor white as a stunning contrast whether fur or fabric.

A cocktail ensemble made its appearance this season . . . and a very smart appearance it does make . . . the dress is black and in one piece with blouse effect in sheer material. Over this clinging dress is worn a brilliant red waist length jacket of silk crêpe that double crosses itself more than once at the neck as well as the waist. The sleeves are edged with wide bands of lovely silver fox . . . with this ensemble was worn a fetching small black straw hat trimmed with gardenias. The dryest dray would be glad to see the wet side of any occasion if women would always appear for cocktails dressed so charmingly.

A New Color Appears.

Corn flower blue is a new blue and so becoming and so different . . . it is particularly chic in thin wool for a street dress that can have the usual matching short or long coat . . . and the most satisfying part of this color is the fact that innumerable accessories are available in the same warm color.

New hats are almost beyond mere words . . . when you say they are small you more than cover the largest model . . . they perch on the head defying all the laws of gravity . . . not visible signs of anchorage can be found. But they certainly are the life of any party, with bows, ribbons, flowers, and bands audaciously atop minute brims and crowns. Big hats are crowded off the smartest heads by small perky little things that look like absolutely nothing at all, off the head, but how small but mightily attractive they become when pushed naughtily over the right eye and way up on the back of the head.

Announce Betrothal

MISS MARGARET DELMAR.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Cole of Evanston are announcing the engagement of Mrs. Cole's daughter, Miss Margaret Delmar, to Philip Scribner Wernher of Chicago, formerly of Omaha. Miss Delmar was graduated from Smith and Mr. Wernher from Andover. Their engagement was revealed yesterday at a luncheon given by Miss Delmar and her mother for Miss Frances Bosworth of Evanston and her sister, Mrs. Gordon Padley of London. Miss Bosworth's marriage to Dr. Trevor D. Stamp of London will take place on April 5.

Predict Return to Hair Styles of Gay Nineties

Fashions May Go Back to Ancients.

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—Such relics of the gay nineties as pompadours, thick bangs, and the rat will be worn once more by the modern girl, if the predictions made by beauty shop proprietors at the International Beauty show at the Hotel Pennsylvania come true. For evening there will be elaborate lacquered wigs, inspired by the most fantastic of Pompeian and Babylonian styles, in shades of red and orange and coal black, in addition to white, platinum and pale pink ones.

Semi-long and bobbed hair is still the most popular mode, but all sorts of false pieces are used to build up the coiffure for afternon and evening. The hairdressers are dressing the hair with rats to form a thick roll at the nape of the neck on which to anchor the new hats. A small rat also is used for the pompadour which, according to B. Ernst, who demonstrated some of the new hair styles at an exhibition tonight, already is being adopted by many smart women to complete the retouched Gibson girl picture toward which new wide shouldered and small waisted fashions are leaning.

Another event tonight was a demonstration of hairdressing to show that any girl can be made into a replica of the motion picture actress who most nearly approximates her type.

"Paris and New York no longer set the fashions in this country," Mr. Ernst said. "No matter what we say to the contrary, it is the moving picture actress who is copied by the American girl. Every girl who walks into a beauty shop these days asks to have her hair done like Garbo or Janet Gaynor or Dietrich.

The new manicures call for odd effects, with finger nails lacquered to match evening gowns, and rosily tinted for the day. With the shoe fashions calling for cut-out toe effects in sandals, the pedicure has become almost as much of a rite at the manicure.

Eyebrows, however, are doomed to be almost natural this year, for the extremely plucked line has passed out of the picture. In the cosmetic world the effect which now is striven for is a natural one, except for eyeshadow, which comes in odd shades of purple, green, hazel, and blue, as well as black and brown, and is used only over the eyes.

Travelers to Mexico Return with Praise for Playground

Many Chicagoans Tell of Pleasures to Be Found in Southern Land.

BY JUDITH CASS.

ALL the returned travelers who chose Mexico as the destination of their travels this winter are so enthusiastic about that little known land south of us that it makes this "soc. ed." want to board a train heading in that direction immediately, but unfortunately she cannot figure out any social mission that would take her there, so she will have to subdue her desire for a Mexican trip and be satisfied with hearing alluring tales about it and seeing movies that have been taken by her more fortunate friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayden B. Harris and Mrs. Townsend McKeever, who returned recently from there, were particularly enthusiastic about Mexico City and the inn just outside the city in which they stayed, an old monastery, and from Mrs. Harris' description a fascinating place. They also were full of surprise and awe at the grandeur of the Aztec and Toltec pyramids which are near Mexico City and which are almost as grand as the more famous Egyptian ones, so Mrs. Harris says. Cuernavaca also came in for a large share of the enthusiasm of the trio of travelers, who only stayed there one night, however.

Mrs. Ernest High Noyes and her daughter Florence, who have just returned from Cuernavaca, were there for several months and their descriptions of the primitive hotel in which they lived, which was the castle of Maximilian and his empress, and the life in that picturesque place, are fascinating.

Mrs. Alfred MacArthur is the only American woman who has a house there now since the late Dwight Morrow and his family left Mexico, and she is most hospitable to all the Chicagoans who include Cuernavaca in their itineraries, I am told.

MacArthurs to Stay Until May.

Mrs MacArthur and her family will not return to Chicago until mid-May. Their house is next door to the Morrows' house, which probably will be turned into a club before long if present plans do not go awry.

Mrs. George W. Dulany Jr. spent part of last winter in the MacArthurs' villa, by the way, and is just as enthusiastic about Cuernavaca as are all the others who have visited there. In fact, she said she would like to spend half of every year there.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll H. Sudler are planning to be pioneers and motor all the way to Mexico City soon, and that really is pioneering, I'm told by one who knows, for when John Dos Passos made the same trip last winter he had to have his car towed over the mountains by a tractor. But since then a new highway has been put through, so the Sudlers will not encounter any such difficulty.

The road is being surfaced all the way, I am told, and will be completed by May 1.

Mrs. Noyes and Miss Noyes have joined Mr. Noyes at the Ambassador East, for their apartment at 1242 Lake Shore drive is rented until June 1.

Mrs. Dulany is leaving on Thursday of this week for a three weeks' visit in Pasadena.

95th Birthday of Mrs. Browning.

I can't remember a debutante party with a prettier setting nor more sprightly atmosphere than Mrs. Stephen Browning's 95th birthday tea yesterday at the Drake. Nor, for that matter, can I think of a debutante more vivacious and genuinely friendly than the silver haired, bright eyed little lady in whose honor the party was given by her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Loesch.

Mrs. Browning, a tiny figure in a black lace dress and a corsage of orchids and lilies of the valley, was the central figure of a charmingly decorative scheme. Seated on a raised platform in the center of the main dining room, she received more than 300 guests. The guest line moved very slowly because Mrs. Browning, instead of giving just a handshake and a "how-do-you-do" to every one, conversed gayly for a few moments with each guest. At her left stood Mr. and Mrs. Loesch, the latter wearing a springlike dress of beige lace and a brown straw hat.

A large American flag was hung over one of the long windows just in back of Mrs. Browning's chair, and two trees of delicate cheery blossoms flanked either side of the platform. At the two tea tables, at the pair of long serving tables, and on the marble stairs there were vases and baskets of spring flowers, and on a small table at Mrs. Browning's side were dozens of corsages sent by her friends.

Maurice Hindus Lecture Tonight.

Society will assemble tonight at Orchestra hall for the lecture by Maurice Hindus under the auspices of the Cook County League of Women Voters, and from all the advance reports I have heard about Mr. Hindus' knowledge and ability to impart that knowledge to his audience, I am sure the affair will be a huge success.

Mr. Hindus' subject is to be "Russia and the World." All the boxholders are giving dinner parties before the lecture and Mr. and Mrs. Quincy Wright will entertain for Dr. Richard von Kuhlmann of Germany. Among the boxholders are Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, Mrs. Joseph M. Patterson, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, and Misses Catharine and Jessie Colvin, Arthur Barnhart, Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter, Mrs. Waller Borden, Mrs. John V. Farwell, Mrs. William B. Hibbard, Mrs. William B. Gale, Mrs. Ralph Winston, Mrs. Ralph C. Otis, Mrs. Lewis S. Louer, and Mrs. Gerhardt F. Meyne, chairman of the committee on arrangements.

The Friends of Opera are to have an all-American coterie of artists at their annual meeting tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock in the Drake ballroom. Leola Turner, soprano; Charles Marshall, tenor, and Howard Preston, baritone, will give the program, with Isaac Van Grove at the piano, and Herbert Witherspoon will give a short talk.

Mrs. Charles H. Swift will be hostess this afternoon to the guarantee fund committee of the Friends of Opera, the members of which will meet at her residence, 209 Lake Shore drive, at 4 o'clock to report on their work in securing guarantors for the Chicago Civic Opera company.

Mrs. Waller Borden is giving the third of a series of buffet luncheons at the Arts club today for Robert M. Woodward, who is running for reelection to the state legislature from the 29th district. Mrs. Borden's brother, James B. Waller, assists at the luncheons.

Invitations for Keno Party.

The Edward H. Bennetts of 43 East Burton place, who are opening their Lake Forest house on Friday of this week, sent out cunning invitations for a keno party at Bagatella, their Lake Forest place, on March 26 at 4:30 o'clock. The invitation list includes friends of the Bennetts' sons, Edward H. Jr. and Joseph Mead, and their parents.

The Bryn Mawr College club has cards out for a luncheon and meeting on Monday of next week at 12:30 o'clock at the Chicago College club, 196 East Delaware place. Plans will be discussed for the council meeting in Chicago next November, and Mrs. William G. Hibbard will speak on "Impressions of Russia and Mexico." Mrs. Edwin P. Dewes is president of the Bryn Mawr club.

The Alumni society of the Asheville School for Boys has issued invitations to a dinner next Monday night at 7 o'clock at the Saddle and Cycle club for Dr. Howard Bement, head master of the school, and Mrs. Bement.

Mrs. Murray Nelson has an interesting guest who has been here for a week and will be here a few days longer, Mrs. Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale of England. Mrs. Hale has been entertained quite a bit and also has been filling lecture engagements in the city and suburbs. From here she will go to Lexington, Ky., to speak and then to New York to sail for England. Mrs. Nelson is planning to go east some time this spring to see her daughters, Mrs. Josiah Wheelright of Cohasset, Mass., and Miss Phoebe Nelson at Cambridge, and her married son, Thacher Nelson.

Lord Snell to Be Guest Here.

Another interesting guest in Chicago the end of the week will be the Rt. Hon. Lord Henry Snell of Plumstead, undersecretary of state for India in the last British government, and author of the minority report of the royal commission which investigated disturbances in Palestine. He arrives today and will be here until Sunday night.

Tonight Mr. and Mrs. Horace Bridges are entertaining at dinner for him and Sunday afternoon the Ethical society will give a tea for him in its clubrooms at 203 North Wabash avenue from 4 to 6 o'clock. Lord Snell is to talk on "The Jew and the Arab in Palestine" before the members of the Ethical society Sunday morning at the Playhouse.

Miss Jane Willett is entertaining the members of the Literary club tomorrow afternoon at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Willett, 2130 Lincoln Park West.

The Unaffected Child Has the Most Appeal

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

One of the highest compliments a mother can receive is for some one to say of her progeny, "She's so natural, or "It's so refreshing to meet a boy who's so unselfconscious."

Perhaps you think the compliment goes to the child, but it doesn't. When a child is unconscious and quite natural it is because some one has done something to accomplish it. It may have been done intuitively or quite deliberately.

Some parents are so free and natural themselves that their children pattern after them. Others know intuitively the right way to treat a child both at home and abroad. And still others think things out clearly and decide that naturalness is not only becoming to a child, but an asset to to him in his dealings with people now and later on. And then they quite deliberately treat their children so that they are neither shy nor bold, do not do things for effect, and are at ease with grownups. Treat them, in a word, so that they have a natural —which is synonymous with charming—manner.

The actual details of how to bring about this can't be tucked in here—this is only to point out that naturalness is a desirable thing. In general the ways to keep a child natural consist of not discussing a child in his own presence, of not showing off his accomplishments, not centering attention on him, but giving interest to what he is interested in, introducing him to visitors as one would a grownup, and expecting him to respond to the introduction. We avoid reminding him openly of his manners, or of warning him before meeting new people about being polite, etc., so he becomes selfconscious.

Another helpful thing is to give him something to do when there are guests, if possible—like passing bread and butter if it's tea, or helping you or the guests in some other way. One more important don't is this—don't let your child get into a situation before people, where he has to be scolded or put out of the room.

Why Underrate Yourself, Doris Asks This Boy

Girls Like Chaps Who Show Self-Respect.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I get ideas that I am not good enough for them. I keep on thinking that they only accept my invitations out of pity. Then, I think I am not attractive and I feel out of place."

That's only part of "Joe's" tintype of himself! But it is enough to tell why the boy feels as darned lonely as he reports he is. If there is one way, "Joseph," not to make a hit with a girl, it is to give her the idea that you're not good enough for her. Besides, she is perfectly right in assuming you're not, if that's the way you feel about yourself.

What's the matter with you, boy, beside a bad case of underappraising yourself? If you can get girls to accept your invitations, doesn't that mean something to your self-esteem? I doubt if our modern young maids are so bent on disbursing pity that they are willing to sacrifice an evening on the job. They may have the power for pity within them. I don't mean to insinuate that they are a hardboiled, merciless group. But they are not wasting pity when it is a good time they're looking for.

And invitations accepted from young men hold promise of a good time. So, at least, "Joseph," you have a start when they don't turn you down flatly and coldly. From there on is where you weaken. Why? Do you think you have to look like a movie sheik? Look around at the boys that are managing a swell time with the girls without a faint resemblance to Ronny Coleman or Jack Gilbert. Do many of them look like collar-ad Romeos or Snappy-kut suit models?

Just why aren't you attractive, son? You can be neat, well groomed, and a good enough dresser on an ordinary income to register with the girls, providing you don't pin a hangdog ticket on yourself. Buck up, boy! Write a snappier ticket for yourself. Don't expect some girl to lean out of an expensive motor window some day and beckon you over as her long sought heart balm. You're just the kind of boy who'd be dreaming things like that!

You've got to sell 'em, Joseph! Sell them the idea of yourself as a gentleman of attraction, a man of action, a boy with a self-respecting attitude toward himself. You're the only one to do it, Joe. And your first step is to put the skids pronto under that abominable pity stuff.

Singer

Mlle. Milla Dominguez, wife of the Mexican vice consul to Chicago, will sing at the fifty-fourth annual founder's day luncheon of Altenheim, the German old people's home, to be held tomorrow at the Webster hotel.

Guests will include Mrs. Berthold Singer, wife of the Turkish consul general; Mrs. Rafael Aveleyra, wife of the Mexican consul; Mrs. Henry Klass and Mrs. Adolf Schmidt, former presidents of Altenheim; Robert G. Scheunemann, president of the Altenheim executive board, and Mrs. Scheunemann. Mrs. Marie Kuehl, president of the home, and ex-Judge Michael F. Girten will be the speakers.

Altenheim, which was founded in 1878, occupies a 20 acre tract of land in Forest Park and now has 250 inmates. A new wing, to take care of 60 additional residents, is under construction. It is the largest old people's home in Chicago.

Two More Art Exhibits Claim City's Attention

Durzynski Portraits Are on Display.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Two exhibitions of importance have opened this week. Florian Alexander Durzynski is showing portraits in the lounge of the Knickerbocker hotel. Durzynski's latest portrait is of Cardinal Mundelein. Among his other portraits are those of Dr. L. Moorhead, head of Mercy hospital and the Rev. R. M. Kelly, president of Loyola university.

For so young a man—Durzynski is but thirty—his work is very mature, solid, even brilliant is not too high a term of praise. The artist was born in Berlin but lived much of his youth in Poland. He studied art in Warsaw, Cracow, and Brussels. The war interrupted his studies. Three years ago he came to Chicago. Various paintings of scenes in and about Chicago are also part of the exhibit, and not its least interesting part.

The second new exhibition of the week is that of paintings by twelve ex-service men in the Hoosier gallery, 211 West Wacker drive. The idea is a novel one, to show what our men who served in France are doing today, those of them, that is, who were artists. Glen Mitchell is one of them and his name is well known in Chicago. More recently he has been the head of an art school in another city. His water colors invariably are looked forward to in the annual water color show at the Chicago Art institute.

Another painter whose work is familiar to a wide audience, is Guy Wiser Brown, winner of important prizes in the annual Hosier salon. This year he won the prize offered by the Cook County council, American Legion auxiliary for the excellence of his painting. Last year that award went to Roy Hirshburg, whose work is also to be seen in the present exhibit.

This exhibition is very much worth while.

Events on the Stage

A series of operetta productions at the Grand Opera house will begin Easter Sunday, according to an announcement from the Messrs. Shubert. "The Blue Mask," a piece based on Emmerich Kalman's "The Circus Princess," will be the first offering. This musical romance had a successful run in New York several years ago, but has not been played in Chicago.

After the run of "The Blue Mask," other operettas new to the playgoers of this city will be staged, with casts containing well known personalities of the lyric stage. Thus the Grand Opera house will become a headquarters of musical shows specially selected and produced to appeal to theatergoers of this region, who have manifested a keen appetite for entertainment of this type.

Guy Robertson, of "Nina Rosa" and "Marching By," will head the cast of "The Blue Mask." Among the other principals will be George Hassell, Barbara Newberry, Carl Randall, Manila Powers, Barney Gorcey, Lorraine Weimar, Philip Lord, Arthur Geary, Roland Grimes, Victor Casmore, and Kathleen Edwards. The chorus will include the Muriel Abbott dancers.

Kalman is a composer of fame on the light lyric stage of central Europe. A number of his works have reached the American stage; for example, "Sari," "Countess Maritza," and "The Duchess of Chicago."

Laurette Taylor's return to the New York stage in Barrie's "Alice Sit-by-the-Fire" and "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals" was suddenly and mysteriously interrupted night before last. A few minutes before curtain time the performance was called off, and the box office receipts were refunded.

William A. Brady, the manager in the case, declined to state why the performance was canceled, and referred all inquiries to Frank Gillmore, president of the Actors' Equity association. The latter referred the questions back to Mr. Brady. C. C.

English Speaking Union.

Two hundred members of the English Speaking union attended a tea in the Blackstone hotel yesterday afternoon. Miss Clara E. Laughlin, author of several books of travel, discussed scenic spots in England.

Art Luncheon Today.

Mrs. Signe Palmblad, Swedish-American artist, will give a luncheon today at the Rococo House at 161 East Ohio street for Mrs. Charles Dalremple, president and founder of the All-Illinois Society of Fine Arts, and members of the society's board of directors.

CHILD need REGULATING?

CASTORIA WILL STRAIGHTEN HER OUT
Of course you are particular about the medicines you give your child. You want no harmful drugs, no narcotics in a child's medicine.
When your child needs regulating, remember this: the organs of babies and children are delicate. Little bowels must be gently urged—never forced.
That's why Castoria is used by so many doctors and mothers. It is specially made for children's ailments. It contains nothing that can harm a child's tender organs.
Castoria is so mild you can safely give it to a young infant to ease colic pains. Yet, gentle as it is, it is unfailingly effective. Larger doses keep older children well regulated. And babies and children alike love its taste—never object to taking Castoria!
The next time your child has a little cold or fever, or a digestive upset, give him the help of Castoria, the children's remedy. The genuine Castoria always has the name, Chas. H. Fletcher, on the package.

Junior League Ready for Rush at Clothes Sale

Recall Amusing Incidents of Other Days.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

"OLD clo-o-thes to sell! Old clo-o-thes to sell!"

This is the theme song of the gay coterie of provisional Junior league members who are sorting, pricing, and tagging everything from men's cravats to debutantes' beaded bags for their annual spring rummage sale tomorrow morning. The time is 8 o'clock, the place 32 South Michigan avenue, and, to judge by former sales, mounted police will be on hand to protect the sixty or more girls from the onrush of customers.

It is one of those semi-annual occasions when the apparel of society matrons and debutantes, capitalists and young beaux is offered for sale at prices ranging from five cents to $13.

"That's the top notch price, at least so far," Miss Janet Ayer told me when I dropped in at the Drake, where the second hand articles are being assembled. "This black velvet formal will sell for $13 (it brought at least $100 to some shopkeeper last fall) and that brown wool suit. At the other end of the price scale are men's neckties tagged at 5 and 10 cents, lingerie, beaded bags, hats, and shoes. Some lucky man will get a pair of white riding breeches for 20 cents."

Pricing on Scientific Basis.

Pricing the garments is a scientific chore this spring under the direction of Mrs. Maud Sippy Hill—at least in comparison with former times when the debutantes subtracted the number of spots and rips and then added the length and width. The last week Mrs. Hill has made the rounds of "white elephant" sales for the sake of comparison. With Miss Adelaide Atkin, general chairman of the sale, and Miss Louise Neff she has also worked out a sales check system whereby one slip goes to the purchaser and the league retains a duplicate for its records.

Some young maid will get a charming green tulle gown with a velvet jacket to match. When I saw it yesterday it reminded me of the dress Jean Philippe Worth designed not so long ago over a tight fitting princess slip. He tells the story that one of his best competitors went so far as to persuade a customer to come to his shop and buy it that he might have the original Worth to copy.

Strange, isn't it, this never ending drama whose heroine is "La Mode." She is governed by what Edgar Allan Poe terms human, not to say feminine, perversity, and her famous line is "I must have something new." Indeed the whole drama is not yet a century old, for it was well after the revolution of 1848 that people became imbued with the desire for greater elegance of attire and their imaginations were aroused to the grace and beauty hidden in a bolt of cloth.

Recall Incidents of Other Sales.

Prior to this the change in style from year to year was hardly perceptible. A dress might wear out in the course of a decade, but it seldom went out of fashion. "Thank fortune," say the shopkeepers and the Junior leaguers (when a second hand clothes sale rolls around), "things are different today."

The sale tomorrow recalls some of the amusing incidents of other sales held the last three years, as well as the many interests that have contributed to the fame and success of the Junior league during its comparatively short existence. The girls still laugh about the prospective buyer last year who gazed upon one of the leaguers, bedraggled and besmudged after the strenuous efforts of the day, and remarked in a loud tone: "Humph; so that's society, is it?"

The idea of the league, as such, was born in a New York drawing room about two decades ago, when a group of the winter's buds decided to distribute the flowers from their coming out parties to hospitals of the city.

Nation-Wide Organization.

From that little nucleus a nation-wide organization has developed, branching out into all sorts of paths—charitable, cultural, civic, educational—and making a definitely important place for its work and activities in each community. It was in 1912 that a sprightly trio—Lucy McCormick Blair [now Mrs. Howard Linn], Helen B. Blair [Mrs. William McCormick Blair], and Olive Farwell [Mrs. Henry Boston]—formed the Chicago league.

One of the best known activities of the local group, the children's theater, developed from a histrionic undertaking, the Junior League Follies. The performance, put on by the youthful belles and beaux of the town, came once a year as the Service Club Revue now. Excitement always ran high as to which of the latter could and would take part, and when the idea was finally given up some ten years ago in favor of the Saturday morning performances masculine sighs of relief were tempered by a sincere regret at the fun to be missed.

Engagement

MISS JANE YOUNKER.

"There is only one edible precious stone—salt. The most precious mineral on the entire earth. Without salt there is no life. If salt were to disappear from the earth, mankind would die of salt hunger."

That would seem to make salt rather important. It is true enough that there is ever present, both in human beings and in animals, an instinctive craving for it. This craving is not an invention or fabrication of the mind, but a fundamental nutritional need. To satisfy this craving some of the very oldest trade routes in the world were created for traffic in salt. In some countries, and of course many years ago, cakes of salt were used as money. Often it has been a source of revenue. Time and again it has been the bone of contention for which wars were started and fought. The unrest in India now is a shining example of what has happened and what might happen.

Salt in its relation to cooking and food preparation is a great force in the chemistry of digestion. It has a tonic effect and is a stimulant to the secretion of digestive juices. In its relation to food it is the principle of invigoration.

Paradoxically, the use of salt with fresh, uncooked vegetables may give rise to excess because fresh, uncooked foodstuffs in the stomach act as a stimulus to the digestive processes.

In the writings of many medical authorities great objections have been raised to the use of salt. Some strongly advocate its removal from our diet as being "uncongenial and harmful to the system and an absolute hindrance to life." They threaten us with hardening of the arteries and other horrible diseases and point approvingly at the Eskimos because they never use salt in any form and absolutely refuse to eat food seasoned with it. These same doctors consider the use of salt a habit—one which gradually destroys our sensitiveness of taste and one which is every bit as detrimental to the human machine as the tobacco habit.

Who is right?

There must be a point up to which salt may be used without danger and beyond which is excess. The same force which if used in accordance with physiological needs will aid digestion and circulation, if used in excess of the needs "will strike us with hardening of the tissues, evaporation of the fluids, crystalization of the solids, etc." Just where this point lies is hard to say. Different types of people require different amounts of salt.

But I wouldn't advise you to attempt to prepare tasty dishes without salt. I'm afraid we don't realize what it means to us or how often we use it.

Devries Tells of Study with Georges Bizet

Gives Vivid Picture of Composer.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Appearing under the auspices of the Chicago Artists' association, Herman Devries, noted pedagogue, critic, and former operatic artist, made his debut as a public speaker at Curtiss hall last night. The subject was Mr. Devries' own reminiscences of Georges Bizet, the composer of "Carmen," a peculiarity interesting topic under the circumstances, for Mr. Devries as a boy was a Bizet pupil.

A vivid account touched with humor was given of Bizet as human as well as musical personality, and the audience expressed its unmistakable pleasure. The speech was followed by a group of songs by the Devries vocal ensemble directed by Mrs. Devries. Another number was the chorus of cigarette girls from "Carmen," and this by a vocal trio under the same direction. Both organizations were well trained and efficiently directed. The program began with a performance of the Rubinstein Sonata in D for piano and cello played by Mae Doelling Schmidt and Robert Ambrosius, and closed by the two pianists, Genevieve Davison and Anita DeMars in numbers by Brahms-Maier and Louis Aubert.

An elaborate program by the Musicians' club of Loyola university was presented at Kimball hall last evening. It included a string trio composed of Emer Phibbs, Vaughan Avakian, and Milan Hranilovich, solo singing by Robert Windler and Irma Gramlich, the university concert ensemble in Mozart's "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik" and the first movement of Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony, a group by the singing club, and another group by the dance orchestra. At the end all joined in singing the Loyola anthem. Walter Dellers is the director of instrumental music.

Paris Alarmed Over Threat to Close Opera

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, March 15.—Music circles here are thoroughly alarmed by the threatened closing of the Paris National Opera on March 29, when the resignation of its director, Jacques Rouche, announced today, becomes effective. A monthly deficit of more than $80,000, despite government subsidies, and steadily decreasing public subscriptions, as well as box office receipts, was given by Bouche as the reason for his resignation.

All evening newspapers deplore the government's failure to make necessary increases in the subsidies this year to enable the opera to carry on in conjunction with the National Academy of Music.

The opera is one of the principal interests of foreigners, who visit Paris every summer, the press points out. Mario Roustan, minister of public instruction, while accepting M. Rouche's resignation, stated a special effort will be made for an emergency appropriation to keep the opera open this summer as usual.

M. Rouche revealed that the total subsidies received from the national municipal governmnts amount to little more than $250,000 yearly.

He compared that sum with the annual state subsidies of $500,000 accorded to the Berlin and Rome operas.

Spring Horse Show Will Raise Funds for Needy Families

Blue blood horses from the South Shore Country club, the Chicago Riding club, and many riding stables in Chicago will be matched against entries from downstate at the opening of the Illinois spring horse show April 1.

Entries for this social event which is being held for the benefit of the Joint Emergency Relief fund must be made by March 26, according to Frank M. Flynn, manager. Cash prizes are being donated by horse enthusiasts, and the facilities of the International Amphitheater at 43d and Halsted streets are being loaned for the three day show.

Four events have been scheduled, at each of which fancy riding and indoor polo games will be novelties. These are scheduled for Friday evening, April 1, Saturday afternoon and evening, and Sunday afternoon.

'Be Yourself,' Advice of Edna Ferber to Dramatic Graduates

New York, March 15.—(AP)—Persons who would achieve success must "be themselves," even at the risk of being thought "goofy," Edna Ferber, the novelist, told the graduating class of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts today.

Americans, said she, are a "little inclined to be rubber stamps, perhaps because we are not quite sure of ourselves. And so, to avoid being laughed at or talked about or pointed out, we try to conform a little too much. We try to be like somebody else, because we are afraid of being called 'goofy.' Well, I think being 'goofy' is very important."

Ninety Volunteers in Relief Course; More Are Needed

More than ninety women volunteers appeared yesterday for the opening of the new training course in relief work at the headquarters of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies, at 203 North Wabash avenue.

"Naturally we're delighted at the fine turnout," Mrs. Edward Brown of the council said. "But there still is room for more than thirty additional volunteers, and plenty of time yet for them to enroll."

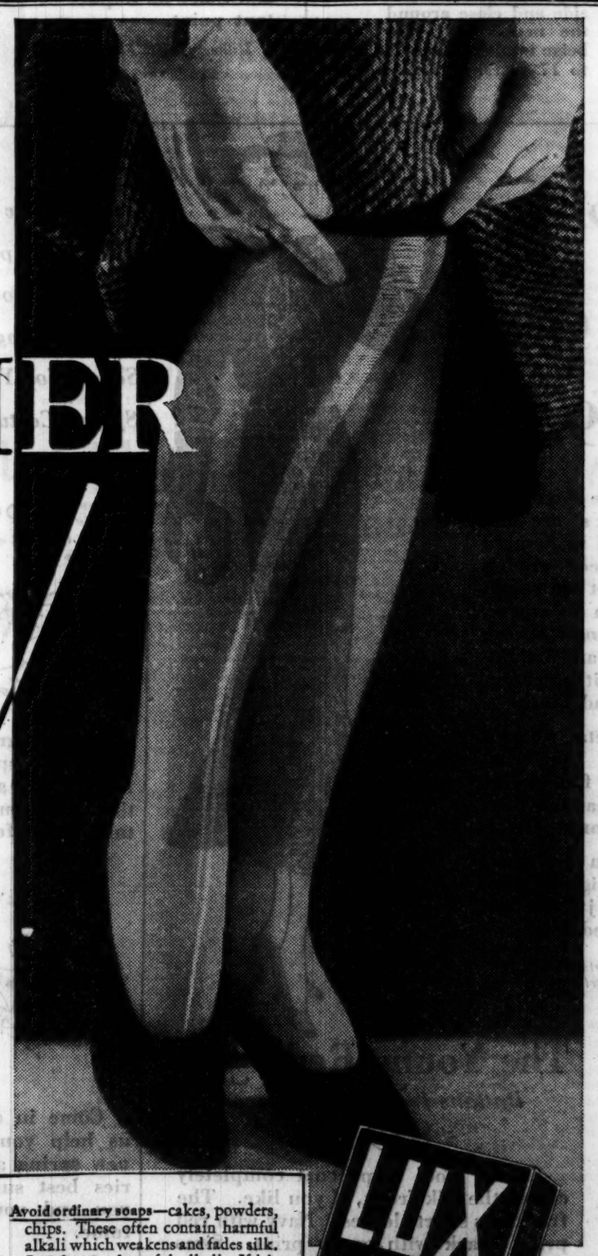
ANOTHER RUN!



Why doesn't she preserve the ELASTICITY* that makes stockings WEAR?

DOESN'T SHE KNOW what causes those runs that ruin stockings and waste money?

New stockings give under strain, because they are elastic. They stretch and spring right back again.

But if this precious elasticity is destroyed, the silk threads, instead of giving, break under strain. Then come those ruinous runs!

Lux is made to preserve elasticity. That is why it offers the sure way to make stockings fit and WEAR.

Wash this 2-minute way:
1. One teaspoon of Lux diamonds for each pair.
2. Add lukewarm water to Lux, squeeze through stockings, rinse.

Don't rub with cake soap. It destroys the elasticity of the silk. With Lux there's no rubbing. Press in a few dry Lux diamonds on stubborn spots.

Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali which weakens and fades silk. Lux has no harmful alkali. If it's safe in water it's safe in Lux.

BEAUTY

GIANTS' 4 RUN RALLY IN 9TH BEATS CUBS, 8-7

CATHOLIC FIVES OPEN NATIONAL TITLE QUEST TONIGHT

32 PREP TEAMS VIE FOR CROWN IN LOYOLA MEET

Minneapolis After 2d Championship.

Opening Pairings

FOLLOWING are the first round pairings for the National Catholic High school basketball tournament which opens at Loyola gymnasium tonight:

TONIGHT.

7 p. m.—De La Salle, Minneapolis, Minn., vs. Catholic, Washington, Ind.

8 p. m.—De Padua, Ashland, Wis., vs. St. Philip, Chicago.

TOMORROW.

10 a. m.—Cretin, St. Paul, Minn., vs. St. Mel, Chicago.

4 p. m.—Loyola, Mankato, Minn., vs. St. Patrick, Chicago.

FRIDAY.

9 a. m.—St. Joseph, Huntington, W. Va., vs. Central Catholic, Fort Wayne, Ind.

10 a. m.—Northeast Catholic, Philadelphia, Pa., vs. St. Bonaventure, Sturtevant, Wis.

A second consecutive championship will be the goal of De La Salle of Minneapolis, Minn., when it opens the ninth annual national Catholic High School basketball tournament tonight at the Loyola university gymnasium. The defending champions will meet the Catholic High school of Washington, Ind., in the first of three games starting at 7 o'clock.

Tonight's three contests will be followed by eleven more tomorrow when 22 of the 32 quintets representing 14 states go into action. Two games will complete the first round play on Friday morning.

Eight State Champs in Meet.

Champions of eight states will be seeking the United States title. Among them is Northeast Catholic High of Philadelphia, Pa., one of the seven strong eastern teams which will attempt to take the title for the first time; Bishop England of Charleston, champion of South Carolina, and Father Ryan of Nashville, Tenn.

Father Ryan, which placed third last year, will meet St. Mary's of Iowa City, runner-up in the Hawkeye state tournament, tonight. In the other game scheduled for tonight, St. Philip of Chicago, south section runner-up in the Chicago Catholic High School league, faces De Padua of Ashland, Wis.

Only two regulars, Capt. James Sullivan and Henry Coulombe, will be in the De La Salle of Minneapolis lineup when it takes the floor against the Hoosiers tonight. Despite the loss of regulars, De La Salle is favored to retain its championship. If the Minneapolis quintet is successful, it will be the sixth time that a team bearing the name of De La Salle has won the title.

Cathedral Hoosiers' Best.

Other contenders for the championship include Cathedral High school of Indianapolis, which won the Indiana state title by defeating Jasper academy. The defeat of Jasper, which lost in the finals of the national tournament last year, indicates that Cathedral will be the Hoosier state's strongest representative in the meet.

Cathedral's first opponent in the tournament will be St. Mary's of Bird Island, Minn., tomorrow afternoon. St. Mary's quintet represents the smallest school in the meet, having an enrollment of only 31 boys. Jasper academy will face Augustinian academy of Carthage, N. Y., in the first game tomorrow.

Augustinian is one of the five New York state district winners. It won the northern sectional state championship with 13 victories and 3 defeats this season. Others which will represent New York are St. Francis of Athol Springs, St. Patrick of Binghamton and Canisius of Buffalo.

Four Chicago Fives Play.

While the teams come from all parts of the United States except the Pacific coast, Illinois, the home state of six of the eight champions, again will be represented by powerful squads. Four of the six teams are members of the Chicago Catholic High School league.

Predictions that the Illinois quintets will have an easy time sweeping through the tournament are based on the interesting races staged this season for the state and Chicago championships. Playoffs were necessary to

WARNEKE, YOUNG PITCHING HOPE, WILTS AT FINISH

New Batting Order Gets Results.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 15.—Lon Warneke, one of the young men from whom Manager Hornsby is expecting big things, will have to carry the blame for what happened to the Cubs today. He went into the ninth inning with a three run lead and came out of it looking like a different fellow. Instead of folding up gracefully and accepting defeat, the Giants mauled him for four runs, giving them victory by 8 to 7 and a four to three edge in the spring series which closes tomorrow.

Warneke's belated rout can't be explained away by soft worded alibis. The Giants simply hammered him with emphasis. Terry opened the last assault with a single to center and this threw so much fear into the youthful Lonnie that he walked Ott. Jackson did the best he could for the Cubs by popping out, but the others were different.

Two Bagger Ends Show.

Vergez singled to score Terry. O'Farrell walked and Fullis ran for him. Leach was called into bat for the pitcher and singled Ott and Vergez across the plate. Then Eddie Moore doubled to left and Fullis scored the run that broke up the show.

In the interests of greater power Hornsby juggled his batting order by placing Billy Herman in the second notch, Lance Richbourg in the clean-up post, and English in sixth place. The combination worked satisfactorily, the defeat notwithstanding. However, the distance hits for which the middle portion of the Cub lineup, always was noted were again absent. The longest drive from the midsection was a double by Johnny Moore, when the Cubs jumped into the lead by scoring three off Herman Bell in the eighth. But Johnny isn't even counted on to survive the training jaunt.

Hack Doubles and Scores.

A double past third by Hack and a single by Cuyler gave the Cubs a one-run lead in the first inning, but that condition proved temporary. The Giants replied with a salvo that netted them four runs off Smith in the second. Terry walked. Ott singled and so did Jackson, scoring Terry. Vergez hit one safely and Ott hiked home. O'Farrell popped a single to center, sending Jackson across the plate. Gibson's long fly to Cuyler scored Vergez. Grimm then engineered a fast double play on Critz's grounder to close the disturbance.

The Cubs got off to a flying start in the third, but slowed down after getting two runs across. Hartnett led off with a homer over the left field bricks, his second in two days. Smith doubled to left and decided to stop at third on Jurges's single to right. Terry made a one handed stop to retire Herman, but Smith was able to score on the play. Cuyler was retired on a long fly to Lindstrom, and Jackson made a successful leap for Richbourg's liner.

Singles Twice to Get Hit.

After their outburst in the third, the Cubs encountered some rough going, but they repaid themselves with the thumping accorded Bell in the eighth. Herman was thrown out, whereupon Cuyler walked and Richbourg singled. Johnny Moore, who had relieved Stephenson in left, doubled to center to score Cuyler and put Richbourg on third. English singled to center and Richbourg ran home.

In the confusion caused by wholesale changes in the personnel, Harry Taylor stepped up to bat in the place belonging to Zack Taylor. Harry singled to center, scoring J. Moore, but the Giants detected the mistake and Umpire Reardon rightfully ruled that Zack Taylor, who should have batted, was out. It took several minutes to convince the Cubs of their mistake. Then Harry Taylor batted a second time, and to prove that his illegal hit was no mistake, he singled to center again, J. Moore scoring the third and last run of the inning.

The Cubs had no reason to feel proud about a run picked up in the ninth. It was off Russell White, a collegian southpaw making his first appearance. He walked Hack and Cuyler, with a single by Herman in between. With these three men on the bases, Richbourg grounded into a double play, on which Hack scored. Then the Giants put on the works for Warneke and changed everything around. Score:

Let New Yorkers Worry, Say Chicago Golden Glove Boxers

BY FRENCH LANE.

New York's Golden Glove warriors will have to say it with good hard punches to the chin if they hope to beat Chicago in the Intercity matches.

Reports of New York's finals did not disturb the members of the TRIBUNE's Chicago team who square away against the New Yorkers in the intercity battle at Madison Square Garden on the night of March 28.

Instead it pepped up the training work at the Illinois Athletic club gymnasium. Every boxer on the Chicago squad of 24 engaged in two three minute rounds yesterday.

Well, all they did was try to knock out each other.

Fortunately there wasn't a knock down for these men on the TRIBUNE's team are pretty evenly matched. Even the champions haven't much on the runners-up when they start to throw leather at each other.

Team Takes to Road.

It was the most strenuous drill the Chicago team has been asked to step through since the Tournament of Champions. They were on the road for nearly two hours yesterday morning. They walked part of the time, jogged mile after mile and ran as fast as they could over other distances.

At noon the Chicago Golden Glovers were guests of the Rotary club at a luncheon in the Hotel Sherman. Each was introduced. Only Adam Smith made a speech. He mumbled something about knocking all the starch out of the Princeton carsman and football player, Mr. Rutherford, who is to be his opponent in the intercity finals.

Adam has always been successful against big boys. The little fellows in the heavyweight division are the boys who have caused him most of his worries. Reports picture Mr. Rutherford as a young giant.

The coaches of the Chicago team—Johnny Behr, Benny Yanger and Jabber Young—are well pleased with the way the boxers are taking to their training grind.

"Let New York Worry."

They say a perfectly conditioned team will go against New York if the youngsters keep at their training work during the next ten days.

"Let New York worry," the coaches said in sort of a chorus as yesterday's drill ended.

Chicago scouts who were at the New York finals will return this morning. They will be at the Illinois Athletic club gymnasium this afternoon telling each of the Chicago boxers about the New York opponents they are to face.

LIGHTWEIGHTS OPEN MORTON MEET TONIGHT

The first basketball tournament for leading lightweight teams in northern Illinois will begin tonight at Morton High school in Cicero and will continue until Saturday night.

Games will be played simultaneously in the boys and girls' gymnasiums. Wendell Phillips, Chicago public high school champions, will open the tourney against Blue Island. Other teams playing tonight are Morton, champion of the Suburban league for the last two years; Braidwood, Des Plaines valley titleholders; Pontiac, Little Seven winners; Joliet, Big Six champion, and Riverside, runner-up in the West Suburban league and winner of the Wheaton tournament.

REDS WILL KEEP BABE HERMAN, HOWLEY SAYS

Tampa, Fla., March 15.—[Special.]—"Babe Herman is going to strengthen the Cincinnati Reds, not the Chicago Cubs." That was Manager Dan Howley's reply today when told it was reported that the former Brooklyn slugger's stay with the Reds would be short, as he was going to the Chicago squad.

The Reds obtained Herman in a six player deal with the Dodgers yesterday. Wally Gilbert and Ernest Lombardi also went to the Reds in the deal.

Lord Wins Opening Bout of Lightweight Tourney

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 15.—(AP) — Eddie Lord of Cleveland outpointed Jimmy Dean, Erie, Pa., Negro, tonight in a ten round bout that inaugurated a sanctioned national lightweight boxing tournament. Lord, using a two-fisted attack, inflicted a cut over Dean's right eye in the fifth round and kept at him furiously from then on.

MOUNT CARMEL DEFEATS DE PAUL, 22-19, FOR TITLE

Mount Carmel of the south section regained the Chicago Catholic High School league lightweight basketball championship last night by defeating De Paul, north division titleholder, 22 to 19, in the final game for the title at the De La Salle institute gymnasium.

The victory brought the second league title to the south district. De La Salle of Joliet won the heavyweight championship last week. Both titles last year were held by north section teams.

Champions Take Early Lead.

The champions took an early lead, holding a 6 to 1 advantage at the end of the first period on baskets by Fred Nudo and Tom Harney. De Paul scored six points in the second period, but Mount Carmel led at the half, 12 to 7.

Harney sank three baskets and four penalty throws for the champions, while Nudo collected six points. Gallagher also starred for Mount Carmel, sinking two field goals.

Wray and Bauer Lead De Paul.

Wray, who played with the heavyweight team this season, and Bauer were De Paul's leading scorers, the former getting three baskets, while Bauer sank three field goals and three free throws. Caspers, another member of the heavyweight squad, also played last night, but scored only a free throw. The lineup:

HEADLEY'S GOAL IN LAST MINUTE BEATS TULSA, 3-2

Shamrocks Stay in Tie for Hockey Lead.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Shamrocks were in considerable danger of losing their chance of winning the American Hockey league championship until the last 46 seconds of their game with Tulsa, last year's champions, at the Stadium last night.

It was just at that moment that Curly Headley, who is sensitive about such matters, decided he should prevent such a mishap. Accordingly he dashed out and scored the goal that gave the Chicagoans a 3 to 2 victory.

This was a very brilliant move on the part of Curly, for it provides a perfect St. Patrick's day setting for the Shamrock's momentous struggle tomorrow night at the Stadium with the Kansas City Pla-Mors, with whom they are now tied for the league leadership.

The patrons received an amusing surprise at the opening of the performance when old Moose Jamieson, the referee, instead of appearing with the usual piccolo to maintain order and attract attention, came out with a bell.

Oilers Score First.

The Oilers had evidently decided the Shamrocks should be taken down and wasted no time in taking a 1 to 0 lead. It was Healey who was elected to deliver the punch.

He snared the puck in the neighborhood of the blue line and sprinted through the Chicago defense for a shot at the Shamrock cage. His aim was wild, going wide of the cage, but on the rebound off the boards he shot it in in 2 minutes and 47 seconds.

The Shamrocks eventually recovered the poise of a team worthy of their high station and sent forth their captain to do the deed which tied the score. Brydson started down the right side of the rink with the puck and caught McCusker at such an angle that the button caromed off Red's upholstery into the cage in 8:04.

The Shamrocks then went out and seized themselves a 2 to 1 advantage before the second period was four minutes old.

It was the nimble Buswell, who for one of the unsung defense heroes, is unusually spry and able, who gave rise to a second Shamrock goal. Walt dashed down with the puck and suffered the Oklahoma defense to upset him. Wiseman and Prelesnik had acted as convoys during this raid and they juggled the puck in front of the Oiler port long enough for Buswell to follow through on one of Peewee's efforts for a goal in 3:08.

Along Came Headley.

The third period revealed the Shamrocks in no mood for trifling although their aim was decidedly poor.

It was so poor, in fact, that the Oilers drilled themselves a score while the Shamrocks were attempting to improve their total. It was Acaster again, who took the puck from Hansen in 9:22 and caused the score to become 2 to 2.

The Shamrocks responded with an offensive of their own, but with no profit until the persevering Headley decided to quit fooling and bore in all by himself to score the winning goal in 19:14.

Some One Ought to Tell Babe How Much $70,000 Really Is

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 15.—If I could be sure that the boys were not just making ballyhoo down there in Florida, haggling and wrangling over the difference between $80,000 asked and $70,000 bid, I should remark that Babe Ruth is behaving in a very brash and impolite manner toward his boss-man, Jake Ruppert, the brewer.

BABE RUTH.

There have been other huge disputes of the same kind between the same parties in the past, however, which, when they were settled to the satisfaction of both, really did seem to have been exaggerated and prolonged for the sake of the space which they commanded next to pure advertising matter in the papers.

Tex Rickard used to quarrel that way with Dempsey and Kearns, and I am not sure but that if some one with nothing more urgent to worry about were to foot up the footage of space which has been devoted to the monetary affairs of fighters, ball players, and so forth in the last 14 years it would be almost as great as that which has been given to the debts arising from the world war. Possibly this little contribution would make matters exactly even between them. I sincerely hope the Babe and Mr. Ruppert are not merely preying on wide-eyed gullibility of such as me at this time, because my gullibility is my dearest emotion.

And Kiss His Hand, Too.

It makes me shudder, however, to read pieces about an employé in days the like of these days, who is so far out of touch with the realities of the world that he not only declines an offer of $70,000 for a season's employment at that which Babe Ruth calls his work, but does not even go down to the train to meet his employer when the employer travels all the way from New York to Florida to reason out matters with him. A Socialist might say, "Well, I am as good as my boss and he can look me up if he wants to talk to me," but when the salary goes into the upper brackets, socialism flies out the window.

So the Babe, if he ever was a Socialist, is a capitalist now. Most members of the Babe's own, personal public, if they were offered one-tenth of the sum which Jake has been trying to force upon him, and some of them, if they were offered one-tenth of that, would be down at the railroad station hours before train time, checking up with the dispatcher's office, and they would be likely to lay down one of those long, red, horse-tongue rugs for him to walk upon from the steps of his car to his cab, and also jab a dollar cigar in his face.

What If Jake Said $7,000?

Possibly it has never occurred to the Babe, but Jake Ruppert is a baseball employer after all, and he possesses the same arbitrary, ornery, brutal rights under the players' standard form of contract that all the other club owners enjoy and often invoke in their dealings with lesser athletes who want more pay or, any way don't want any less. I think that if I

Day by Day (for Four Days) Jolley Looks Better 'n' Better

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 15.—Bump Hadley and Smead Jolley today put in an early bid for opening day battery honors. Each was a standout on opposing teams in a game in which the regulars triumphed for the fourth straight time. Today the Goofs were beaten, 3 to 2, in an extra inning game of eight rounds, the affair having been scheduled to go seven innings.

SMEAD JOLLEY.

Though enemies in the game, neither Bump nor Smead was able to do anything to hurt the other's stellar capers. Hadley pitched the first four innings, allowing no runs and only two hits while striking out five. While Hadley was in the game, Smead confined his brilliance to catching. Then, when Bump went away, Smead opened up with his bat. In the fifth Smead tied the score with a homer with one on. In the sixth he socked a double against the center field wall, and in the eighth he broke up the game by sending Blue home from third with a long fly to center. Bowler was the object of all this abuse.

Mr. Jolley Looks Good.

In the four games Jolley has caught the big fellow hasn't made an error and he hasn't been guilty of a passed ball. Mulleavy was the only man to try to steal on him, and Smead threw him out with plenty to spare. Though the other catchers have numerous chances to catch foul flies and pop ups in front of the plate, Smead has been spared the anguish of getting one of these elusive things. Now that he is a veteran of four scrub games, he probably can gobble in high foul flies with great grace, if the wind isn't blowing too much.

Bruce Campbell, who with Jolley and Blue, is counted on to form the main punch of the Sox offensive, continued to please observers in his performance at the plate. Bruce backed up his three hits of yesterday with two more today and all of them have been crashing affairs.

Though a scrub game or two do not make a season, there is something about the way Campbell goes about things that indicates he's scheduled to be one of those rare birds, a hitter in a White Sox uniform. Manager Fonseca is not trying to kid himself about Campbell's potentialities and has ordered all pitchers to bear down on him whenever he steps to the plate.

Hayes and Selph still are showing much class as fielders and every once in a while one or the other bobs up with a symptom of batting skill. We're making no predictions on what the newcomers will hit, but we'll venture the guess that Blue, Hayes, Cissell and Selph are going to form one of the slickest infield outfits in the league this year. This quartet will make it hard for the team to finish again last in fielding.

No Game Today.

Manager Fonseca announced there will be no intraclub game tomorrow. He doesn't want to tire out the boys, seeing as the grand opening of the exhibition schedule is on in Austin Thursday. The University of Texas has a strong nine, and the Sox skipper wants his stalwarts in the finest fettle for the ordeal. Score:

CRITICS PREFER MAIER'S CHANCES AGAINST NICHOLS

Improved Boxers Battle for Title Friday.

When the light heavyweight tournament started several weeks ago, George Nichols, Buffalo southpaw, was not taken seriously but he made fight fans sit up and take notice by earning his way to the finals against Dave Maier of Milwaukee at the Chicago Stadium Friday night. Now that the ten round bout, which will crown a new 175 pound champion, is only two days away, Maier has taken the play away from the Buffalo boy again and is receiving most of the attention.

The reason for this was pointed out by several ring critics yesterday at the Arcade gymnasium, where the Milwaukee left hander is doing his training. They maintain that Maier has been more consistent than Nichols, outside of the tournament, as well as in. During his three years of professional battling Maier has engaged in 23 encounters, winning all but two.

Stopped by Levinsky.

He was knocked out by King Levinsky more than a year ago and was held to a ten round draw by Baxter Calmes at Milwaukee last summer. But Maier's work in recent weeks has offset those setbacks.

On the other hand, Nichols is a vastly improved fighter since losing to Maier, and should not be underrated, according to boxing followers watching the Buffalo boy work out at Trafton's gymnasium yesterday.

Defeat of Jones Important.

Nichols' defeat of Billy Jones was the most spectacular victory of the tournament. The Buffalo southpaw was winning his first bout with Maier until he received a cut over the eye.

Nichols boxed four rounds yesterday, two each with Tom Jones and Benny Stanley. Both sparmates turned southpaw and tried to imitate Maier's fighting.

decide the north and south sectional champions and also the state title.

Spalding institute of Peoria, after playing a 20 to 20 tie with Trinity of Bloomington in two overtimes in the finals for the Illinois championship, finally captured the title last Sunday afternoon with a 17 to 16 victory. De La Salle of Joliet, one of the two De La Salle squads which have won the national tournament for two years in a row, defeated St. Mel, the north section titleholder, in an overtime game for the Chicago championship.

Local Runners-Up Enter.

The other two teams of the league, St. Philip and St. Patrick, also enter the tourney with brilliant records. St. Philip qualified for the meet by triumphing over Leo to win second place in the south section, while St. Patrick, which led the race until the last two games, was runner-up to St. Mel in the north district.

From the north will come two teams in addition to De La Salle of Minneapolis and St. Mary's of Bird Island. They are Cretin High school of St. Paul, Minn., and Loyola of Mankato. Cretin won second place in the Northwest Catholic High school league with 16 victories and 3 defeats. One of the triumphs in its record was over De La Salle, the national champion.

Wisconsin's champion, Campion academy of Prairie du Chien, and the runnerup, St. Bonaventure High school of Sturtevant, also will attempt to take the championship to the north. Campion will meet its first round opponent, Cathedral of Sioux Falls, S. D., in the last game tomorrow night, while St. Bonaventure faces Northeast Catholic of Philadelphia Friday morning.

Teams Come from Everywhere.

By rail and motor the quintets began to assemble at the tournament's headquarters in the Edgewater Beach hotel yesterday. Among the teams which arrived were De Padua of Ashland, Wis., and Father Ryan of Nashville, Tenn. Augustinian academy of Carthage, N. Y., which motored to Chicago, arrived yesterday afternoon. Several other teams are expected today and all will be on the scene of the tournament by tomorrow morning.

FENCERS DUEL SATURDAY FOR ILLINOIS TITLE

Chicago's leading fencers will compete Saturday for the Waldbott cup and the foils team championship of the Illinois division, Amateur Fencers League of America. The meet will start at 2 p. m. at the National Fencing academy, 3404 North Halsted street.

Teams from the University of Chicago, Northwestern university, National Fencing academy, France-American National Academy of Fencing, Gage Park Foils club, West Suburban Foils club, and Vorwaerts Turn-Verein are expected to participate.

State P. G. A. Tourney to Be Held in Peoria Nov. 7-9

Peoria, Ill., March 15.—[Special.]—Charles W. Hall, president of the Illinois Professional Golfers association, today announced that the sixteenth annual P. G. A. golf championship will be held here on Nov. 7, 8, and 9.

City Checker Tourney to Open in 3 Classes

Play for the Chicago checker championship will open Saturday afternoon at the Chicago Checker and Chess club, 16 North Clark street. There will be competition in classes A, B, and C.

WILSON SMACKS HOMER; DODGERS BEAT PHILS, 9-8

Clearwater, Fla., March 15.—(AP)—With home runs booming off the players' bats almost as frequently as singles, the Brooklyn Dodgers pounded out a 9 to 8 decision over the Phillies today.

Seven home runs were made, five by the Phillies. Chuck Klein came through with two of the circuit drives, while Lee, Whitney, and Bartell got one each.

Hack Wilson got the first Brooklyn homer in the third with the bases loaded, and in the seventh Bobby Reis drove the ball out of the park. The Dodgers put across the winning run on an error, however, scoring in the eighth on a misplay by Bartell and Slade's single.

SENATORS BEAT ORIOLES, 5-4.

Biloxi, Miss., March 15.—(AP)—The pitching of three recruits and the hitting of such seasoned regulars as Cronin and West gave Washington a 5 to 4 victory over Baltimore today in the first exhibition game of the season for both clubs.

Walter Johnson's pennant aspirants won in the ninth, a double by Cronin sending West home with the deciding tally. Cronin got three hits, a single, double and triple, and West also got three.

Friedrich, recruit right hander, held the International leaguers to two hits and one run in three innings, but they got three runs off Griffith, left hander, in the fifth. Ragland, big right hander from Chattanooga, held the Baltimore club scoreless in the last three innings.

CARDS WIN WITHOUT MARTIN.

Sarasota, Fla., March 15.—(AP)—Coming from behind with four runs in the seventh inning the Cardinals defeated the Indianapolis club of the American association today, 6 to 5.

Pepper Martin, who hit a homer and scored three runs yesterday to help the Cardinals defeat the Braves, was confined to his hotel room with a severe cold.

NEWARK DEFEATS A'S, 9-5.

Lakeland, Fla., March 15.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics lost to the Newark, N. J., Bears today, 9 to 5, in an exhibition game on the training field of the International leaguers.

A three run rally by the Bears against Jimmy Deshong in the seventh inning broke a 5 to 5 tie. The A's scored their five runs in separate innings.

YANKS BEAT BRAVES, 3-2.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 15.—(AP)—Two hits in the second inning, preceded by Bruce Cunningham's error, paved the way for the New York Yankees' 3 to 2 decision over the Boston Braves today. The Yankees were held to five hits by Cunningham and Betts, but the three runs made in the second inning proved to be enough to win. Ruffing held the Braves scoreless and allowed only one hit for the first four innings. Paul Andrews was touched for six safeties and both of Boston's runs.

TIGERS ROUT OAKLAND.

Oakland, Cal., March 15.—(AP)—After being blanked for five innings, the Detroit Tigers landed on three Oakland pitchers to win an exhibition baseball game here today, 9 to 2.

Herring hit a home run in the eighth inning with one on, and with Hogsett held the Oaks to seven hits.

BATTALINO WILL BOX PETROLLE IN GARDEN MARCH 23

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—Bat Battalino will make his second appearance as a welterweight on March 23, when he meets Billy Petrolle, veteran Fargo, N. D., boxer. Both signed today to meet in a twelve round bout at Madison Square Garden.

Battalino, former featherweight champion, was to have met Petrolle last week, but the Fargo boxer was taken ill, and Battalino fought Eddie Ran, Polish welterweight. Battalino easily won a ten round decision over Ran.

BOZEMAN TRAILS LAYTON, 200-168, IN CUSHION PLAY

Jay Bozeman won the fourth block of his 500 point three cushion billiard match with Johnny Layton last night at Bensinger's Randolph room, 56 to 50, but in spite of his victory is still trailing, 200 to 168.

Layton played a 38 inning game in the afternoon to beat Bozeman, 50 to 38, and assumed a lead of 38 points.

Mrs. Hill's 81 Leads in Augusta Invitational Golf

Augusta, Ga., March 15.—(AP)—Mrs. G. S. Hill of Kansas City shot an 81 today to lead the field of qualifiers by five strokes in Augusta's second annual woman's invitational golf tournament. Her nearest rivals were Maureen Orcutt and Miss Bea Gottlieb of New York, each with a score of 86.

Babe, $70,000 Is $70,000, If Only in Yen

were of the Babe's age in his business and my boss offered me $70,000 a year as against my price of $80,000, I would be big and broad and sporting about the proposition and spatter ink all over the room in my haste to get my name down on the documents and establish official relations with the pay office.

Because, to face the facts, it is quite possible for Mr. Ruppert to tell Ruth right now, "Well, my boy, I am not as optimistic about the baseball business just now as I was when I offered you seventy, so the offer is hereby withdrawn and you can play ball for me this year for $7,000 or stay out of the business altogether."

Babe Ought to Know Better.

Mr. Ruppert has the advantage of the ingenious "like it or lump it" clause in the baseball contract which Sam Breadon has been using on Chick Hafey and Phil Ball has been using on Ralph Kress and I don't think the customers would punish him much at his box office if he were to cut his offer in half and stick to it. The baseball customers sometimes declare little momentary boycotts when they are angered over some trade or some flagrant mistreatment of an idol by a magnate, but they have neither moral resistance nor memory and the loss in trade to Mr. Ruppert probably would be no greater than his saving in wages.

The St. Louis patrons, some vague, noisy number of them, ran a high fever and I seem to recall that they yanked some straw dummies labeled Sam Breadon up to the limbs of trees and left them adangle when Mr. Breadon sent away Rogers Hornsby, up to that time the only manager who had ever won a pennant in St. Louis, for flunking his Sunday school lesson in Branch Rickey's Young Men's Hallelujah and Anti-Bad-Word society.

They were fearfully put out about it all and so were the New York customers a year later when Mr. Hornsby was sent away to Boston because he didn't lift his cap to a prominent New York stockholder. But those customer mutinies flickered out in no time and though the patrons might remember Babe Ruth for a little longer while, even he would be no Alamo nor Battleship Maine.

Being an old employé and of the employé mind naturally I hope Mr. Ruth makes a lot of money, but even in the best of times I feel an instinct to touch my cap and lower my eyes when any one mentions $70,000. The Babe's contempt for Ruppert's offer is an affront to some numerals that I hold in deep reverence and a man shouldn't go around holding $70,000 up to raucous ridicule.

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

RUTH MAY SIGN TODAY

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 15.—[Special.]—A compromise is near in the salary dispute between Babe Ruth, New York Yankee home run king, and Owner Jacob Ruppert. Following a conference today it was indicated that the big outfielder may sign a one year contract calling for $75,000 tomorrow.

Ruth has been demanding $80,000 a year and the Yankee owner has refused to increase his offer from the $70,000 overture made to the Babe during the winter.

Confer at Ball Park.

The way was cleared for a settlement at Waterfront park before the Yankees' exhibition game with the Braves today. Col. Ruppert sat in a box and chatted briefly through a screen to the Babe while the latter was breaking in a new first baseman's glove.

Later they announced that they had agreed to meet at Ruth's hotel at 11 a. m. tomorrow at which time each expects to settle their differences.

"I cannot say what will happen tomorrow," Col. Ruppert said. "I do not think we are far apart. Ruth has promised to give me a definite answer. I am hopeful he will sign and that every one will be satisfied tomorrow morning."

In the WAKE of the NEWS

WHAT, NOT THE CLIMATE?

IN THE late '90's there was an exposition of some sort in San Francisco, as usual. Promoters of said exposition invited many newspapers to send representatives as official guests. Another Chicago morning newspaper, not THE TRIBUNE, named a feature writer who afterward became nationally known as author and playwright.

Reaching San Francisco rather dazed by three and one-half days on the train with unbounded hospitality, the writer went to the Palace hotel, and as it was only noon, then to bed for a quiet snooze. No more than lying down, he heard newsboys in the street calling "Extra! All about the prize fight."

That being one of this writer's hobbies, he forgot all about his head and other troubles and hastened out on Market street and up to the bulletin boards displayed by two rival newspapers on opposite corners. Much interested for a time, he suddenly noticed that the newspaper building on his left took a turn and went up the side street.

Wiping his eyes and wondering why he took that "last one," the writer looked again only to discover the other newspaper was slowly but surely going up the same street as the other. He rushed back madly to his hotel, called the house physician who prescribed the usual restoratives for jaded nerves, and told his experiences.

After hearing the tale and getting the locations correctly, the physician diagnosed the case as that of the writer standing on a street car turntable. His overcargo of stimulating refreshment did the rest.

The above reminiscence is from the memory book of George H. Jenny [who was not the writer referred to].

Has witnessed much so dear and sweet to me;
It wakens many a hallowed memory,
And oft the child I used to be appears
Before a cabinet filled with china ware
Quaint with birds and blossoms veined with gold,
And begs to hear the story, never old,
The prize, when sadly broken, long ago,

Calza Arrives to Face Londos at Coliseum

George Calza, 220 pound Italian, arrived in Chicago yesterday for his wrestling engagement tomorrow night with Jim Londos in the Coliseum ring. Londos apparently has been delayed somewhere between California and Chicago, but he is expected in today.

The Italian will have at least 15 pounds advantage in weight for the finish match, and he counts on this to swing things in his favor. George, however, is not as fast as Londos, and it is doubtful if he is as clever.

At least two of the four supporting matches are expected to be closely contested. Hans Kampfer, German youngster, will get a chance to even matters with George Zaharias in the semi-windup. The latter won a decision over Hans in the Coliseum ring at the last show.

EVELYN KENNEDY SEEKS DIVING TITLE TONIGHT

Evelyn Kennedy, prospective entry of the Illinois Women's Athletic club for the 1932 Olympic games, will seek the junior low board diving championship tonight in the Central A. A. U. meet at the Medinah Athletic club.

SENN DOMINATES OPENING EVENTS IN PREP TRACK

Juniors Get 23½ Points in Half of Finals.

Senn High school emerged as a strong contender for the senior track championship of the City High School league and an almost certain winner of the junior title last night when the north siders dominated the show in the preliminaries at Bartlett gymnasium.

Four events were completed in the junior division for boys under 16 and the Senn entries piled up a commanding lead which virtually assures them of the title, even if they fail to score in the remaining four finals to be held Saturday afternoon at Bartlett gymnasium.

Senn Gets 23½ Points.

The Senn juniors scored 23½ points; Lake View 5; Bowen 3¼; Crane 3; Austin 2¼; Fenger, Lane and Hyde Park 2 each, and Roosevelt 1.

New records were established in the junior triple broad jump, when Weiss of Senn hopped 30 feet 3¼ inches, the old record being 30 feet 3 inches and in the junior shot put when Harris, of Senn, heaved the 8 pound missle 50 feet 1 inch, bettering the old mark of 47 feet 8 inches.

SENIOR FINALS.

TRIPLE BROAD JUMP—Won by McCall, Englewood; Grasno, Austin, second; Nelson, Senn, third; Simms, Austin, fourth. Distance, 31 feet 11⅜ inches.

SENIOR QUALIFIERS.

QUALITY and PROGRESS
work together
for REAL ENJOYMENT

EL PRODUCTO

Bouquet 10c — Puritano Fino 2 for 25c — Favorita 15c — Varsity 10c

But when better methods have appeared, El Producto has adopted them. (Not a few times, El Producto has originated them.)

You simply cannot get better quality in a cigar than El Producto. It does not exist. And, if your idea of cigar enjoyment is mild, yet distinctive quality—we know you will find that El Producto will fill the bill.

FALCONS GET ONE MORE CHANCE TO WIN AT STADIUM

Play Hawks Tonight for Fourth Time.

Tonight's hockey game at the Chicago Stadium between the Blackhawks and the Detroit Falcons will be one of the most important of the season for the teams. The victor will take a long step toward clinching a place in the playoffs for the Stanley cup, which is emblematic of the hockey championship of the world.

It will be the fourth meeting of the season between the teams at the Stadium. The Hawks defeated the Falcons in the other three games. Defeat will send the Hawks into a tie with the Falcons for second place, with but two regular scheduled games remaining.

Boston, Toronto Remain.

The games are against Boston and Toronto, both of which are fighting for playoff positions. Toronto has a chance to take the International division lead from Les Canadiens and Boston still has a mathematical chance to qualify in the United States division.

The Falcons are the freak team of the National league this season. They have only been defeated twice in 21 games at Detroit, but their road record has been disappointing. The offensive play of their main front line, Hec Kilrea, Ebbie Goodfellow, and Laurie Aurie, and the defensive work of Reg Noble, who is rounding out his sixteenth year in the big circuit, and Doug Young, who is playing his first year, are the chief reasons for the team's successes.

Pittsburgh Keeps Romnes.

Because of a last minute decision on the part of the officials of the Pittsburgh team, who still have a chance to qualify for a playoff berth in the International league, Doc Romnes, center, who was to report to the Hawks, will not be available this season.

MAROONS, 4; RANGERS, 3.

MONTREAL, Que., March 15.—(AP)—The Montreal Maroons clinched a berth in the National Hockey league playoffs by whipping the New York Rangers, 4 to 3, tonight. The Maroons, third in the league's Canadian division with 45 points, are seven points ahead of the fourth place New York Americans.

The Rangers and Maroons were all square at a goal each after two periods of play. In the third period the Rangers took a two goal lead on successive counters by Murdoch and Seibert, but the Maroons came back with three goals before the period closed, Dave Trottier getting two of them.

BOSTON, 6; TORONTO, 2.

Boston, Mass., March 15.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins continued in the running for a National hockey league playoff berth by trouncing the Toronto Maple Leafs, 6 to 2, tonight.

The game was less than four minutes old when Referee Bill Stewart called a tripping penalty against Lorne Chabot, the visiting goalie, and ordered him off the ice for two minutes. This unusual ruling enabled the Bruins to register three easy goals, two by Marty Barry and the other by George Owen, as Red Horner, King Clancy and Alex Levinsky took turns guarding the Toronto net.

Referee Stewart called most of the game's 22 penalties and, in the first period, stopped the game to order Manager Connie Smythe off the Toronto bench.

AMERICANS BEAT CANADIENS.

New York, March 15.—(AP)—The New York Americans walloped the Montreal Canadiens, 5 to 2, tonight but found themselves shut out of the National Hockey league playoffs. Roy Worters, returning to action after a week off because of lumbago, played one of the best games of his career in the American net.

DR. SERRITELLA IS BEATEN IN A. A. U. HANDBALL MATCH

Dr. William Serritella, defending champion, was eliminated in the first round of the Central A. A. U.'s annual handball tournament at the Lake Shore Athletic club, last night. His conqueror was Joe Platak, unattached, and the scores were 21-11, 21-18. It was the first defeat the champion had suffered in tournament competition in several years. Results in other matches:

G. Gentil, unattached, defeated Hub Wolfe, Lake Shore Athletic club, 21-12, 16-21, 21-12.

J. Stenson, Midwest Athletic club, defeated J. Engelstein, 13-21, 21-11, 21-8.

Jack Root, Medinah Athletic club, defeated William Abrams, 21-5, 21-18.

Tom Allman, Midwest Athletic club, defeated L. Storto, 21-18, 21-11.

Charles Clark, Midwest Athletic club, defeated D. Healy, Hamilton club, 14-21, 21-12, 21-16.

KEEGAN TO OPEN AURORA TRACK FOR TRAINING

John Keegan, veteran racetrack builder, who will be in charge of the course at Exposition park, Aurora, will arrive Saturday from Florida.

Keegan was associated with Curley Brown in the construction of Arlington park and Joseph E. Widener employed him to help in the building of the Hialeah track.

Keegan dates back to the old Harlem track on the west side, where he was employed as assistant superintendent. With Keegan's arrival work will begin at Exposition park. The track will be thrown open for training.

May & Malone Girls Beat Kelly Five, 17 to 4

The May & Malone girls basketball team defeated the Franklin Kelly girls, 1931 Central A. A. U. champions, 17 to 4, in the De Paul auditorium last night.

ACKNOWLEDGING THE TRUTH

—A STATEMENT BY THE GILLETTE SAFETY RAZOR COMPANY

THE Gillette Safety Razor Company in fairness to its millions of customers feels called upon to make a confession and a statement that are undoubtedly unique in the annals of American business. It is with deep regret and no little embarrassment that we do this in order to tell you frankly what actually happened a year ago when we introduced a new Gillette razor and blade.

For more than twenty-nine years the Gillette Safety Razor Company has been the acknowledged leader of its industry. Last year, consistent with a long established policy of improving our product whenever ways and means could be found for so doing, we developed a new razor and blade. Soon after this was done, we found to our great disappointment that the public was not as enthusiastic about the new Gillette blade as we had confidently expected it would be.

We learned why. Our equipment had been over-taxed in producing 15,000,000 new razors and ten times that many blades to supply the world market at one time. Quality had been sacrificed without our realizing it. Immediately everything possible was done to bring quality back to the established Gillette standard. More than this, we determined to prevent the possibility of similar trouble occurring in the future. Accordingly we set out to develop or find a better production process, impossible as this seemed of accomplishment at the time. We consulted one authority after another, laid our problem before qualified experts everywhere. Finally we discovered and purchased for our exclusive use and at the cost of millions of dollars a manufacturing process that was amazingly superior to our own.

By this method, modern and automatic, millions of blades can be made at top speed without variation in quality. Furthermore, it produces an incomparably keen, smooth-shaving blade. We incorporated refinements of our own invention and installed the new machinery, throwing out all of our old equipment. Factory procedure was changed from start to finish.

Now we announce today's new Gillette blade, built by an entirely new process, a marvelous blade that gives cleaner, cooler shaves than you have ever before known. Every dealer in your town has this Gillette blade. None of the old blades are in stock. The price of the green Gillette package remains unchanged but the blade is new in every respect, quality, performance, and method of manufacture.

You can try today's new process Gillette blade without risking a cent. If you don't agree it is far superior, return the package to your dealer and he'll refund your money. Our reputation depends upon the proof of these claims. Being absolutely certain of the quality of this Gillette blade, we do not hesitate to make this statement over our signature.

PRICE AND PACKAGE UNCHANGED

For trade-mark reasons the green Gillette package has not been changed. We positively assure you, however, that the blade is entirely new. There is no price increase.

CHILE IS TOLD U. S. IS U. S. A. AND NOT NORTH AMERICA

Ambassador Protests Use of the Term.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 15.—The topic of the day in diplomatic quarters here is American Ambassador William S. Culbertson's demand at a meeting of the American Society of Chile for the abandonment of the terms "North America" and "North Americans" when referring to the United States and its citizens. The point has been brought up by the Chilean cabinet, though no official pronouncement is expected on the subject.

WILLIAM S. CULBERTSON. [Harris & Ewing.]

The terms to which the ambassador took exception have been steadily creeping into official documents and their use is now fairly general in all Chilean newspapers and magazines. Mr. Culbertson pointed out that the American constitution clearly states "the United States of America." Therefore, he contends, citizens of the United States are Americans and not "North Americans" as some are inclined to call them.

Press Takes Up Discussion.

In addition to diplomatic discussion, there has been considerable comment in Chilean newspapers. Most of them agree that perhaps a little more care should be taken for American susceptibilities.

El Imparcial, an evening newspaper, summed up the argument by stating:

"There is no doubt that Ambassador Culbertson was justified in giving publicity to his complaint. Evidently it is a matter of usage and common consent. The determining factor is the adoption of the term 'United States of America' in the Declaration of Independence, the title deed of national unity."

El Mercurio admits having employed the terms "Norte America" and "Norte Americano" and says that perhaps a little more caution should be exercised in the future, as there is no doubt that the terms are resented by Americans.

Not a New Protest.

"Perhaps, also," it adds, "use of the terms discriminates against the Mexicans and Canadians, who also live in North America."

The same paper recalls that diplomatic complications arose on the same issue during the last century when Ambassador John Bigler was in charge of American interests in Santiago. Employment of the terms "North America" and "North American" was so general then that the minister of foreign affairs even addressed all official communications to the "Ambassador of the United States of North America."

Finally Ambassador Bigler refused to accept delivery of official documents so addressed, and, after formally raising the matter with the government, secured an apology and a promise to abstain from use of the terms again.

FUNERAL RITES OF EASTMAN TO BE ON THURSDAY

Death Reveals Fortune Went to Charity.

Rochester, N. Y., March 15.—[Special.]—The funeral of George Eastman, self-slain camera manufacturer and philanthropist, will be held at St. Paul's Episcopal church here next Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, a brief newspaper death notice announced today. Beyond the fact that the services will be public, no details of the arrangements were given.

The Rev. George Edward Norton, S. T. D., pastor of the church, will conduct the services.

Mrs. George B. Dryden of Evanston, Ill., niece of the dead manufacturer and his only near relative, arrived here today accompanied by her husband and daughter. Announcement of the funeral plans had been withheld pending her arrival.

Tribute from Hoover.

The body will be cremated in accordance with a wish often expressed by Mr. Eastman.

Tributes to the manufacturer came from many cities and countries today. One of the earliest was that of President Hoover. It read:

"I have learned with profound regret of the death of George Eastman. He revolutionized the art of photography, bringing the kodak within the means of millions of people. By his own efforts he became one of the great industrial leaders of the world.

"He was one of the most generous and most constructive philanthropists of history. He gave strength to every movement for the public welfare of his generation."

Gave 100 Millions Away.

While he gave away $100,000,000 or more during his life time, Mr. Eastman left no more than $15,000,000 or $20,000,000 of the immense fortune he had amassed, according to Thomas J. Hargreave, a vice president of the Eastman Kodak company. Mr. Eastman retired as president of the company he founded and built up, in 1925. Associates said today that he expressed a wish at that time to die a poor man.

Dr. Audley D. Stewart, personal physician of the manufacturer, revealed today that Mr. Eastman was somewhat obsessed with a fear of invalidism as a result of the long illness he had suffered. This fear, it is believed, was largely responsible for his act of self-destruction yesterday.

ALLEGED POLICE PIPERIZER WINS GUN CASE DELAY

CRIMINAL COURT.

Lester J. Robinson, embezzlement, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Delmar Enoch and William Pryor, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in Pontiac reformatory, by Judge Walter Stanton.

ORDERS TRUCK DRIVER HELD FOR DEATH OF GIRL

John Haggard, 24 years old, of Somers, Wis., driver of an interstate truck, who was arrested after the death of Jewel Cannon, 14 years old, 800 South Ashland avenue on March 5, was ordered held to the grand jury yesterday on a charge of manslaughter by a coroner's jury. Haggard was seized after police found his abandoned truck afire on a lonely road near Bensonville, shortly after the girl was run down. Warren avenue police testified that Haggard had admitted that he was driving the car at the time of the accident, which occurred near the victim's home, and had hoped to escape detection by reporting that the car had been stolen.

Three automobile deaths in Cook county yesterday increased the county toll since Jan. 1 to 221. The victims:

Mrs. Elizabeth Masters, 76 years old, 2650 River terrace, River Grove. Died at St. Anne's hospital from injuries incurred on Monday when she was run down at Grand avenue and River terrace. The driver of the auto was Otto Schroeder, 4435 Iowa street.

Edward Bullis Jr., 5 years old. Died last night in the Des Plaines Emergency hospital of injuries he suffered yesterday afternoon when he was struck by an automobile while playing in the street in front of his home on 3d avenue near Rose avenue in Des Plaines. The driver was Edward Swabauer, 594 4th avenue, Des Plaines.

Richard Dagian, 41 years old, 2233 74th avenue, Elmwood Park. Killed late last night when the automobile which he was driving collided with another car at Neva and Wabansia avenues. The driver of the other automobile was Earl Haugland, 1938 North Neva avenue. He was held.

GIRL, 2 WOMEN DIE FROM BURNS IN 3 ACCIDENTS

Two women and a girl died yesterday as the result of burns. Laverne Lippner, 10 years old, died in St. Bernard's hospital of burns received Monday evening while playing in the basement of a playmate's home at 6758 South Racine avenue. Her clothing caught fire from a candle which the girls had lighted in "playing house."

Miss Helen Watson, 70 years old, 119 Forest avenue, Oak Park, died in the Cook county hospital of burns which she suffered March 9 when she fell against a radiator in the bathroom of her home.

Mrs. Mary Karum, 42 years old, 2007 West 21st street, was fatally burned when her nightdress caught fire as she was warming herself before a stove.

MRS. BARKHOUSE, PUBLISHER OCHS' COUSIN, IS DEAD

Succumbs Here at the Age of 87.

Mrs. Pauline J. Barkhouse, cousin of Adolph Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, died yesterday in her home in the Hotel Windermere East, 1642 East 56th street, after an illness of eighteen months. She was 87 years old.

Her two daughters, Mrs. Edna Tabor and Mrs. Samuel A. Ettelson, with Attorney Ettelson, former corporation counsel, were at her bedside when she died. A son, Arthur J. Barkhouse of Brookline, Mass., and a number of grandchildren and great grandchildren also survive.

Mrs. Barkhouse was born in Louisville, Ky., on June 23, 1844, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Selliger. In 1860 she married Julius Barkhouse shortly before he marched away to the civil war as a major in the Rover guards. In 1870 Mr. Barkhouse founded the Kentucky Distilling company in Louisville and subsequently became vice president of the Louisville board of trade.

He retired in 1900 when he and Mrs. Barkhouse moved to Chicago. Mr. Barkhouse died in 1921.

Mrs. Barkhouse was godmother to Mr. Ochs. He lived in the Barkhouse home in Louisville, when, in his teens, he was learning the newspaper business. Mr. Ochs came to Chicago several times to be present at the celebration of her birthday, the last occasion being in 1929, when Mrs. Barkhouse held a family reunion.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 11 a. m. in the chapel at 936 East 47th street. Rabbi Louis L. Mann will conduct the service. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery.

Pick Bundlie, Mahoney in St. Paul Mayoral Primary

St. Paul, Minn., March 15.—(AP)—Gerhard J. Bundlie, incumbent, and William Mahoney, labor leader, were nominated for mayor in today's municipal primary, unofficial returns tonight indicated. They will run against each other in the city election May 3. Returns from 160 precincts out of 237 gave Mahoney 14,772 votes, against 14,695 for Bundlie.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

The funeral services for Burrage T. Farwell, 15 years old, grandson of Arthur Burrage Farwell, to be held today at the Winnetka Congregational church, will not be private, as stated in yesterday's TRIBUNE. Only the interment will be private.

Gifts should be directed to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

TELLS OF SPYING ON HUSBAND AND HIS SECRETARY

Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday ordered Fred J. Read, cashier of an investment house, to pay temporary alimony of $140 a month to Mrs. Kathryn N. Read, 1019 North Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, pending trial of her bill for separate maintenance.

Mrs. Read charges her husband with desertion and adultery. Yesterday she testified that on the nights of Feb. 1 and 3 she went with detectives and stood outside the apartment of Mrs. Ethel Much, her husband's secretary, at 5730 Stony Island avenue. She testified that she saw her husband, in pajamas, come to the window and raise it, while Mrs. Much was in the background in a nightgown.

On Jan. 1, Mrs. Read charged, her husband demanded a divorce, saying he wanted to marry Mrs. Much. When she refused, she asserted, he cut down the payments he had been making voluntarily for her support and that of their daughter, Carol Elizabeth, 8 years old.

MARCH OFFERS BETTER SIGNS FOR REVIVAL

Tribune Survey Cites Many Factors.

BY O. A. MATHER.

While the long-expected and hoped for improvement in business has not yet materialized, it is the consensus of most observers that progress has been and is being made in laying foundations for tangible betterment that will come later. One of the obstacles to trade activity has been the steady contraction in credit, but this has resulted from several causes and may be quickly reversed at the first sign of expansion.

"The organization of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the passage of the Glass-Steagall bill should soon provide new sources of credit which will stimulate trade and industry," the current issue of the Chicago Tribune Survey says. "During February there was further contraction in the use of credit. The amount of loans of banks declined by 11 per cent, continuing a process which has been going on for more than two years. The federal reserve system helped along the drying up of credit by withdrawing from use more of its own credit, continuing a practice to which it has given strict adherence since October.

Signs Better in March.

"The continuing decline in industrial output, car loadings and retail sales were the inescapable consequences of the persistent retirement of bank credit. A further decline in commodity prices was a further reflection of results flowing from the same cause. By the beginning of March, however, several constructive factors of importance were beginning to take definite form. Means have been provided to insure more credit being put to use. The facilities for credit expansion and for the stimulation of price improvement have been made available. Some time may elapse before these facilities are brought into play, but unless the depression has completely paralyzed Americans and frozen their ingenuity, we shall soon see enterprising firms borrowing, pushing sales, expanding production, increasing employment and stimulating into activity more timid spirits to do likewise."

A somewhat similar view was expressed by Col. Leonard P. Ayres, well known economist, in the monthly business review of the Cleveland Trust company.

"Business conditions are genuinely better in March than they were in December, January and February, despite the fact that business activity is not greater now than it was then," he says. "The improvement is in the fundamentals rather than on the surface. It is present, in fact, even although it is to but a slight degree reflected in the figures. In recent weeks there has been a long series of developments that are either directly conducive to business improvement or are safeguards against continued decline."

Banks' Position Improves.

Col. Ayres also cites the formation of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the passage of the Glass-Steagall bill. Other factors are the decrease in bank suspensions, the return of hoarded money to the banks, the almost continuous advance in bond prices, the checking of the long decline in commodity prices, an increase in pig iron production and increased production in several commodities.

Actual trade developments continued conflicting yesterday. Loading of revenue freight for the week ended March 5 totaled 559,439 cars, according to the American Railway association. This marked an increase of 23,941 cars over the preceding week, when loadings were reduced by the Washington's birthday holiday. Therefore the increase is sharply below seasonal proportions. Moreover, the current total was 163,776 cars below a year ago. Mild weather, which reduced coal loadings by 12,836 cars, was a large factor in keeping total traffic down. Such loadings were the lowest for any week since Dec. 26, 1931. Despite this fact, loadings on 33 roads were the largest for any week so far this year.

At 26% of Capacity.

Steel ingot output this week is holding around 26 per cent of mill capacity and shows no material change from the February average, according to the American Metal Market. However, some steel interests have begun a move toward firmer prices. The Inland Steel and Acme Steel companies yesterday advanced prices an average of $2 a ton on sheet steel for second quarter delivery. Other steel producers are expected to follow and it is expected the price increase will be extended to plates and bars.

Petroleum production increased slightly last week. The daily gross crude oil output was 2,145,600 barrels, an increase of 4,750 barrels a day over the previous week, according to the American Petroleum institute. Refineries operated at 56.3 per cent of capacity, compared with 53.7 per cent in the preceding week. Stocks of gasoline increased 232,000 barrels to a total of 45,661,000 barrels.

Schwab in Creditors' List of Pynchon & Co.

New York, March 15.—(AP)—In the list of larger creditors of the failed New York Stock exchange and banking firm of Pynchon & Co., the name of Charles M. Schwab, steel master, appears with a claim of $22,091. The smallness of Mr. Schwab's claim is mildly surprising to Wall street.

Chicago Bank Dividend Still 18 Per Cent

Two of Chicago's large downtown banks took divergent dividend action yesterday. The directors of the Northern Trust company maintained its 18 per cent annual rate by declaring the regular quarterly dividend of 4½ per cent, payable April 1 to stockholders of record March 15. It was said after the meeting that savings deposits have increased more than 60 per cent in the last year.

Directors of the Peoples Trust and Savings bank reduced the annual rate from 12 to 6 per cent by declaring a quarterly payment of 1½ per cent, compared with 3 per cent heretofore paid. It was announced that while earnings for January and February exceeded those for the same months of 1931, the reduction in the dividend was made in pursuance of a conservative policy in building up contingent reserves.

Empire Trust Cuts Dividend.

Another important New York banking institution, the Empire Trust company, reduced its annual dividend rate today by declaring a quarterly distribution of 50 cents, establishing the stock on a $2 basis, compared with a previous rate of $3.20. A year ago this month the company increased its rate of payment from $2.40 to $3.20 yearly by including in the regular rate extras previously declared.

Leroy Baldwin, president, stated that earnings since Jan. 1 indicate better than 90 cents a share on the company's stock for the first quarter.

Directors of the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company also held a dividend meeting and voted the regular quarterly of $1.50 a share.

The Acme Steel company placed its stock on a $1.20 annual basis by declaring 30 cents quarterly. In the preceding quarter 40 cents a share was paid; last October 50 cents was paid, and before that the stock paid 62½ cents quarterly.

The American Fork and Hoe company declared a dividend of 12½ cents on the common stock. Previously the company paid 37½ cents quarterly. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 on the preferred was declared.

The Loose-Wiles Biscuit company declared its usual extra dividend of 10 cents a share in addition to the regular quarterly of 65 cents a share.

The New England Public Service company took no action on its dividends on common due at this time. In the preceding quarter 25 cents in cash besides 1¾ per cent in stock were declared. The company voted the regular dividends on the four classes of preferred.

Howe Sound Cuts Dividend.

The Howe Sound company declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents, placing the issue on a $1 annual basis. Previously 50 cents quarterly was paid.

In spite of the reduction, Howe Sound still holds the distinction of being one of the few still on a dividend basis. The shares of twenty-one copper companies are listed on the stock exchange. Only American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, Granby, Howe Sound, Magma and Noranda pay dividends. Directors of Granby will meet today and the Magma meeting is set for Thursday. Smelters and Cerro have no meeting set until April.

The American Brake Shoe and Foundry company today declared a quarterly dividend of 40 cents a share on common. The same amount was paid in the preceding quarter.

The American Maize Products company today declared a 25 cent quarterly dividend, thus halving the former annual dividend rate.

The Interlake Steamship company today declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents, establishing an anual rate of $1. Formerly the issue was on a $2 annual basis.

Directors of Alles & Fisher, Inc., today voted a quarterly dividend of 15 cents a share, thereby establishing a 60 cent annual basis, against $1 heretofore paid.

Imperial Chemical Industries of Great Britain, Ltd., declared a final common dividend for 1931 of 3 per cent, less tax, making 4½ per cent for the entire year.

Cuts Salaries and Dividends.

New York, March 15.—(AP)—Employés as well as stockholders of Chase National bank on April 1 will be asked to take a cut in their regular stipends received from the bank. The bank announced today that a salary reduction affecting all officers and clerical staffs would go into effect on that day "coincident with the return of the stock of the bank to a 15 per cent annual dividend basis." The new dividend rate is $3 annually, against $4 paid last year.

The pay cut plan provides that employés receiving less than $1,200 a year will not be affected. Employés receiving from $1,200 to $5,000 will be reduced 5 per cent in pay and all employés and officers receiving over $5,000 will be cut 5 per cent up to that amount and 10 per cent on any amount received in excess of the $5,000 figure.

FRANCE RELAXES BAN ON YANKEE APPLES NOW AT THE PORTS

PARIS, March 15.—(AP)—The French government tonight lifted a blanket embargo on fresh fruits from the United States, Canada and several other countries, imposing instead conditions under which fruit will be admitted. The embargo was imposed last week to prevent the entrance of the San Jose scale into France.

The minister of agriculture order also made a special provision for fruit in French ports or in transit when the decree of March 8 was promulgated.

Fruit importers protested when the embargo was clamped on last week, declaring losses to American shippers would amount to many thousands of dollars, because importers or shippers could not reship before the fruit spoiled.

The measure apparently was aimed especially at apples, on which the San Jose scale appears.

FOREIGN MARTS RECOVER FROM KREUGER DEATH

Exchange Rates Also Show Firmness.

PARIS, March 15.—(AP)—Stock in the Kreuger & Toll company, one of the enterprises of Ivar Kreuger, Swedish "match king," who committed suicide here last week, was stronger today on the Paris bourse. The quotation at the close was 61 and the high during the day was 65. Yesterday the stock was 50.

The financial newspaper L'Information estimated that the total French capital invested in all Kreuger enterprises was $74,000,000. The Agence Economique Financiere made public an estimate that banks had invested only $4,000,000 of this amount and that the rest was scattered among the public.

London Market Advances.

LONDON, March 15.—(AP)—A more confident tone, better continental advices and moderate buying raised prices generally and caused a steady tone at the close. Eastman Kodak issues were marked down 8 points, although no sales were reported.

Berlin Market Strong.

Stockholm Market to Reopen.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 15.—(AP)—The Stockholm Stock exchange, closed Saturday because of the death of Ivar Kreuger, will reopen on March 21, it was announced today through the Swedish News exchange.

Scandinavian Exchanges Recover.

New York, March 15.—(AP)—Scandinavian currencies made sharp recoveries in the foreign exchange market today. Swedish kroner rallied 25 points net. The Norwegian rate rose a few points and then fell back to the previous close. The Danish quotation crossed 20 cents, closing at 9.94, up 5 points.

Sterling and the French franc were steady in common with other European currencies. The Japanese yen strengthened on reports that the present government might be replaced by one opposed to inflation and favorable to peace in China. London cables closed at $3.63, up ⅜ of a cent.

STEEL CO. OF CANADA SHOWS PROFITS FOR ITS 1931 OPERATIONS

MONTREAL, Que., March 15.—(AP)—Manufacturing profits of $2,058,653 for 1931 were shown in the annual financial statement of the Steel Company of Canada, Ltd., issued today. This compared with $3,219,009 in 1930. The addition of investment income of $365,818 made a total income of $2,424,471, while the company withdrew $661,191 accumulated surplus to make up the common dividend. The net profit before dividends for the year was $598,550 against $1,741,282 in 1930. This was equal to 83 cents a share on the preferred and common stock combined as compared with $2.42 a share in 1930.

Iowa Bank Liability Law Before Supreme Court

Washington, D. C., March 15.—(AP)—The Iowa law making stockholders in state banks personally liable for the par value of the stock they own was supported in oral argument in the Supreme court today by J. A. Murray, in a case brought by Amos Shriver to prevent the Woodbine Savings bank of Woodbine, Ia., from compelling him to pay an assessment of $99 a share on the 26 shares of stock he sold for one dollar a share.

Boston Edison Proposes Financing Through Stock

The Boston Edison company will endeavor to finance itself this year through the medium of new stock, shareholders were informed at the annual meeting yesterday. The company has obligations amounting to about $70,000,000, maturing in the fall and winter. The management is said to contemplate rights for the stockholders.

MANDEL BROS. REPORTS PICKUP IN TRANSACTIONS

Transactions in Mandel Brothers store in 1931 were 347,600 greater than in the preceding year, Edwin F. Mandel, president, says in the pamphlet report issued yesterday. In the face of this increase in transactions the company was able to reduce its expenses by $1,117,271, the report reveals.

The operating results shown by the report are approximately the same as those reported in the preliminary statement. Net sales were $19,644,767 as compared with $24,782,824 in the preceding year. Net loss was $371,270 slightly less than the preliminary estimate, and substantially below the net loss of $867,569 reported for 1930.

The Jan. 31 balance sheet shows current assets of $5,821,563, including cash and marketable securities of $1,508,819, against current liabilities of $1,575,429. The company had no bank loans at the close of the year.

STRAWN TALKS TO EUROPE ON DEBTS AND REPARATIONS

BERLIN, March 15.—(AP)—Silas Strawn, at Chicago, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, in an address tonight, advised Europe to "settle your repartaions problem among yourselves, then you will find America symphathetic on the question of war debts."

Speaking to the American Chamber of Commerce in Berlin, Strawn said America could not afford to lose 28 billion dollars loaned to Europe governmentally and privately since the beginning of the war, but would "treat leniently with her debtors in accordance with actual conditions."

MADRID, March 15.—(AP)—Minister of Agriculture Marcelino Domingos' decree establishing a five year cotton planting program designed to free Spain from the necessity of importing cotton was approved by the cabinet today.

N.Y. Life Head Optimistic on Rail Outlook

New York, March 15.—(AP)—Despite the "unprecedented economic stress in 1931," Thomas A. Buckner, president of the New York Life Insurance company, today informed policy holders that, circumstances considered, the year was a very satisfactory one for the company.

During the year, Mr. Buckner stated in his annual report, the company's assets were increased by more than $101,000,000, while the gain in total income was $21,944,989. There are now, he said, approximately 2,000,000 policy holders insured for a total of more than $7,650,000,000.

The report showed the company's assets on Dec. 31 last aggregated $1,890,144,880 and its liabilities $1,770,472,137. Of the assets, cash, government, state, county, and municipal bonds totaled $172,501,040. The largest percentage of the assets was in first mortgages on city properties, totaling $547,233,154, and the next in railr ad bonds to the amount of $383,112,490.

Valued at Market.

President Buckner stated that all securities listed among the assets were valued as of market quotations on Dec. 31, instead of June 31, 1931, as permitted by the national convention of insurance commissioners.

The report expressed optimism regarding the future outlook for the railroads and called attention to the fact that the "amount of the company's railroad bonds in default of interest is so small that it is of no material consequence."

In conclusion Mr. Buckner expressed disapproval of "excessive taxes" imposed on life insurance savings. The company's reserve of $6,463,925 for taxes, he said, is equal to more than 10 per cent of the policy holders' 1932 dividends.

Less Insurance Sold.

New life insurance production in February was 8.6 per cent less than in February, 1931, and the aggregate for the first two months of the year was 1.2 per cent below that for the same period last year, it was announced today by the Association of Life Insurance Presidents.

For February the new business of all classes written by the 44 member companies was $833,324,000 compared with $911,973,000 during February, 1931. For the two months' period the total was $1,778,172,000 contrasted with $1,800,272,000 last year.

Cox Succeeds Wrigley on Investment Trust Board

James C. Cox was elected a director of the Manhattan-Dearborn corporation yesterday, to suceed the late William Wrigley Jr. Mr. Cox is vice president and treasurer of the William Wrigley Jr. company and is also identified in an official capacity with several other Wrigley enterprises. Manhattan-Dearborn is an investment trust formed in 1929 by a group of Chicagoans including Mr. Wrigley, Lawrence Sterne, John Hertz, Albert D. Lasker, and Charles S. Pearce. The same men have been associated in many business ventures in recent years.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 15.—Stocks wabbled irregularly lower in sluggish trading today.

The market appeared to have shaken off the nervousness it contracted over the Kreuger affair, but being in a mood to look on the dark side of things it managed to find other matters to worry over, the necessity for paying income taxes before midnight, for instance, the receivership move of a large candy manufacturing concern, a batch of new dividend reductions and the prospects of others to come.

Rail Shares a Drag.

Railroad and utility shares were a drag on the list. The carriers were particularly reactionary, being influenced presumably by unfavorable forecasts regarding the showing of carloadings. The rails have been in disfavor for several days, however, and the carloadings report of course must be set down as merely one more count in the new indictment against them, a bill which includes such things as growing motorized transport competition and the continued absence of business pickup in quarters from which the roads draw the bulk of their income.

Shares of Van Sweringen controlled roads were outstanding selling targets in the group. Chesapeake and Ohio broke more than 2 points to a new bear market low and was able to recover only a fraction of its loss in a mild rally which bolstered up the general list in the early afternoon. Missouri Pacific common was heavy and the preferred finished nearly a point below its previous close. Chesapeake corporation lost nearly two points, and both Erie and Nickel Plate were compelled to cede ground.

Atchison Declines.

Outside the Van Sweringen group, Atchison was taken for a ride of nearly 2 points and Delaware and Hudson, New Haven and others lost from 1 to 2 points or so.

Commentators agree that the action of the railroad stocks in the last week or so has been one of the really depressing factors of the market.

MAKE NEW LONG TERM LEASE AT 127 W. MONROE

Property Once Occupied by Central Trust.

BY AL CHASE.

In order to make the property at 121-127 West Monroe street more equitable and valuable the original ninety-nine year lease, negotiated in 1888, has been canceled and a new lease for 105 years and ten months from Jan. 1, 1932, has been concluded between the 125 West Monroe Street Building corporation, as lessee, and the Chicago Home for Incurables, lessor. The property fronts ninety feet on Monroe street and has a depth of 198 feet, and is improved with the bank building formerly occupied by the old Central Trust Company of Illinois.

JOSEPH E. OTIS.

Joseph E. Otis, chairman of the board of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, declared the old lease was not a commercial lease, and made no provision for the erection of a new building when such was needed.

"The new lease was negotiated in order to make a more equitable and valuable holding," said Mr. Otis. "The property is now an asset. We have no negotiations under way with owners of the adjoining properties and have no contemplated improvement of the property ourselves at the present time."

According to the county records the new lease calls for an annual rental of $20,000 for the first ten years; then $25,000 annually for the next five years; $32,000 for ninety years, and $26,666 for the final ten months. The full term rental will be $3,231,666.

The lessee will pay all taxes for the year 1928 and thereafter and has an option to purchase the fee at any time during the first ten years for $800,000.

The original lease was dated Nov. 1, 1888, and was to Rand, McNally & Co., and called for $16,000 annually until 1965, and $24,000 yearly for the balance of the term. The lessee had the right to extend the term fifty years, which would have brought the maturity to 2037, the year the new lease expires. Fisher, Boyden, Bell, Bold & Marshall were attorneys.

S. S. Kresge Lease.

The S. S. Kresge company has leased the entire first floor, except a small corner unit, and a portion of the second floor at the southeast corner of Lincoln, Lawrence, and Western avenues, for a twenty year term on a percentage of sales basis, which it is expected will return approximately $250,000 for the entire period. The space just leased has been occupied by Dieden Brothers, with a department store, for the last twenty-five years. The latter firm will move to new quarters at 4810-12 North Western avenue.

According to Cornelius Teninga, of Teninga Brothers & Co., who represented the lessors, Charles F. Grey and Newton F. Grey, trustees of the Charles F. Grey estate, as well as the lessee, the S. S. Kresge company, will spend more than $30,000 in modernizing the property. A new entrance will be built to the second floor. The remodeled corner store, which will be rented, fronts twenty-two feet on Lincoln and forty-seven on Lawrence. All other space not used by the Kresge company will be given over to professional offices.

BUSINESS NOTES

Stockholders of Marshall Field & Co. reelected the retiring directors at their annual meeting yesterday. The directors held a brief session but adjourned without holding an election of officers or setting any date for this purpose. It is expected that all the present officers will be reelected.

Elmer F. Blue, assistant general solicitor of the subsidiary companies of the United States Steel corporation at Duluth since 1920, was elected general solicitor. Mr. Blue succeeds Frank D. Adams, who died suddenly last Jan. 30.

J. F. Bulger, formerly of J. F. Bulger & Co., has become associated with Lamborn, Hutchings & Co. here. Mr. Bulger is a member of the Chicago Stock exchange and Chicago Board of Trade.

The Chicago Financial Advertisers will hold a discussion meeting today at which they will consider the recommendations made in a talk last week by Wirt Wright, president of the State Bank and Trust Company of Evanston. Leaders of the discussion will be James S. Baley, chairman; H. Fred Wilson, J. Mills Easton and Ruth Gates.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 7,000; hogs, 15,000; sheep, 12,000.

Hog buyers bore down on prices in the absence of eastern competition yesterday. They carried the top down 20c to $4.80, and the general average down 10c to $4.40 before more aggressive buying by larger houses halted the downturn.

The fact that hog prices here got relatively higher than at other places has effectively curbed buying by shippers.

This opened the way for a drive on prices by smaller local interests. Outsiders bought only 12 per cent of receipts during the first two days of this week, against 28 per cent a week ago and 20 per cent a year ago. Many of the 8,000 hogs left in the pens are reported to be locked up for later in the week on orders from the country. Movement of supplies in the west has been smaller since last week's close due to the decline.

No changes were noted in hog futures yesterday. May mediums were offered at $5.25 and bid $5.00. Buyers and sellers were far apart in other months. Light weights for today's delivery carried $4.75 bids on the "to arrive" trade.

Finishers Buying Steers.

Buying in the cattle yards yesterday again converged in common to medium grades, leaving good kinds open to another cut of mostly 25c. Steers selling above the $6.00 line were slow at the decline, while poorer classes at $4.75@5.50 got plenty of action at Monday's quotations.

Bulk of all cattle sold at $5.25@7.00. Choice 1,220 lb averages topped at $8.25. An encouraging sign is the interest country buyers are showing in fleshy steers lately. One shipment of 100 Hereford cattle averaging 1,001 lbs went to the country for finishing at $6.65. Until this week demand for replacement stock has been almost negligible. Little change was noted in butcher stock yesterday. Calves broke $1.00, despite the advance in lambs.

With the exception of cattle, live stock markets lately are less susceptible to the influence of bearish news. There is a more general note of optimism in trade circles, though leaders are a little reluctant about favoring the strong side. They are more inclined to let the market shift for itself and work stronger of its own accord. Cattle are still selling about in line with the low point of the winter, but hogs show gains of 50@75c and lambs are $2.50@3.00 above the low spot. Packing houses admit that the dwindling supply is having effect.

Meat Famine Possible.

"There is every possibility of a meat famine with the return of normal buying in the next few months," said R. S. Matheson of Swift's advisory board. He adds that meat is selling better now than earlier in the winter, principally because receipts have been abnormally low since the first of the year. Meat prices are far from being dangerously high when compared to other food products, he points out. Consumer buying is still in favor of meat. Stocks of meat in storage houses are below normal. A government report showed 50,943,000 lbs of beef in store on March 1 this year, against 67,622,000 lbs a year ago and a five year average of 80,752,000 lbs. There has been an out of storage movement in beef and lamb the last month. Pork in storage the first of the month at 806,826,000 lbs compares with 853,408,000 lbs a year ago and a five year average of 828,262,00 lbs. Lamb is about as low as it has ever been. Stocks on hand at 1,756,000 lbs compare with 3,573,000 lbs a year ago and with a five year average of 4,065,000 lbs.

Lambs Reach $8.25.

Another sensational advance in lamb prices yesterday carried the top to $8.25, highest since last August. All interests went up to $8.10 for choice grades and one outstanding lot to the Illinois Packing company fetched $8.25. At the low time this winter the top was down to $5.35 and a great deal of the time it has been hard to beat $6.00. Fully $2.00 of the advance has been recorded the last month.

LONDON WOOL MARKET.

LONDON, March 15.—(AP)—At the wool auction today offerings met with spirited competition at full current rates, the home trade, France, and Germany buying freely. There were some withdrawals among low greasy crossbreds and slipes, owing to sellers' firm limits. Of the 9,832 bales offered, 8,034 were sold.

VARIED FACTORS SERVE TO CHECK WHEAT MARKET

Prices Decline Following Drop in Stocks.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat traders still have to contend with factors which normally have little or no effect on the market. Had it not been for the weakness in securities and selling of futures by houses with eastern connections yesterday, many operators felt that a higher level of prices might have been established. There was an advance of as much as ¾c at the opening due to the failure of Liverpool to reflect the sharp break in the local market late Monday, with May touching 58¾c.

Above 58½c for the May there was rather persistent selling, while around 58c there was a good class of commission house buying in small lots. This held the wheat market within relatively narrow limits until around the noon hour when stocks turned weak, and under 58c some stop loss orders were caught with a quick dip to 57c. However, the decline was orderly and support was in evidence on the way down.

Closing trades were on a good rally from the inside figure, with the finish unchanged to ¼c lower. March was 36c; May, 38⅜c; July, 41⅛c, and September, 42⅛@42¼c at the close. Country offerings to arrive were lighter, with purchases of 30,000 bu reported. The March-May spread was only 2⅜c at the finish yesterday, compared with 4c recently, although there has been no improvement in the shipping demand.

Oats were firmer early with other grains only to weaken with them later and close on a rally, with prices unchanged to ⅛c lower. May was 24¾c and July, 24¾c. Forecast for warmer weather was expected to result in a resumption in seeding operations in the southwest.

There was nothing in the foreign demand for rye that attracted attention, and the trade has gone back to watching the wheat market for incentive. There was an early advance, followed by a break with some stop loss orders uncovered, but the finish was on a rally with the close unchanged to ⅝c lower. May was 46⅞c, and July, 48⅜c at the last.

BUTTER FUTURES DROP TO RECORD LOW IN CHICAGO

Consumers were heartened, even if thousands of dairy farmers in the middle west watched with misgivings yesterday, as market quotations on butter for fall delivery reached the lowest figure on record at the Chicago Mercantile exchange. November storage offerings at 20 cents a pound found few buyers, while large stocks of extra fine fresh butter were going unsold at 22½ cents.

Why pay more than HOUSEHOLD'S LOW RATE?

The nationally known HOUSEHOLD LOAN PLAN offers cash loans of $300 or less to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Loans above $100 and up to $300 are made at a rate less than the usual small loan rate.

Commonwealth Customers—Pay LESS-for-LOANS

$2.03 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signatures of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

NO FEES. You get full amount of the loan and up to 26 months to repay. Interest at the Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.
